HULLEY TO BE HONORED AT AUTOGRAPH PARTY

An autograph party for Dr. Clarence C. Hulley, author of ALASKA: PAST AND PRESENT, will be held Friday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Lafayette Room of the Davis Memorial Library at Methodist College.

The book is the third edition of the author's 1953 publication entitled ALASKA, 1741-1953.

The 520 page edition, published by Binfords and Mort of Portland, Ore., contains maps and photos.

The book has been used as a history text at the University of Alaska, where Dr. Hulley was professor of history from 1945 to 1955.

A native of Ontario, Canada, Dr. Hulley earned his bachelor and masters degrees in history at the University of British Columbia. His Ph. D. degree in history was conferred by the University of Washington in Seattle.

----More

ALASKA, PAST AND PRESENT narrates the epic of the Alaska country. Covering some 200 years of progress, the author reviews the state's industrial, political, and cultural history for the general reader and for the scholar.

Dr. Hulley has recorded "...close-ups of the original inhabitants; the story of Alexander Baranov and the Russian occupation; fur hunting, and the gold stampedes to Nome, Fairbanks, and the Yukon... the purchase of Alaska, and...the problems native to the industrialization of an immense frontier country...now in...world focus because of the discovery of ...oil fields in the Arctic slopes north of Brooks Range."

The public is invited to the Nov. 6 occasion. Copies of the book will be available at a special price reduction.

Past and Present

Third Edition

DR. CLARENCE C. HULLEY

ALASKA, PAST AND PRESENT is the only full-scale narrative in recent years of the magnificent epic of the Alaska country. It combines the labors of historian, economist, and humanist in a fascinating sweep of vision that holds sharp impact for the general reader and the scholar alike.

From white man's first arrival on the Northwest Pacific Coast—some 200 years ago—to Alaska's present controversial position in world affairs, here is the authentic yet fascinating record of the state's industrial, political, and cultural history by a distinguished authority on the Alaska scene.

Here are intimate close-ups of the original inhabitants—Aleuts, Eskimos, and Thlingit-Haidas; the whole fabulous story of Alexander Baranov and the Russian occupation; fur hunting, and the gold stampedes to Nome, Fairbanks, and the Yukon . . . the era-changing purchase of Alaska, and all the complex and frustrating problems native to the industrialization of an immense frontier country—now again in world focus because of discovery of fabulous oil fields in the Arctic slopes north of Brooks Range.

FLORIDA TRUSTEE GIVES 1902 PUBLICATION TO METHODIST COLLEGE FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.--Women's liberation proponents may find traces of their cause forming in The Decennial, a 1902 publication containing the early history of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

A well-preserved copy of The Decennial has been presented to Methodist College by Mrs. M. V. Register, member of the Boca Ciega Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, St.
Petersburg, Fla., in honor of her husband. Mr. Register is a Methodist College trustee and resides with his family in Palm Harbor, Florida.
His wife is the former Aida June Thomas.

The Decennial was published by the Adelpian and Cornelian Literary Societies of the Greensboro-based college which opened to women as the State Normal and Industrial School in 1902. It was printed by Stone Printing and Manufacturing Company, Roanoke, Va.

Dedicated to the school's founding president, Charles Duncan McIver, the book includes lengthy essays on various aspects of the school's first decade of development. Included are passages about the establishing of the school in 1891, personalities contributing to its history (Board of Directors, faculty and alumnae), campus facilities and school organizations. Also included are essays and poems; samples are entitled, "Thoughts and Experiences of a Business Woman," "The Inspiration of Work," and "Domestic Science." Some essays record early career women's hopes, while the opening pages of The Decennial assert women's rights and needs in higher education.

Pictures indicate that the college basketball teams were unhampered by "maxi" skirts.

Chapter reports, by classes, on alumnae activities and pursuits may intrigue readers of North Carolina ancestry.

Among the many names of alumnae mentioned are McIver, Lee, McDonald, Rose, Taylor, Perry, Yates, McGeehee, Parker, Harper, Lewis, Howell, McFadyen, Jenkins, Watson, Womble, Kirkpatrick, Tomlinson, Davis, Poindexter, Fort, DeVane, Patterson, Allen, Petty, Sanford, and Coltrane.

Register, who made the presentation, is a decendent of John DeVane, Sr. (1734 - 1806), of Sampson County.

DeVane, state senator, justice of the peace, and member of the House of Commons and Provincial Congress, was a second major in the North Carolina Revolutionary forces. He married Ann Julia Robinson and was co-owner of a gun factory on Black River.

Register is president of Caladesi Corporation and developer of Dunedin Beach in Dunedin, Fla.

His B. S. and B. A. degrees were conferred at the University of Florida. He has served as president of the Dunedin Rotary Club and holds membership in Beta Gamma Sigma and Phi Kappa Phi.

Register is now serving a four-year term on the Board of Trustees which began on July 1, <sup>1968</sup> 1972.

(Methodist College opened to students in 1960. It is a co-educational, liberal arts college, with a capacity for 1200 students.)
