DONALD WELCH TO SPEAK AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE-----"Difficult, But Not Impossible" is the theme of Faith and Life Week, to be held at Methodist College Feb. 15 - 19.

Guest for the week is Donald J. Welch, Dean of Students at Wofford College.

Welch is former assistant dean of the Duke University Divinity School in Durham.

A 38-year-old native of Ashland, Ky., Welch is a Union College (Ky.) and Duke Divinity School graduate. He has pursued graduate studies in psychology at the University of Kentucky.

Welch has served as a minister, teacher and administrator.

From 1957 to 1961 Welch was dean of men at Union College and a member of the faculty. He also served for three years as minister of First United Methodist Church in Berea, Ky., and as director of the Wesley Foundation, Berea College.

Welch assumed administrative responsibilities at the Duke Divinity School in 1965. While there, he taught in the area of campus ministry and spoke on more than 20 college and university campuses.

Welch won the Hickman Preaching Award at Duke Divinity School.

An annual event at Methodist, Faith and Life Week is a five-day program sponsored by Koinonia, the Christian fellowship group on campus.

According to Larry Lugar, president of the ecumenical group, Koinonia's steering committee has planned discussions to interest students and adults. Dean Welch will speak at all events.

Monday's 8:00 p.m. movie "Raisin in the Sun," starring Sidney Poitier, begins a discussion on "Brotherhood." No admission will be charged for the movie which will be shown in Reeves Auditorium.

"Business Ethics" will be discussed in Sanford Hall at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday, led by Fred Reardon, assistant professor of economics and business at Methodist. Refreshments will be served.

Dean Welch will speak in Wednesday's 11:30 a.m. assembly program in Reeves Auditorium.

At 5:30 p.m. Wednesday the subtopic at a dinner meeting will be "Peace." Guests may dine at regular meal prices in dining rooms #1 and #2 of the college cafeteria. Fred Puryear, a freshman pianist, will entertain.

Thursday evening's 8:00 o'clock concern will be "Living as a Christian on Campus." Dean Welch, students, faculty and guests will convene in Weaver Hall.

A Hensdale Chapel service, led by Dean Welch, at 11:30 a.m. Friday will conclude Faith and Life Week at Methodist College.
