RELEASE: COLLEGE EDITION
SEPTEMBER 1969

CHAPEL COMPLETES MAIN CAMPUS AT METHODIST

FAYETTEVILLE - Professors and students returned to Methodist College September 10 to find that construction engineers and workers had completed their homework.

Open for 1969-70 was Hensdale Chapel, the building which completes the central mall of campus and brings the total structures to 18.

The building was largely funded through the efforts of J. W. Hensdale, secretary of the Board of Trustees and Fayetteville business executive.

Used for small religious group work and interdenominational services (10 denominations on campus), the chapel opens up space formerly devoted to these activities in the Trustees Classroom Building.

With the academic and religious buildings completed, the college can offer a full program in both areas.

Methodist enters the closing year of its first decade of operation with six new members on the faculty. They will join the departments of art, philosophy, physics, music and physical education. Over 200 courses will be offered making possible 13 majors and 17 minors in the seven academic areas of the college.

At registration about 270 new students enrolled bringing the total student body to approximately 900. Methodist College annually enrolls 900-1000 students as it builds toward a capacity of 1200 students.

Dear Bill:

The check for the nurse should have been received by now. If not, let me know and we will cancel payment on one and start another procedure.

We will not be using the classroom building on October 18. All of our sessions will be in the auditorium, unless we have to retreat to the student union for lunch. Still no definite plan there. Working on it. Thanks. Best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Belton

Dear Bill:

Thanks for the receipt for the A.C.S. payment.

The decision about Junior High Workshop is to be made by the Conference Council on Youth Ministries at a late September meeting. At that time I will extend to them the invitation to come to Methodist College. I am sure you can be aware of the sensitive problems that would occur in changing sites of one of our ongoing experiences. Nevertheless, I shall pass on the openness of Methodist College.

Still no decision made regarding how we are going to eat on October 18, although we are thinking seriously about an all afternoon meeting. Best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Belton

LOCAL STUDENTS LEAD SCIENCE GROUP

FAYETTEVILLE - Fayetteville students will lead the Collegiate Academy of the North Carolina Academy of Science for 1969-70 in three of four offices.

Tom Jones, a biology major at Methodist College, will serve as president of the group which is made up of undergraduate science students and organizations affiliated with accredited colleges and universities in North Carolina. He succeeds Nate Brinn of Atlantic Christian College.

Jones, a junior, is a 1967 graduate of Fayetteville Senior High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert H. Jones of 506 Maxine Street.

Another local resident, Linda MacPhail, will serve as secretary for the academy. She succeeds Sandra Ittenbach, a 1969 graduate of Methodist College. Miss McPhail, a senior mathematics major at Methodist College, is a 1966 graduate of Pine Forest High School. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McPhail, reside at Rt. 6, Fayetteville.

Gary Mortoro, a junior at Methodist College, will act as historian for the science organization. He succeeds Charles Dietrich, also a 1969 graduate of Methodist. Mortoro is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mortoro of 3530 Scottywood Drive.

The collegiate academy, which is sponsored by the N.C. Academy of Science, meets annually for the presentation of scientific research papers. Such presentations are designed to promote undergraduate interest in research work.

Top papers are also published in the semi-annual Cancas, the official news organ of the academy.

THE UNITED STATES ARMY FIELD BAND TO APPEAR AT METHODIST COLLEGE

Feature Story

Methodist College will present the United States Army Field Band and Soldiers' Ghorus in concert, 8 p.m., September 19 at Reeves Auditorium.

The internationally famous unit, based at Washington, D.C. is the official touring musical representative of the Department of the Army and is under the operational control of the Army's Chief of Information at the Pentagon.

Known as the "Kings of the Highway," the Field Band travels thousands of miles each year on at least two major concert tours. All concert tours are made as directed by the Secretary of the Army, and performances are open to the general public, free of charge.

The Field Band was organized on March 21, 1946 when General Jacob L. Devers issued the following order to Chief Warrant Officer Chester E. Whiting, then commanding the Army's First Combat Infantry Band:

"I want you to organize a band that will carry into the grassroots of our country the story of our magnificent Army, its glorious traditions and achievements; and of that great symbol of American manhood--the Ground Soldier."

Whiting was the Field Band's commanding officer until November 1960, at which time he retired from the Army with the rank of lieutenant colonel. In his 14 years as commander, Colonel Whiting guided the fledgeling band and literally took it around the world. Under his baton the band performed in all 50 states, Canada, Mexico, the United Kingdom, Europe and the Far East.

MORE

ADD ONE-Field Band at M.C.

Major Hal J. Gibson of Oklahoma City, is the band's present commanding officer and conductor. He assumed this position in March 1968, as the fourth director in the Field Band's 23-year history. Major Gibson brought to this command more than 21 years' experience in military music.

Composed of the Army's finest soldier-musicians, the band's members who have studied at the country's leading conservatories and schools of music; many have played with major symphonies and leading dance orchestras before entering the service. All of the musicians-- by personal audition-- have been specially selected for assignment to the Field Band.

The Soldiers' Chorus, an integral part of the band, is made up of 20 highly-trained vocalists under the direction of Sergeant Major Gene Coughlin of Detroit Lakes, Minnesota.

Designed to appeal to all audiences, the band's concert repertoire offers classical, semi-classical, and popular selections, choral arrangements, novelty numbers and military marches.

In addition to its concert tours the Field Band participates in a variety of ceremonial events. The band has marched in five Presidential Inaugural parades, escorted the President on special occasions and played for many visiting heads-of-state.

Although no admission charge is made, admittance for the concert at Methodist College is by ticket. Seats for persons with tickets will be held open until ten minutes before the start of the program at which time patrons without tickets will be seated in available seats.

UNITED STATES ARMY FIELD BAND TO APPEAR AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE - Three veteran musicians will direct the United States Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus of Washington, D.C., during their concert on Friday, September 19 at 8 p.m. in Reeves Auditorium at Methodist College.

Conducting the 100-man Army Field Band will be its commander, Major Hal J. Gibson of Oklahoma City, who was assigned to the band in March 1968 from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, where he had served as associate conductor of the Academy Band and conductor of the Cadet Glee Club. He holds bachelor and master of music degrees from Southern Methodist University in Dallas, and has worked toward a Ph.D. at the University of Maryland and Columbia University.

Major Samuel J. Fricano of Silver Creek, N.Y., is the Field Band's executive officer and associate conductor. A graduate of Rochester's famed Eastman School of Music, he has commanded the 101st Airborne Division Band at Fort Campbell, Ky., and the 1st Cavalry Division Band in Korea.

The Soldiers' Chorus has been directed by a 19-year veteran of the Field Band, Sergeant Major Gene Coughlin of Detroit Lakes, Minn., since 1957. In addition to his lengthy military career, Sergeant Major Coughlin has been a soloist and narrator for the Los Angeles Symphonic Band, sung with the Westinghouse Chorus, performed three recitals at the Hollywood Bowl, and been a member of the San Francisco Opera Company.

Tickets for this performance may be obtained free of charge in person from The Record Center in Tallywood Shopping Center or the McFadyen Music Stores on 118 Hay Street and 2825 Bragg Blvd.

FAYETTEVILLE OBSERVER

Methodist College
Fayetteville, N. C.
By: C. K. McAdams
Director of Public Relations

*Orientation
Convocation* For Immediate Release

The first convocation of students and faculty for the new academic year at Methodist College was held Friday morning, September 17. The speaker for the occasion was Dr. L. Stacy Weaver, President of the College.

"You are a select group," said Dr. Weaver as he began his message to the students. "There are many who would like to assume the place which you hold in this student body. You have been selected for good reasons and somebody thought you should be here."

"One of the interesting things about speaking to the student body each year for the first time is that I do not know to whom I am speaking. I may be speaking to many who will be filling the pulpits of our churches in the future, or to numerous people who will stand in the classrooms of our schools to inspire other students. I may be speaking to a future governor, senator or some other statesman who may have a vision of peace which will stop this silly thing we call war."

He reminded the students that someone in their midst may become the doctor with the cure for cancer.

"Education is not the whole answer," said Dr. Weaver, "For I may also be speaking to a future convict."

He reminded the students that they must work for their education. "The son of the pauper and the son of the most wealthy must each work for what he gets."

"You will be required to take certain courses," he said, "for this is your guarantee of an education."

One of the points which President Weaver especially stressed was that the students should learn respect and courtesy for their fellowman and above all to hold high those moral standards which set them apart as ladies and gentlemen.

In conclusion he said, "I should hope that you would investigate some of the larger questions of the spirit --- "What am I?" "Who am I?" "Why am I?" He closed with a reference to the Psalmist who suggested that "man is but a little lower than the angels." "You are a part of this heritage," said Dr. Weaver, "Let us explore it together in the days ahead."

Dear Bill,

I understand from Belton that Rally Day is set for Methodist College on Saturday, October 18th. Belton has asked me to provide a slide program during the session. Could I reserve the use of the Bell and Howell Automatic 35mm. Slide Projector owned by the college? I shall also need the microphone system of the auditorium where I understand we meet. I first wrote to a Mr. James H. Price, but hear he is no longer employed with the college. He suggested a board of sorts placed across several seats for the best projection. I would appreciate whatever assistance possible your office or the audio-visual department can render.

Thanks, Bill.

I am sure this comes at a demanding time as the new academic year is underway. I look forward to talking with you on October 18th.

Sincerely,

Paul

Dear Paul:

I have reserved the Bell and Howell Automatic 35 mm. Slide Projector for October 18. The A-V center will set it up in the auditorium, but you will need to get here early enough to get the slides set up in the trays, etc.

We look forward to having Rally Day here and hope it will be a very successful day.

Sincerely yours,

Bill Lowdermilk
