FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. -- Donald L. Green, art instructor of Methodist College and a native of Chicago, Ill., will participate in a five-man show opening Tuesday in the Fredericksburg (Va.) Gallery of Modern Art.

Green's contribution to the show will be non-objective, largely welded steel and cast concrete, sculptures. In his exhibit are nine pieces which have been exhibited and four new works not previously shown.

Describing his work, Green notes that the geometric pieces are reminiscent of architectural forms, showing the dualism of permanence and impermanence in man-made forms.

"I am impressed with objects made to last and the affect of nature on these objects," Green explains.

"There is man's effort toward strength and permanence on the one hand and the overwhelming of natural forces on the other," he says.

His work does not attempt to convey a specific idea nor is it of any particular style.

Joining Green in the Virginia show will be Jack Mitchell, instructor in art at Alexander Graham Junior High School, showing non-objective wood sculpture; John and Prim Turner French (sic) of County Wicklow, Ireland, exhibiting pottery and paintings; and the well-known Sister Mary Corita of Los Angeles, displaying her silk screen prints.

FAYETTEVILLE - Methodist College freshmen gained a reprieve from the "straight and narrow" Monday following a Kangaroo Court conducted by Student Government Association officers.

With SGA President Eddie Barber, a senior from Raleigh, presiding, some 35 freshmen were singled out for violations which ranged from forgetting to wear their green beanies to flunking the SGA quiz on the 1967-68 student handbook.

Among the punishments meted out were cleaning of the new campus fountain, polishing the shoes of soccer team members and SGA officers, counting all lamp poles on campus and counting squares of concrete on campus.

Bill Blalock, a junior from Fayetteville, led freshmen in a too quiet rendition of the Methodist College Alma Mater. Following a threat that wearing beanies might be required another week, freshmen sang louder.

After the satisfactory singing, freshmen were permitted a countdown preparatory to tossing beanies into the air. This action signified the end of a month's trial for freshmen.

On Oct. 27 the Methodist College freshman class will hold elections for permanent officers. A primary will be held two days before the general election.

FAYETTEVILLE - Roger F. Searles, director of music at Goldsboro's Saint Paul Methodist Church, will be the guest clinician at this Sunday's afternoon Introduction to the new 1966 edition of the Methodist Hymnal.

Local Methodists are invited to attend the workshop which will begin at 3 p.m. in the Student Union of Methodist College.

Advance sales of the new Methodist Hymnal have broken previous records. The book is the only official hymnal of the Methodist Church and is expected to be in use throughout Methodism for many years to come.

Searles, a native of New York State, is a graduate of Syracuse University School of Music where he studied with organist-teacher Arthur Foister. He has established a graded choir system of six choirs at Saint Paul Methodist Church where he has been for seven years.

He is presently chairman of the North Carolina Conference Chapter of the National Fellowship of Methodist Musicians. He is past Dean and present sub-Dean of the Eastern Carolina Chapter of the American Guild of Organists and president of the Goldsboro Community Concert Association.

Searles and his wife Gayle, a practicing architect in Goldsboro, are the parents of three children.

All Fayetteville District Methodists are invited to attend this workshop. Refreshments will be served and a Cokesbury display of books and music will be on hand. Those having access to the new Methodist Hymnal are asked to bring it with them. Copies will be available for those who do not have them.

METHODIST HYMNAL WORKSHOP

On Sunday afternoon, October 15, at 3:00 p.m., the Fayetteville District of the Methodist Church will hold an Introduction to the new 1966 edition of The Methodist Hymnal. Local Methodists are expected to turn out in large numbers for this important occasion, which will take place in the Student Union of Methodist College, which is on Route 401, north of the city.

Advance sales for the new Methodist Hymnal, which has been praised as the finest hymnal of the twentieth century, have broken all records in the history of publishing. It is the only official hymnal of the Methodist Church, and it is expected to be used throughout Methodism for many years to come.

Guest clinician for the workshop will be Roger F. Searles, Director of Music at Saint Paul Methodist Church in Goldsboro, N. C. Searles, a native of New York state, is a graduate of Syracuse University School of Music, where he studied with the famous organist-teacher, Arthur Poister. During his seven years at Saint Paul Church he has organized and established a graded choir system of six choirs, taught local and conference workshops on the hymnal and sacred music, and taught summer school sessions at East Carolina University.

Searles is presently the chairman of the North Carolina Conference Chapter of the National Fellowship of Methodist Musicians. He is past Dean and present sub-Dean of the Eastern Carolina Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, and president of the Goldsboro Community Concert Association. Searles and his wife Gayle, who is a practicing architect in Goldsboro, are the parents of three children.

All Fayetteville District Methodists are cordially invited to attend this workshop. Refreshments will be served and a Cokesbury display of books and music will be on hand. Methodists who have access to the new Methodist Hymnal are requested to bring their own copy with them. However, copies will be available at the Methodist College Student Union for those who do not have them.

FAYETTEVILLE - Roger F. Searles, director of music at Goldsboro's Saint Paul Methodist Church, will be the guest clinician at this Sunday's afternoon Introduction to the new 1966 edition of the Methodist Hymnal.

Local Methodists are invited to attend the workshop which will begin at 3 p.m. in the Student Union of Methodist College.

Advance sales of the new Methodist Hymnal have broken previous records. The book is the only official hymnal of the Methodist Church and is expected to be in use throughout Methodism for many years to come.

Searles, a native of New York State, is a graduate of Syracuse University School of Music where he studied with organist-teacher Arthur Foister. He has established a graded choir system of six choirs at Saint Paul Methodist Church where he has been for seven years.

He is presently chairman of the North Carolina Conference Chapter of the National Fellowship of Methodist Musicians. He is past Dean and present sub-Dean of the Eastern Carolina Chapter of the American Guild of Organists and president of the Goldsboro Community Concert Association.

Searles and his wife Gayle, a practicing architect in Goldsboro, are the parents of three children.

All Fayetteville District Methodists are invited to attend this workshop. Refreshments will be served and a Cokesbury display of books and music will be on hand. Those having access to the new Methodist Hymnal are asked to bring it with them. Copies will be available for those who do not have them.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. - Six Methodist College students were presented in recital this morning (Friday, Oct. 13) in the Music Building on the college campus.

They were Jan Cranford, a sophomore from Robbins, contralto; Tony Whisler, a sophomore from Waynesboro, Pa., tenor; Sharon Wicker, a sophomore from Sanford, mezzo-soprano; Sandra Strickland, a senior from Fayetteville, mezzo-soprano; and Woodrow Wells, a junior from Fayetteville, baritone.

Brenda Teal, a senior from Marshville, was accompanist for four of the soloists. Tony Whisler served as accompanist for Jan Cranford.

Miss Cranford began the program by singing Anton Bruckner's "Jesus, Redeemer, Our Loving Savior." Tony Whisler then sang "Beloved" by Michael Head. Purcell's "More Love or More Disdain I crave" was next offered by Sharon Wicker.

Mezzo-soprano Sandra Strickland sang "Air from "The Ten Virgins" by A. R. Gaul. Woodrow Wells concluded the program with six songs from Poulenc's "Le Bestiare."

FAYETTEVILLE - An honor has come again to the head of the English Department at Methodist College. For the second time Dr. Walter Blackstock has been named the winner of the Oscar Arnold Young Memorial Cup - this time for his book of poetry, "Leaves Before the Wind," published in 1966.

In 1960 Dr. Blackstock won the same award, given by the Poetry Council of North Carolina, Inc., and that group's annual $50 prize with the cup. His book of poems that year was entitled "Miracle of Flesh."

On Saturday the Poetry Council, affiliated with the North Carolina Poetry Society and the Asheville Branch, National League of American Pen Women, observed Poetry Day at the Holiday Inn in Asheville.

Following announcement of other winners for the year, winning poems were read by members of the Poetry Council and Dr. Blackstock read from his winning book.

"Leaves Before the Wind" was published last year by the Methodist College Press. The Oscar Arnold Young Award is made by independent English scholars, critics and librarians throughout the United States who serve as judges.

In addition to numerous other published books and articles, Dr. Blackstock edited in 1966 "Selected Poems of James Larkin Pearson," poet laureate of North Carolina, and "Word-Gatherers," an anthology of poems by members of the East Carolina University Poetry Forum.

Dr. Blackstock came to Methodist College from East Carolina University where he was poet-in-residence and director of the Poetry Forum. He is a native of Atlanta, Ga. and received his Ph.D. in American Literature from Yale University in 1952.

Seven members of the Collegiate Young Republicans Club at Methodist College attended a Seventh District Republican convention in Whiteville Thursday night.

Dr. John East, professor of political science at East Carolina University, addressed the dinner meeting using Vietnam as the theme of his talk. He made suggestions on how to win the conflict militarily through conventional warfare.

Collegiate Young Republicans at Methodist College are currently assisting the organization of a chapter at Pembroke College and were asked at the district convention to aid interested students at Wilmington College.

Ronnie Russell, CYRC president and a junior from Alexandria, Va., said the Dr. East had been invited to appear before the Methodist College chapter and that he had agreed. The date will be set in the near future.

At the CYRC meeting on campus held during the week, Russell told chapter members that speeches of all speakers to the local group would be taped and retained in a tape library.

Jack Lee, former GOP chairman for Cumberland County, addressed the chapter explaining the operation of the party on city and county levels. He said that the ratio of registered Republicans to Democrats in Cumberland County is currently one to 15.

An executive vacancy of CYRC was filled with the election of Rob Jervis, a junior from Fayetteville, to the post of vice president.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. -- Dedication of the Geraldine Tyson Davis Memorial Library at Methodist College will take place at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in conjunction with the annual Founders' Day and Fall Convocation observance the morning.

A $100,000 contribution by the late Mrs. Davis in October 1962 made possible the construction of the library at a date much earlier than had been anticipated.

Mrs. Davis, wife of Walter R. Davis of Midland, Tex., was a native of the Grays Creek community and taught English in Massey Hill High School for three years following her graduation from college.

She and her husband, an Elizabeth City native, were married here in Hay Street Methodist Church.

From July 1963 until her death in September 1966, Mrs. Davis was a member of the Methodist College Board of Trustees. She was active in church and community affairs in Midland.

Presiding at the service of dedication will be Dr. Mott P. Blair of Siler City, Chairman of the Board of Trustees. Former Governor Terry Sanford, who served for 10 years as Board Chairman, will present the building for dedication.

Dr. L. Stacy Weaver, Methodist College President, will unveil the plaque and read the dedicatory inscription. Walter R. Davis will attend. ~~respond to~~ Their daughter, Mrs. Ralph Greenlee of Houston, Tex., will ~~respond~~ respond.

Also participating in the service are these ministerial members of the Methodist College Board of Trustees: The Rev. Dr. Allen P. Brantley of
