College is more than term papers and exams. It is dorm elections and concerts . . . off-campus internships and basketball games . . . senate meetings and seminars. At Methodist College you have a chance to develop as a complete individual, realizing your potential personality in a campus community where people care about each other.

Traditions are being made at Methodist College. We opened to students in 1960, and students have played a major role in the direction our college has taken. As a fully-accredited liberal arts senior college, we offer quality education and encourage academic excellence. Innovations in the academic program are being made continuously.

Undergraduate degrees are offered in art, biology, chemistry, economics and business administration, elementary teacher education, English, French, history, mathematics, music, religion, sociology, Spanish and political science. Our education program prepares elementary school teachers and secondary school teachers of English, French, Spanish, mathematics, science, and social studies, and special teachers of general music. In addition to our regular four-year program, we offer a special three-year degree program to highly-qualified high school graduates entering college for the first time. Personalized degree-completion programs for military personnel are available also.

Among less than 1,000 students, you will receive benefits of small-class instruction and faculty counseling. You'll never get lost in the crowd at Methodist. You'll belong to a small, friendly community. Our students come from many states and a few foreign countries. Our faculty is highly-qualified, creative and dedicated. Inter-collegiate sports activities, campus clubs and organizations, and college-city fine arts events bring students together for challenge and pleasure.

You'll find Methodist College six miles north of downtown Fayetteville and sixty miles south of Raleigh, North Carolina. Our uniquely modern campus is terraced on 600 acres of rolling woodlands near the Cape Fear River.
