FAYETTEVILLE - The Rev. Charles Hubbard posed the question, "Who Am I" at the Monday morning chapel service opening Religious Emphasis Week on the Methodist College campus.

Speaking to the assembled students and faculty, Hubbard, spiritual leader for the week, said that individuals are to blame for the world situation in which they find themselves.

Correcting the frustrated state of the world depends upon man's correctly answering the question, Who am I?, He said.

"Man refuses to believe anything but the best about himself," the Methodist minister pointed out. He blames everything but himself for the problems of the world.

"Don't build on a lie," Hubbard said.

The spiritual leader pointed to the parable from the Gospel of Mark in which Christ, speaking of unclean foods, explains that there is nothing outside a man that comes into him that defiles him. Rather it is what comes out of a man that defiles him.

Add one - Methodist College Religious Emphasis Week

Pressing home the problems man faces today, the speaker, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Wilson, N.C., pointed to the scholarly research being done in many fields to apparently no avail. He said that knowledge in the field of child psychology is greater than ever before, yet the rate of juvenile delinquency is rising; extensive research goes on in the field of alcoholism, yet the ranks of alcoholics grows hourly.

Correctly answering the question Who Am I is based upon faith, Hubbard said. Everyone has a faith, even if it is believing in nothing.

Hubbard will examine the question further tonight at the 7p.m. evening worship in the student union. The service is open to the public.

IMMEDIATE

FAYETTEVILLE - "Who Am I?" will be the theme of the Eighth Annual Religious Emphasis Week at Methodist College, scheduled for February 26-March 3.

Featured speaker for the week's programs, planned by the Student Interfaith Council and the Faculty Religious Life Committee, will be the Rev. Charles Hubbard, First Methodist Church, Wilson, North Carolina. Mr. Hubbard has held several pastorates in North Carolina, among them Trinity in Raleigh and University Church in Chapel Hill.

Mr. Hubbard will suggest possible approaches to the theme question, Who Am I?, during morning chapel services on Monday and Wednesday and pursue the question further at evening services on Tuesday and Thursday. The public may attend the evening services which are scheduled for 7 p.m. in the student union. At Friday morning chapel a student panel will question Mr. Hubbard on matters of concern to them.

Student pianist, Brenda Teal and Susan Rowe, and soloists, Jan Cranford and Sharon Wicker, will provide music at the evening services.

A native of North Carolina, Mr. Hubbard attended the University of North Carolina and Duke University and holds the A.B. and B.D. degrees. Active in the North Carolina Conference of The Methodist Church, he was one of the organizers of the Methodist Foundation, Inc., and president of the board of Christian Social Concerns. He is currently serving on World Service and Finance.

ADD ONE - RELIGIOUS EMPHASIS WEEK

On the state and national level Mr. Hubbard was an organizer and original member of the North Carolina Recreation Commission and chairman for 19 years. He is a founder and trustee of the National Recreation and Parks Assn. and is a national lecturer on recreation subjects.

Related campus activities during the week include an informal discussion Wednesday afternoon led by students from Fayetteville State College on "The Identity Crisis for Negr'o Americans." A Coffee House gathering Sunday evening in the student union will feature Sharon Wicker singing folk songs and Georgana Clayton and Janet Good reading poetry.

FAYETTEVILLE - Methodist College presents the East Carolina University Concert Choir as part of its Concert-Lecture Series Saturday, March 2, 8 p.m. in the student union.

The choir, under the direction of Charles W. Moore, consists of fifty-five members, plus five instrumentalists who assist in certain numbers. One of the choir members, Roberta West, is a graduate of Methodist who is now doing graduate work at ECU.

The program opens with a group of a cappella selections by the early American composer William Billings and is followed by selections from the nineteenth and twentieth century Russian repertoire. An American Jazz Mass by Frank Tirro concludes the sacred portion of the program.

Numbers from Johannes Brahms' "Liebeslieder Waltzes" comprise the next section. These are sung in German, with a translation being read before the performance.

Changing pace, the East Carolina Opera Theater presents a scene from Mozart's Magic Flute. Then shifting to a light mood, the choir sings a medley of tunes from the musical hit, The Fantastics.

The concert is open to the public; no admittance charge is made.

RELEASE SUNDAY, MARCH 3, 1968

FAYETTEVILLE - Seventeen magazine's March issue fashions will walk off the printed page into the Cumberland County Memorial Auditorium March 21, 8 p.m., as the Spanish Club of Methodist College presents its annual concert and fashion show.

Following the fashion show, The Impressions and James and Bobby Purify will take the stage for a pop music concert.

The Impressions, whose million record seller, "Gypsy Woman," rocketed them to popularity, will be singing their latest hits including "We're A Winner," which is on the rise and currently No. 8 on Billboard and Cashbox charts. Other hits of the ABC Paramount recording artists include "Keep On Pushing," "I Need You," and "Can't Satisfy."

Just returning from the Saint Remo Pop Music Festival in France, The Impressions make extensive college concert tours and number among their TV appearances "The Ed Sullivan Show," "Hullabaloo," "Where The Action Is," and "American Band Stand."

James and Bobby Purify, exponents of the southern soul sound, hit the national charts in 1966 with "I'm Your Puppet." Other top pop tunes of the Bell Record artists are "Let Love Come Between Us" and "I Take What I Want."

MORE

ADD ONE - METHODIST COLLEGE FASHION SHOW, CONCERT

The Seventeen show, one of the biggest fashion productions to come to Fayetteville, follows the pattern of the magazine's annual New York City showing. Daryl Atkins, the magazine assistant merchandising coordinator, will commentate as 30 Methodist College coeds model over 50 of the newest spring ensembles.

Miss Atkins, who commentates at style shows from coast to coast for Seventeen, also has her own business handmaking evening bags in brocade and beads for boutiques in Manhattan.

Spring styles for the show fall into five categories: casual, beach wear, Easter ensembles, night club attire, and wedding gowns. As the models and escorts move through the five fashion scenes they will dance to the orchestra music of The Lamplighters.

Styles seen in the show will be available at Miss Vogue of Fayetteville, according to Howard Edelman, manager, who is working in cooperation with Seventeen and the Spanish Club.

Proceeds from the concert-fashion show will help send Methodist College students to the University of Madrid for summer study in the Spanish language and the culture of Spain. The summer study tour was inaugurated in 1966 by the Spanish Club at the suggestion of Dr. Esperanza Escudero, professor of Spanish and club advisor. One student was sent that year and six students followed in 1967. The proposal for this summer is to send 10 students.

Energetic student leaders behind this project are Spanish Club President Robert D'Alessandro and Vice President Ronnie Russell. Barbara Schutz, secretary, is head coordinator and Micky Mazza, vice treasurer, assists her. Lynn Boone of Fayetteville is fashion chairman for the show.

Tickets can be obtained at Methodist College, Tallywood Record Center, Eutaw Record Center, and Miss Vogue. Advance tickets are $3; at the door, $3.50.

FAYETTEVILLE - Harriet Fitzgerald, nationally known painter and lecturer in fine arts, appears Thursday, March 7, 8 p.m., at Methodist College.

Miss Fitzgerald will examine "How a Painting Works" (an introduction to Art from a modern point of view). Accompanying the artist's lecture will be an exhibit of paintings by the Abington Square Painters of New York.

Director of the Abington Square Painters since its founding in 1948, Miss Fitzgerald has exhibited widely. The Charles Barzansky Gallery of New York has given her six solo showings since 1946.

Other showings include the Butler Art Institute, The Dayton Museum, The Virginia Museum, The Norfolk Museum, and in New York the Macbeth, Milch, and A.C.A. galleries.

Her work is represented in the permanent collections of the Staten Island Museum, the Swope Gallery in Terry Haute, Ind., Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Westminster College, Bluffton College, Lawrence College, and Stratford College.

A native of Danville, Va., she attended Stratford Hall and is a graduate of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, which she serves as a Trustee. Professional training came at the Art Students' League of New York, principally in the class of John Sloan, and in the private sclasses of Maurice Stern and the cubist painter, Ambrose Webster. During travels in Europe she studied at the chief galleries, and painted and did research in Italy.

MORE

Her visit to Methodist is made under the auspices of the Arts Program of the Association of American Colleges. The lecture, to be held in the student union, is open at no charge to the public.

GARDEN CLUB JOINS HANDS WITH METHODIST COLLEGE SCIENCE CLUB

Working hands, willing hearts and strong backs are all involved in a beautification project now in progress at Methodist College.

In cooperation with the over-all city HANDS program, under the direction of Mrs. Jackson Lee, the Town and Country Garden Club of Fayetteville has joined hands with the college's Science Club in an effort to beautify the south courtyard of the Science Building.

For several months P. J. Crutchfield of the college's biology department and adviser to the Science Club has worked with the Science Club in developing a plan for the aesthetic as well as scientific use of the courtyard.

The Town and Country Garden Club learned of the need for help with this project and immediately the cooperative effort began. Mrs. V. E. Hollinshed, Jr. is president of the club; Mrs. E. C. Griffin is vice president and Mrs. David Drake is club chairman for the project at the college.

Members of the Science Club have already begun soil preparation for the project which is designed to provide three separate semicircular beds of native plants, most of which are contemplated to be gathered locally. One bed will provide a look at the total spectrum of plants. Another is planned to demonstrate the four major plant habitats. A third bed will show the effects of different kinds of soils on the distribution of plants.

Commenting on the garden club's involvement in the project Mrs. Drake said, "We felt that we should be interested in North Carolina plants and through helping to gather the plants and by participating in the entire project it would be for us an educational venture."

So, another HANDS project for the beautification of the Fayetteville Community moves toward completion.
