RALEIGH FRESHMAN ELECTED METHODIST COLLEGE BEANIE QUEEN

FAYETTEVILLE-- Miss Carol Shepherd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayward B. Shepherd, 5313 North Hills Drive, Raleigh, N. C., was recently voted Beanie Queen by students at Methodist College in Fayetteville.

Miss Shepherd, a 1970 graduate of Sanderson High School in Raleigh, joins 232 other freshmen among a total enrollment of 823 students who represent 17 states at the co-educational, liberal arts school.

The attractive blond freshman, who plans to major in elementary education, was crowned at a dance given by the senior class to conclude freshman orientation week.

New students underwent several weeks of special initiation during which they were required to wear "Monarch caps" in college colors of green and gold. Freshmen not complying with rules set forth in the Freshman Orientation Code outlined in the Student Government Handbook were tried in a Kangaroo Court before the student body.

Miss Shepherd admits that most of her friends were "tried and sentenced" by the S. G. A. High Court, which consists of a Chief Justice, upper-class presidents, and four appointees from the student body.

Besides the beanie "hats-on" rule, the Code requires freshmen: (1) to master the S. G. A. constitution in preparation for a test during the third week of school; (2) to attend all functions of the College during the first month of school; (3) not to walk on the grass on campus; and (4) to learn the school song and cheers.

The orientation program, originated in the 1964-65 academic year, is an effort to encourage school spirit and participation in student responsibilities, as well as a means of promoting class communication.

Miss Shepherd confides that the orientation program made her "less afraid of college" and made her enjoy being at Methodist more. "I feel more a part of the campus, now," she stated.

After considering enrolling at a large university, Miss Shepherd visited the 600-acre campus in Fayetteville and decided to apply for admission. "It's a beautiful campus and I'm very glad I came. The College offers all I wanted," she remarked, smiling.

Fourteen majors are offered at Methodist College which was accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools in 1966.
