FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

March 4, 1970

Bobby Hodges, 6'2" guard from Florence, South Carolina, is one of the reasons for the success of the Methodist College basketball program. Transferring from Spartanburg Junior College in the fall of 1969, Bobby has started every game with a scoring average of 20 point per game. Coach Gene Clayton of the Monarchs states, "Bobby is the most complete ball player ever to play for the college. His defense is excellent, hustle and desire to win even better, and he can score against both the man to man and zone defenses. He is extremely hard to stop on a one to one situation; and if our recruiting this year can find a little help for Bobby, we will be contenders for the Dixie Conference Championship in 1971."

Bobby, a junior at Methodist College Fayetteville, North Carolina, made the All-Conference first string this year and will be the quarterback for the team next year.

The Spring Concert of the Methodist College Chorus is scheduled for March 14 at 8:00 p. m. in Reeves Auditorium. This will be the chorus' final performance for this academic year except for their appearance with the Fayetteville Symphony Orchestra and Community Chorus in May.

The 33 member group has sung throughout North Carolina and toured the north-eastern part of the United States in January. Mr. Alan Porter, Director of the Chorus, is Assistant Professor of Voice at Methodist College.

The upcoming program will consist of four parts. The first two sections contain sacred works written in musical styles varying from sacred oratorios to folk music. Section three will feature the Methodist College Girl's Quartet performing Madrigal, barbershop and popular arrangements. Section four will present the chorus in a Spring setting where they will sing lighter, secular music.

The Chorus will be accompanied by piano, organ, a folk group and a wind ensemble headed by Mr. John Rider, Instructor in Music at Methodist College.

The public is cordially invited to attend this concert. There is no admission charge.

FAYETTEVILLE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
March 22, 1970

8:15 PM

Symphony No. 1 in C Major, Op. 21 Beethoven
Adagio molto; Allegro con brio
Andante cantabile con moto
Menuetto: Allegro molto e vivace
Adagio; Allegro molto e vivace

Beethoven's first symphony was composed in the year 1800. Though still in the classical symphonic mold as established by Haydn, some features of the work are harbingers of things to come in the later Beethoven symphonies. Even in the opening chord Beethoven gives a hint of his personality trait which is never content to merely pass things on as he inherited them: he begins a symphony which is ostensibly in C major on the dominant-seventh chord in F.

Five Courtly Dances from the opera Gloriana Britten
March
Coranto
Pavane
Morris Dance
Lavalta

Benjamin Britten's opera Gloriana was first performed in London in 1953. The plot concerns the relationship between Elizabeth I and the Earl of Essex. The present suite, which suggests the style of 16th-century dances, was arranged by David Stone.

INTERMISSION

Concerto for Clarinet and Orchestra, K. 622 Mozart
Allegro
Adagio
Rondo: Allegro

Charles Bullard, Clarinet soloist
John Rider, guest conductor

Though the clarinet was a relatively new instrument in Mozart's day, his only concerto for this instrument is probably unsurpassed in all subsequent literature for the instrument. Completed in ~~the~~ October 1791, it was probably ~~Mozart's last~~ Mozart's last concerto. He dedicated it to his friend Anton Stadler, who was the first notable performer on the clarinet in Vienna.

Our soloist, Charles Bullard, is a senior music major at Methodist College. He is a graduate of Fayetteville Senior High School and has been a clarinetist with the Fayetteville Symphony Orchestra for the past four years.

John Rider, our guest conductor, is a graduate of the University of Idaho and the University of Illinois. He is in his first year as Instructor of Music at Methodist College.

March 19, 1970

FAYETTEVILLE - Thomas H. Jones, a junior science major at Methodist College and president of the Collegiate Academy of the North Carolina Academy of Science, has been appointed by Governor Bob Scott to the newly-formed Advisory Committee on Economics and Environment.

Jones, a 1967 graduate of Fayetteville Senior High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert H. Jones of Fayetteville.

In announcing the appointments to the Advisory Committee, Scott said, "With North Carolina having on the one hand, hungry children living in economically deprived conditions, and on the other hand, having serious environmental problems, it is clear to me that we must have a definite policy to guide our economic development within the framework of a clean and safe environment."

The Advisory Committee, headed by Roy G. Sowers, Jr., director of the N.C. Department of Conservation and Development, will work to formulate the policy to which Scott referred.

FROM: Governor Bob Scott
State Capitol/Raleigh
919/829-3310

FOR RELEASE: 3:00 p.m., March 17, 1970

RALEIGH -- Governor Bob Scott announced Tuesday the appointments of 12 North Carolinians to the newly-formed Advisory Committee on Economics and Environment.

"With North Carolina having, on the one hand, hungry children living in economically deprived conditions, and, on the other hand, having serious environmental problems, it is clear to me that we must have a definite policy to guide our economic development within the framework of a clean and safe environment," he said in announcing the appointments.

"North Carolina needs both a prosperous economy and a quality environment," the governor said in a speech at Chapel Hill.

Scott announced the appointments while speaking before the Carolina Symposium 70 with the theme: "Man and Environment."

The advisory committee, to be headed by Roy G. Sowers, Jr., director of the N. C. Department of Conservation and Development, will work to formulate the policy to which Scott referred. Sowers announced the creation of the committee on behalf of the Governor two weeks ago, and announced the names of several State Government officials who will serve on the panel.

Those appointed today by the Governor are:

Dr. Howard Thomas Odum, internationally-recognized ecologist in the Departments of Botany, Zoology and Environmental Sciences and Engineering at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill;

Professor Robert Soots of the Biology Department at Campbell College, Buies Creek; and president of the Raven Rock Preservation Park Committee;

Dr. Louise Nelson, associate professor in the Department of Economics at Davidson College;

Thomas H. Jones, a junior at Methodist College in Fayetteville and president of the Collegiate Academy of the North Carolina Academy of Science;

Franklin Bernard Roberts, a sophomore pre-medical student and Carswell Scholar at Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem;

Miss Sarah Louise Sheffield, a senior majoring in wildlife biology at North Carolina State University;

George P. Johnson, special representative for industry and defense products at Westinghouse Corp., Raleigh;

Dickson McLean Jr., attorney in Lumberton;

James Mark Leggett, assistant products manager with the Knitwear Division, Hanes Corporation in Winston-Salem;

State Representative Howard A. Penton, Jr., of Wilmington;

State Senator Thomas R. Bryan of Wilkesboro.

The State Planning Division of the Department of Administration will be represented by Robert R. Wagner, assistant State planning officer.

The N. C. League of Municipalities and the N. C. Association of County Commissioners will also be asked to name a representative to the advisory committee, according to Scott.
