

Tenth Anniversary Founders' Day Observed

Methodist College observed its 10th anniversary Wednesday, November 2, with a special Founders' Day service at 11:30 a.m. in the student union building.

Featured speaker was Terry Sanford, chairman of the college's board of trustees and a former governor of North Carolina. In his address on "Retrospect and Prospect," Mr. Sanford declared that "Methodist College has justified all the early efforts and hopes.

"In our own endeavors here, we both set an example and point to a nationwide challenge. If private colleges are to serve their purpose and flourish, private financial support must be doubled in the next five years," Mr. Sanford said.

"The church-related college has done more for our history than serve religious purposes. It dominated the early American educational scene. Only recently has the enrollment at state institutions passed the enrollment at private institutions. During these years the church-related college made significant contributions to the shaping of a democratic society, providing social and economic mobility for a developing nation."

Enlarging on his statement that private support must be increased if these colleges are to survive, Mr. Sanford made the following three recommendations:

"1. That the North Carolina Methodist Conference double its allocation to its colleges. Even if the churches do not immediately follow suit, and even though we might fall short for several years, at least we will have set the goal which we must have to preserve the proper role and influence of the church.

"2. That the contributions from Fayetteville be doubled.

"3. That the state of North Carolina institute a scholarship program, providing a scholarship payment of at least $200 for every student attending a private college in North Carolina. This would relieve the state of the higher costs required of it when the student attends a state institution, because the state must now put out about $400 for every college student in a public college."

Methodist College Chorus Sings for Convocation

The Hon. Terry Sanford

Mr. Sanford was elected first chairman of the Methodist College board of trustees on July 3, 1956, prior to the chartering of the college on November 1, 1956.

The Founders' Day program was presided over by Dr. L. Stacy Weaver, who has served as president of the college since his election on June 22, 1957 as the college's first president.

George Vossler, president of the Fayetteville College Foundation, extended greetings on behalf of that organization. The Foundation was formed in 1956 to give financial support to Methodist College and to stimulate continuous community interest.

Greetings from the Methodist Church were given by the Rev. James Auman of Raleigh, executive director of the Association of Methodist Colleges of the N. C. Conference.

Dr. Allen P. Brantley of Burlington and the Rev. O. L. Hathaway of Durham, both trustees, gave the invocation and the benediction, respectively.

A program of special music was provided by the College Chorus, the College Wind Ensemble, and a trio comprised of Rodney Hill, flutist, Dr. Willis Gates, violinist, and Dr. John Tobler, pianist. Mr. Hill and Dr. Gates are members of the music faculty and Dr. Tobler is professor of political science. The Chorus was conducted by Alan Porter, voice instructor, and the Wind Ensemble by Mr. Hill.

Following the Founders' Day ceremony, the trustees met for lunch and their annual fall meeting. They discussed bids for the construction of a new administration building, a fine arts building-auditorium, a chapel, and an addition to the student union building. Following a report by President L. Stacy Weaver, the trustees voted to reject the bids which were opened in October and to advertise for new bids. The new bids are expected to be opened on November 22 and to be acted on shortly thereafter.

Significant Additions Made To Faculty

This year's faculty of 57 members represents a 16 percent increase in size over last year's of 49. The number of faculty members holding doctoral degrees has almost doubled within the past year, ranging from the 15 with doctorates at the beginning of the 1965-66 year to the 25 holding doctorates at the start of the 1966-67 year. The new doctoral additions represent a 66 percent increase over those holding such degrees on September 1, 1965.

New faculty members include: Dr. Walter Blackstock, professor of English; Miss Diane Cawman, instructor in physical education; Raymond L. Conley, assistant professor of English and speech; Dr. William C. Cooper, professor of chemistry; Dr. Yolanda Cowley, associate professor of Spanish; Dr. Anna Douglas, associate professor of psychology and dean of women; Donald Green, instructor in art.

Also, Mrs. Janelle Henwood, instructor in English; Rodney Hill, instructor in music and band director; Mrs. Guler Johnson, instructor in physics and mathematics; Dr. Anthony Kalina, associate professor of history; Rowland Matteson, assistant professor of chemistry and mathematics; Dr. Lorenzo Plyler, assistant professor of religion; Arthur Reinke, assistant professor of English and mathematics; Dr. Veselin Sarenac, assistant professor of German and philosophy.

Also, Bruce Shelley, instructor in physical education; Dr. King Wang, professor of political science; J. Allan Wilson, assistant professor of economics and business; Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, assistant librarian; C. H. Aderholdt, assistant professor of sociology; Eldon Woodcock, instructor in religion; and Mrs. Betty Cline, assistant professor of sociology and director of guidance and placement.

In addition to the faculty members presently holding doctorates, at least eight others have progressed well beyond the master's degree and are nearing the completion of their doctoral program.

sculpture and painting. Mr. Green previously has exhibited in galleries in the Chicago area.

Miss Stella Robbins, cataloguing librarian, attended the American Library Association's annual conference in New York City during July.

Two members of the science faculty, Mrs. Pauline Longest and Philip Crutchfield, accompanied members of two science classes on a field trip to the Duke Marine Laboratories at Beaufort during the week-end of October 14-16.

A play by Dr. Garland Knott, college chaplain, has been accepted for publication by "The Progressive Farmer," a monthly magazine widely distributed throughout the southern United States. The play, "One to Grow On," is designed for use by church groups in connection with the Lord's Acre program on tithing.

Dr. John Tobler, Area chairman of Social Sciences, attended the American Political Science convention in New York City in September.

The Rev. William P. Lowdermilk, assistant director of public relations, visited the Holy Land during August.

Alan Porter, instructor in voice, attended the National Fellowship of Methodist Musicians at Lake Junaluska during the summer.

Mrs. Longest, president of the M. C. unit of the N. C. Education Association, represented the college at a recent state NCEA meeting in Raleigh.

Dr. Karl Berns, professor of education and psychology, attended the National Education Association convention in Miami Beach, June 25-July 1. This was the 36th annual NEA convention that Dr. Berns, formerly assistant executive secretary of the NEA, has attended.

President L. Stacy Weaver, Dean Samuel Womack and Director of Admissions S. R. Edwards appeared before a committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Commission on Colleges, in Atlanta on October 27.

Dr. Jacob Shumelda, Librarian, represented the College at the annual meeting of the Southern Library Association in Atlanta, October 26-29.

Dr. Vearl McBride and Dr. Berns attended a regional meeting of the Chairmen of Departments of Education in North Carolina Colleges and Universities under auspices of the Department of Public Instruction on October 18. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss, informally, some of the problems relating to teacher certification.

Bobby Crisp and Mrs. Longest, of the science faculty, and Charles Matthews, English instructor, attended a District NCEA Meeting in Wilmington on October 21.

With The Faculty

A new volume of poetry, "Leaves Before the Wind," by Dr. Walter Blackstock, Area chairman of Language and Literature, was published in October. At a tea hosted by the English Department on October 27 to introduce the book, Dr. Blackstock autographed copies of the new poetry book, his ninth.

An exhibition of original work by Donald Green, M.C.'s new instructor in art, is currently on view in the college library. Included is recent work in both
