Remember when things were much cheaper? The 40's - the 30's - and maybe some of you remember the 20's - when things were roaring as well as "Cheaper By the Dozen."

"Cheaper By the Dozen" is the name of the fall production at Methodist College in Reeves Auditorium on Thursday and Friday nights, October 18 and 19 at 8:15 p.m.

This hilarious comedy has been seen by millions as a first-rate movie starring Clifton Webb and Jeanne Crain back in the 50's.

Now see it for FREE! The price is right! Come and bring your entire family for an evening of great fun!

FAYETTEVILLE--

The Sociology Club at Methodist College today, October 20, sponsored for the first time a Big Brother/Big Sister "Fun Affair".

Some 40 underprivileged children from the Fayetteville area were treated to various sporting events, folk singing and a cookout.

According to Larry Autrey, chairman of the event, "we hope the affair will be continued in the future. We have had terrific response from the entire student body. Even though the Sociology Club sponsored the event, once the word got around campus, many students wanted to participate."

Henry Francis was in charge of food and refreshments, while John Young coordinated the sports activities, and Ron Glancy was the recruiter for the program.

The first art show arranged in cooperation with Methodist College and Fayetteville State University, is being held through November 2 in Methodist College's Fine Arts Building.

A reception honoring the artists will be held Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Lobby of the Fine Arts Building. The public, faculty and students from schools may attend the reception.

The exhibit is a representative sampling of work by FSU faculty members. Artists include Harvey C. Jenkins, assistant professor and chairman of the Area of Art, Coordinator of the Humanities; O.C. Willis, Syed Yunus and Whaley Hunt.

Mr. Jenkins, a teacher, artist and free lance photographer, has participated in one-man shows throughout the South and in <sup>NY</sup>New York. He designed the cover and illustration several years ago for the Fayettevillian. He also revised the 1968 University Seal.

Mr. Willis, who has taught at FSU for five years, was formerly associated with Winston-Salem State University.

Mr. Yunus, whose area of teaching includes painting, drawing, ceramics and humanities, came to the United States as a Fulbright Fellow. Awarded an MFA from the University of Oregon, he frequently lectures and gives demonstrations in the Fayetteville schools and in surrounding communities. He has participated in juried and one-man shows throughout the United States.

More than 100 college students from across North Carolina will meet at 10:30 a.m. today at Methodist College for the North Carolina Student Legislature's Interim Council meeting.

The Interim Council, the governing body for the NCSL when not at the convention, rules throughout the year. Meetings are usually held at member colleges once a month. Each member school is allowed one voting delegate to sit on Interim Council.

Attending will be students from such colleges as Duke, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and at Greensboro, North Carolina State and East Carolina University.

Student governor, Walker Reagan, from Duke, will conduct the business session.

Methodist College's Mike Casey, attorney general for the state association, is also chairman of the constitution committee. The Council will try to improve the constitution and By-Laws, in order to make the NCSL eligible for tax-exempt status as a non-profit corporation with the IRS.

Harry Stubbs of ECU, chairman of the membership committee, will conduct a new school orientation session. New schools to participate include Lenoir Community College, Pitt Technical Institute, Caldwell Community College and Johnston Technical Institute. The workshop will attempt to familiarize the new schools with the workings of the NCSL, as well as to explore new avenues for attaining more new member schools.

The biggest and best HOMECOMING ever is on tap this weekend at Methodist College.

A wide range of activities have been planned. Kicking-off the festivities will be the Miss Boiler Plant Pageant, Thursday, Nov. 1, at 7 p.m. in Reeves Auditorium. A dance, also Thursday evening, will follow in the Student Union.

A big Homecoming Dance will be held Friday at 8 p.m. at the Ramada Inn.

The majority of activities will take place Saturday. A "Sidewalk Drawing Contest", sponsored by the Methodist College Alumni Association will begin the festivities.

From 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., students, faculty and members of the college administration staff will have the opportunity to show their talent. Contestants will draw on the sidewalks around the Bell Tower. Chalk will be sold to all contestants for $1 per box. Judging will be held at 1 p.m. First prize will be $50, second will be $25, and third place will receive $10.

Methodist College's soccer team will face North Carolina Wesleyan at 2 p.m. Following at 4 p.m. in the gymnasium will be the annual Johnson Murray Memorial Basketball Game, with proceeds going to the Athletic Department.

The game will feature those "outstanding" former varsity basketball players (now alumni), against this year's Methodist College varsity basketball team.

Johnson Murray, who died in late 1970, was a 1968 graduate of Methodist. In 1968, he was voted the college's "Most outstanding athlete."

The college Amphitheatre will be the scene for the 6 p.m. "Pic Picking" (Barbecue). Reservations were necessary for the barbecue.

"Wet Willie" will be featured in concert Saturday evening at 8 p.m. in Reeves Auditorium. The public may attend the concert.

To round out the activities Sunday, the Rev. John K. Ormond Jr., a 1964 graduate of MC, will speak at the Worship Service to be held at 11 a.m. in Hensdale Chapel. The Rev. Mr. Ormond, also a graduate of Perkins School of Theology, has served for two terms as chaplain for the North Carolina House of Representatives. He is presently associate minister at Edenton Street United Methodist Church in Raleigh.

Another concert, from 3 to 5 p.m. in Reeves Auditorium, will feature "Hue And Cry." The public may also attend the concert.

FOR RELEASE SUNDAY WITH PHOTOGRAPHS

Beginning Monday and continuing through November 17, two exhibits will be featured in the Lobby of the Fine Arts Building at Methodist College.

Dr. David E. Drake, who has been a Fayetteville family physician since 1957, will display "random black and white photographs."

Mrs. Lee Kesler, a senior art major at Methodist College, will exhibit paintings, drawings and sculpture.

Dr. Drake, who has been interested in photography since childhood, prefers black and white work and "straight" photography (mostly landscapes and people). He explained most of the photographs to be shown at the college were taken in North Carolina. "Some were taken in Maine and some, in Switzerland."

He will also exhibit his work at Meredith College in Raleigh, the first two weeks of December.

While serving as an Air Force flight surgeon in Japan, he won second prize for the Armed Forces Far East Photography Contest. His winning photograph also hung in an exhibit at the Pentagon in Washington, D.C.

According to Donald Green, a member of the Methodist College Art Department faculty, "before an art student may be graduated, he or she must exhibit in the senior year, some various forms of art work."

Mrs. Kesler, who hopes to work independently following graduation, plans to continue her education toward an advanced degree.

A native of Winston-Salem, she took her first art courses while a student at R.J. Reynolds High School in Winston-Salem. As a student at Meredith College in Raleigh, Mrs. Kesler studied drawing and compositions and design under Leonard White.

The artist is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D.T. Sloan of Winston-Salem. She and her husband, Timothy B. Kesler of 2108 A Beech St., Fayetteville, are the parents of a daughter.

Mrs. Kesler feels "so often man has little time to see his world or to explore his inner feelings. Art opens man's world to him by capturing his attention and placing before him things he has never noticed before and awakening thoughts he has never allowed to surface. The artist is a success if he can open some portion of the world for one man or give that man a better understanding of himself."

It is Mrs. Kesler's opinion that art has a more important task in today's world than ever before. Through art a man can find himself and today so many men are lost."

cheaper by the dozen

A comedy based on the book by Frank Gilbreth and Ernestine Gilbreth Carey.

Suppose you're an attractive high school girl, and you're not only a member of a large and unique family, but your father is, in fact, one of the great pioneers of industrial efficiency. Then suppose he decides, for no apparent reason, to apply his unorthodox methods to you and to the rest of your big family. The results are terribly embarrassing, wildly funny, and — it must be admitted — extremely effective! To the girl, Anne, however, the chief effect seems to be that of making them seem ridiculous to everyone else at school — boys especially!

Dad is a terrific efficiency expert, and it's his firm conviction that what works in the factory will work in the home! Despite his daughters' interests in boys and dates, Dad pushes ahead with better organization for his large and delightful family. He puts up a chart for the young people to initial after completing each household task, uses a rug as an imaginary bathtub to demonstrate how to take a really efficient bath, and appoints a utilities officer to levy fines on wasters of electricity.

While this provides uproarious humor there's an imperative reason. Dad has a heart condition which he's keeping secret. He knows that he's on borrowed time, and that's why he's doing his best to make his family efficient. The girls, not knowing this, don't understand what's driving Dad, nor does he understand high school girls. Anne, the oldest daughter, rebels against Dad who is about to leave for Europe. Both he and Anne are miserable at the lack of understanding between them. Then in a deft and moving scene, Dad becomes aware of how much Anne has grown up. ~~He had to choose from among all our publications the one show most likely to delight an audience, this play would be our choice.~~ It's moving, it says something, and it's very funny!

Royalty, $35.00      Price, $1.50

Cast: 9 men. 7 women

For musical version,
see "Musicals"

The audience gave the play standing ovations, and I can't praise it too highly. It was truly a thrilling and tremendous experience. This play has everything — continuous humor that produces constant laughs — and an ending, the pathos of which brought forth tears and choked throats.

Radio

This year's Drama Club definitely got off to a good start. On August 23, the Green & Gold Masques sponsored a talent show to get the Freshman Class involved.

The acts varied from anything from secular music to a political farce about Watergate by President Pierce. It proved to be a very interesting evening for all when Methodist College's own "Miss Boiler Plant 1972-73" emerged from back stage in her (his?) full glory. We hope to sponsor another such talent show later this year.

The Drama Club also recently held tryouts for "Cheaper By The Dozen" which will be presented October 18 & 19 in Reeves Auditorium.

The plot of this comedy is centered around a relatively small family, consisting of a Father (Jim Hurdley) a Mother (Cathy Coolie) and twelve kids; the father's main purpose in life is for his family to be able to function in the most efficient manner possible - with or without him. He encourages the children to study hard so they can skip grades. He also discourages the girls from dating or even thinking about boys. The latter, however is rebelled against, with the leader of the revolt being Anne.

Other members of the cast are Chip Ross, Cheryl Olson, Fran Benson, Vic Mansfield, Gail Connon, Al Hare,
~~William B. Riddick~~, Delores Cayne,
Paul Saunders, Eddie Dowell, Donna Waters, & Ann Thomas. This promises to be a very touching yet funny play that should be experienced by all.

Another project still under discussion is three one act plays to be directed and presented entirely by students.

We hope to present these sometime
during "Homecoming Week"

We also invite the student body to participate in all of ~~these~~ these activities, as either members of the cast or as members of the audience. We need your support.

Louis Spilman Jr. of 632 McPherson Church Road has been appointed director of the Methodist College Foundation.

Announcement of the appointment was made today by Methodist College president, Dr. Richard W. Pearce, who said "Louis Spilman will coordinate the work of the Foundation, including the 1973-74 Annual Loyalty Day Campaign."

Spilman, owner and operator of several instant copy plants in the Fayetteville area, will be employed by the college on a part-time basis.

A trustee of Methodist College and also a graduate of MC, the new director has done graduate work at East Carolina University, Spilman and his wife, the former Mary MacPherson, have four children. Their eldest daughter, Mary, is a Methodist College senior.

Named Outstanding Man of 1958 in the Tennessee Press Association, Spilman was editor and publisher from 1954 to 1960 of the Claiborne Progress, the Hancock County News and the Union County Times in Tazewell, Tenn.

A member of the Fayetteville Area Chamber of Commerce, he is also an officer and member of the MacPherson Presbyterian Church in Fayetteville.

Secretary to the Salvation Army Advisory Board, Spilman is also area chairman for Eastern North Carolina of Gideons International.
