Conferences Keep Campus Busy President Weaver Announces Plans For Retirement

Summer of '72 was a busy time on the Methodist College campus. Summer Conferences and various groups were here throughout the three-month period.

The Charlotte Blume School of Dance held a recital in Reeves Auditorium May 19 and 20. This is the second year that this event has been held on campus. The LaFayette Room of the Davis Memorial Library benefits from the proceeds of the recital.

Over one hundred young people from Belmont United Methodist Church Youth Choir in Nashville, Tennessee toured the campus on June 12 and 13. A group from McKeesport, Pennsylvania, the home church of Mr. Alan Porter, voice prothe direction of Mr. John Dressler, Minister of Music at Peachtree Road United Methodist Church in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Annual Conference Session of the United Methodist Youth Fellowship (ACS) had an increase in the number of delegates over the previous years. The Reverend Howard Hanger returned for the second consecutive year as the chief resource person, July 16-21. The multi-media presentation of Bernstein's Mass was the focal point of the week's activities which closed with a contemporary celebration of communion on the central mall of the campus.

Over three hundred cheerleaders from five eastern states

Methodist College President L. Stacy Weaver announced today his plans for retirement by the end of this fiscal year. The announcement came during the Methodist College sixteenth Founders' Day Assembly in Reeves Auditorium at 10:30 a.m.

President Weaver pointed out that having reached the age as specified for retirement by the college by-laws he will step down by June 30, 1973. "At a later time I shall express to the Board of Trustees, administrative officers, faculty, students, employees, and other interested friends the appreciation which I feel for the assistance which they have given in building Methodist College and bringing it to its present state of development." At the close of the Assembly, President Weaver reflected his varied civic and educational roles.

When President L. Stacy Weaver assumed the presidency of Methodist College at its founding date in 1957, he pledged the yet unborn institution to academic excellence and the Christian concept of been instrumental in the development of the college from its infancy to the viable institution which it now is.

Three State governors have appointed President Weaver to State commissions. Gov. William B. Umstead appointed him to the Commission on Public School Law, during which time he served as secretary and helped draft the current state school law. Under Gov. Luther Hodges, Pres. Weaver served as vice chairman of the Public School Finance Commission. Gov. Terry Sanford placed him on the Commission for Educational Television which extended educational channel 4 to the entire state.

For nine years President Weaver served as the chairman of the North Carolina State Evaluation Committee on

Methodist Church Youth Choir in Nashville, Tennessee toured the campus on June 12 and 13. A group from McKeesport, Pennsylvania, the home church of Mr. Alan Porter, voice professor at Methodist College, visited the campus June 23-25.

The Conference Program Council and the members of the 12 district councils on ministry of the N.C. Conference met June 23-24 under the direction of Dr. N. W. Grant, the Director of the Conference Program Council, for an intensive session geared toward organization and planning for the quadrennium.

The Reverend Lionel Whiston led the men of the N.C. Conference of the United Methodist Church in a week-end retreat, which dealt with relationship between persons and between persons and God.

The Music Workshop of the N.C. Conference of the United Methodist Church brought nearly sixty persons to the campus for a week of intensive vocal instruction under a variety which closed with a contemporary celebration of communion on the central mall of the campus.

Over three hundred cheerleaders from five eastern states attended the second annual East Coast Cheerleaders Camp on July 30-August 5. Becky Fuller, "Miss Cheerleader USA" and "Miss National Cheerleader," was chief instructor for the week's training.

Dean Herman S. Winberry and Co-Dean Mrs. T. Marvin Vick report that the largest attendance ever was recorded at the Summer R&R program, August 8-13. Six hundred and eighty-five persons attended the two sessions, August 8-11 and August 11-13. A reception honoring Bishop Blackburn and his family was held on Thursday night of the session attended by over four hundred people.

Only a week remained after the R&R Session before the 1972-73 academic year began. It was a busy summer, a varied summer, and a meaningful one.

for the assistance which they have given in building Methodist College and bringing it to its present state of development." At the close of the current year, President Weaver will have completed 50 years in education almost equally divided between public and higher education.

His career in education began when he received his A.B. degree from Trinity College (Duke) and his M.A. degree from Columbia University. Honorary degrees of Litt.D. from High Point College and LL.D. from Duke University have been bestowed upon Dr. Weaver.

In past years President Weaver was president of Rutherford College and Mountain Park Junior College. Before coming to MC he was superintendent of the Statesville and Durham City Schools respectively.

President Weaver's inclusion in Who's Who in American Education, Who's Who in the South and Southwest, and Who's Who in Methodism re-life. Under his guidance the campus master plan has been completed with the exception of the president's residence and an additional physical education building. As the first, and only president of the college, President Weaver has at television which extended educational channel 4 to the entire state.

For nine years President Weaver served as the chairman of the North Carolina State Evaluation Committee on Teacher Education. He is past president of the North Carolina Education Association and past national president of the Horace Mann League.

His civic accomplishments include having been Lieutenant Governor of Kiwanian International and District Deputy Grand Master of the Masonic Order.

Tech, Methodist Enter Agreement

Methodist College has entered a dual degree program agreement with Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta.

Academic Dean Samuel J. Womack said under the program a student may take three years of certain preparatory courses at Methodist College. The student then transfers to Georgia Tech for a two-year program leading to a degree awarded by its Engineering College, General College, College of Industrial Management or Southern Technical Institute.

After completing academic requirements of the two institutions, the student will be awarded a bachelor's degree in liberal arts from Methodist College and a bachelor's degree in science or engineering from Georgia Tech.

Among some 27 fields of study included in the dual bachelor degree program at Georgia Tech are: Bachelor of Science in Information and Computer Science, Bachelor of Science in Industrial Management, Bachelor of Aerospace Engineering, Bachelor of Nuclear Engineering and Bachelor of Architectural Engineering Technology.

Special provisions for graduate study are included in the new Methodist-Georgia Tech agreement. Highly qualified, selected undergraduates who have completed three or more years of study at Methodist College may enter a special Georgia Tech program leading to a master's degree, in addition to qualifying for a bachelor's degree from Methodist College.

Similar "3-2 programs" have been established between the School of Engineering at N.C. State University and Methodist College and the University of Southern California at Los Angeles and Methodist College.

Newly-appointed United Methodist Bishop Robert M. Blackburn is shown at an August reception held in his honor on campus during the Summer R&R Conference. With

Monarchs To Reach For DIAC Crown

Methodist College Basketball Coach Gene Clayton recently previewed his Monarchs' powers and prospects. He said the '72 Monarchs should be a contender for the Dixie Conference crown again this year.

"Methodist College's basketball program will be in a rebuilding year for the 1972-73 season," Clayton said. After losing three starting seniors, who combined, averaged 42 points per game, we will need to work hard to replace this offensive power. This year's edition will be built around freshmen and sophomores with hopes of gaining experience as the season progresses.

Clayton said, "The major assets of the team will be speed and defense. It will be one of the shortest teams in the history of Methodist College and will have extreme difficulty in going to the boards to get the second and third shots. Although short in size (the tallest player being 6'3"), the Monarchs will have plenty of leaping potential but will need positioning and hustle to make up for the lack of size." The team includes Elton Stanley, sophomore guard; Craig Knight, sophomore guard; Jerome Wade, senior forward; Greg Jones, sophomore forward; Sweeney Wright, junior center; Harry Flipping, senior center; Richard Pellom, freshman center; Phil McNeil, junior forward; Donald Boulter, junior forward-guard; Gerald Royals, junior guard; Harold Boone, freshman guard; Gene Rickmond, freshman forward; Mike McLean, freshman forward; John Wheless, freshman guard; and Kevin Rose, freshman forward.

Cynthia Walker '65, MCAA president; Bill Lowdermilk, workshop coordinator and M.C. Public Relations Director; and Diane Q. Mann '69, member of the Board of Directors and Chapters Committee.

Alumni Workshop Held

Key alumni leaders are hard at work for '72-'73. Some 40 Association members were on campus September 9 for a workshop and committee meetings. "Future Shock" inspired future work.

Mr. Duffy Paul from College Foundation, Inc., of Raleigh, spoke on "The Challenge of Change in the Seventies." Paul said church-supported colleges must be adaptable to changing societal needs. Paul and other speakers were introduced by MCAA President Cynthia Walker.

Alumni were brought up to date on college concerns and needs by administrators. Acaplained numerous recent innovations in the college program: a course in equestrian studies, modified foreign language requirements involving cultural studies in French and Spanish, a three-year degree program, direct transfer agreement with junior colleges, and a dual degree program with Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta.

Admissions Director Neil H. Thompson compared 1972 enrollment statistics with those of 1971. He said recruiters had more selling points to use in recruitment this year, alluding to those explained by Womack.

Following lunch and fellowship in the cafeteria, alumni were shown a short movie. The film, "Search for the New Man," is part of a newly-organized national publicity-recruitment campaign, of which Methodist College is a participant.

Committees met in the afternoon to map plans and schedule meetings for '72-'73 alumni activities.

The workshop was the third annual alumni association planning meeting. It was coordinated by Bill Billings '68.

'Kings Of The Highway' Stopped Here . . .

The U.S. Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus presented a moving concert for a near-capacity Cumberland County audience in Reeves Auditorium September 26. Known as "The Kings of the Highway," the 100-man group is conducted by Lt. Col. Hal J. Gibson and Major Samuel J. Fricano. As the official musical touring representative of the U.S. Army, the group was welcomed to Methodist College by President L. S. Weaver and presented a key to the city of Fayetteville by Mayor Jackson F. Lee.

In an equally impressive popular-patriotic assembly program for the college community on September 27, the youthful Soldiers' Chorus, conducted by Sgt. Maj. Gene Coughlin, received a standing ovation from an appreciative student body.

Spaghetti And Basketball, Too

Enthusiasm runs wild at college Homecoming time, especially when the majority of MC alumni are under 35. It's that time of year when alumni and students gather at their long-time "home away from home" for fellowship and reminiscence.

Methodist College Homecoming began Friday, October 27, with singing star Jim Croce in concert at Reeves Auditorium. Saturday at 10:30 a.m. the Alumni Association Board of Directors held a quarterly meeting on campus. The Homecoming Soccer game was a success that afternoon with the MC Monarchs defeating UNC-Greensboro 4-0. Immediately after the soccer competition, alumni and 1972 Monarch basketball players engaged in the annual Murray Memorial Alumni vs. Varsity Basketball Game in the gymnasium. It seems the former varsity basketball players on the alumni team were handling the younger Monarchs until the last minutes of the game when the varsity pulled through for the winning points.

Waiting for the alumni and guests in the Student Union was a delicious spaghetti dinner and salad bar. Over 100 former students, faculty members and administration enjoyed good food and excellent entertainment by the MC Stage Band, directed by music instructor Mike Rogers. The dinner was adjourned with several remaining for the Homecoming dance.

Sunday's entertainment highlight was a special presentation of the Greek comedy

Ray Memorial Established

A share certificate for $1,500 has been presented to Methodist College in memory of Hector Eli Ray, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hector E. Ray of Fayetteville.

Dividend proceeds of the Ray Memorial are to be used as a scholarship fund for Cumberland County students who need financial assistance to attend Methodist College. The deposit was made at the Cross Creek Savings and Loan Association and was received by president C. C. Ingram.

Miss Beth Ray, a senior at Methodist College, recently presented the gift in memory of her brother to Dr. Karl H. Berns, Director of Development. A sociology major, Miss Ray lives in Garber Hall and is active in campus life.

Ray said, "Our family has a special interest in Methodist College. It especially means a lot to Beth, and I am happy she could present our memorial gift. Her sister Joy (Mrs. James D. Hall) is a 1969 Methodist College graduate . . ."

Berns, executive secretary of the foundation, said, "This is the first time that a student has made such a large contribution of securities as a memorial to a younger brother."

Ingram, president of the Methodist College Foundation's Board of Directors, said, "We are very pleased and encouraged by this kind of gift to Methodist College."
