METHODIST COLLEGE FEATURES ACADEMIC INNOVATIONS

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.--At Methodist College in Fayetteville the 1970-71 year promises variety in academic innovations. A two-year experiment in a "pass-fail" option in elective courses is being launched for upper-classmen; a beginning course in Russian is being offered; two new courses in environmental problems are being introduced; and a major in art has been added.

The pass-fail innovation, available to juniors and seniors on a trial basis for two years, enables students to take elective courses, earning semester hours toward graduation requirements without adding to their quality points in computation of grade-point averages. The concept of the program originated with the Student Academic Affairs Committee and received Trustee approval recently.

In addition to French, German, and Spanish, Methodist College has added Russian to its Foreign Language Department. A native of Yugoslavia who holds the Doctor of Theology degree from Friedrich-Schiller University of Jena, Dr. Vaselein Sarenac, will be the language instructor.

department is offering a one-semester course in the problems of environmental pollution, and the departments of Sociology, Political Science, Economics and History are collaborating with the Philosophy and Religion departments in a one-semester sequel which will approach the problem from the standpoint of social and ethical, as well as religious, considerations.

Art is the latest of fourteen majors to be offered at Methodist College, which is entering the first year of its second decade, having graduated seven classes.

A marked increase of student interest in art is credited with the implementation of the major. Another factor is the completion of the College's Fine Arts Building, which offers attractive and modern facilities for art instruction and studio work in painting, sculpture, and other media. The major will increase cultural assets of the Fayetteville community.

In the program, standard courses in Art Appreciation, Art History and Art Education will be continued, with courses in Drawing, Painting, and Sculpture to be offered separately. New courses to be offered will be a second semester of Basic Design and a Senior Workshop in Art.

Thirty-two hours are required to complete the major requirements. Personal expression and individual attention are stressed in the area, headed by Donald L. Green who holds the M.F.A. from the University of Wisconsin.

More--

The Methodist College campus itself is a study in architectural innovations, with eighteen of its twenty-one buildings complete, including a towering carillon structure, a pool with color-lighted fountain, and a chapel on the central mall of the campus.

With a capacity for 1200 students, the College stresses the ideals of academic excellence and the Christian concept of life as it progresses with academic innovations.

Porter - pit, too

The Fayetteville Community Chorus, under the direction of Alan M. Porter, has launched its fifth successive season with weekly rehearsals on Tuesday evenings in the Fine Arts Building at Methodist College. The chorus, which is open to men and women of all ages, provides an opportunity to those who have music as either their vocation or their avocation for musical expression in the atmosphere of a large group that can learn and perform major choral works of different periods and styles. College and high school students sit beside teachers, businessmen, office workers, housewives, military personnel and dependents and professional people of many different fields. There are married couples and mothers or fathers with their son or daughter who also make up the membership.

Officers elected from the group manage the organizational matters of the chorus and encourage fellowship among the members. Currently serving as president of the chorus is Mrs. Donald Green, a fifth grade teacher at Ramsey Street School. Frank McNeil, teacher at Newbold Training School, serves as vice president, and Norman Leonard, from Highland Lumber Company, is treasurer. Mrs. John W. Lewis, secretary for Boyette Insurance and Realty Company is secretary for the chorus, and Bill Parker, art teacher at Anne Chesnutt High School, is librarian. Mrs. Paul Schafer, a graduate of Methodist College and candidate for a graduate degree at U. N. C., is the accompanist for all the rehearsals. These persons devote much of their time to the needs of the chorus.

The Community Chorus has presented two concerts annually for the public since its inception in the fall of 1966. Traditionally they have given a concert of Advent and Christmas music in December and then in May have culminated the year's work with a joint presentation of a major choral work with the Fayetteville Symphony Orchestra and the chorus of Methodist College.

The Community Chorus this fall has just begun rehearsing for the presentation of The Christmas Oratorio, Parts I, II, and III, by Johann Sebastian Bach, with the assistance of the above mentioned groups. This performance is scheduled for Saturday evening, December 12, 1970, in Reeves Auditorium at Methodist College.

Anyone interested in joining the chorus is welcome and urged to attend the Tuesday evening rehearsals at 8:00 p.m. in the choral room on the lower level of Reeves Auditorium. No musical training or experience is necessary to participate. The only prerequisite is a desire to sing and to devote two hours per week to the fellowship to be derived from choral singing.
