ART EXHIBIT- Fayetteville Museum of Art- February 4 thru 28

February's featured artist at the Fayetteville Museum of Art will be Eleanor Howell, well-known area artist and Methodist College art instructor. Works to be displayed February 4 thru 28 in the Market House in downtown Fayetteville include a wide variety of media, colors, subjects and techniques. The artist's works can be viewed on Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

"Since childhood painting has always been an important means of self expression for me," Mrs. Howell explained. "I can express my outlook on life in the themes, colors, textures, and media I use." "Experimentation with water color, pen and ink, oil, and other media is a "must" for me," she emphasized.

Dominating her art work are realistic portrayals of nature, animals and people. However, as Mrs. Howell said, "I rarely ever begin a painting with an exact result in mind." The preconceived subject idea may turn out to be abstract when finished, projecting an entirely different impression than the original. Mrs. Howell's fascination with experimentation reveals the excitement she finds in discovering new ways for expression, never being certain how the tools of art will perform in new combinations and techniques.

"Anything might suggest a theme for me to paint, but deciding how to handle the idea is the challenge," she smiled. "Painting sometimes means putting in every tiny detail for me," she said, "but at other times I would rather simply capture the <sup>abstract</sup> ~~essence~~ of a subject."

Jan 17, 1973

Eleanor Howell

As you view the Eleanor Howell exhibit, you too will feel the revelation of her paintings, a revelation of the individuality, sensitivity and total self expression she puts into her art work. Among her numerous exhibitions in the area are: Richmond, Va.; South Carolina; Central Carolina Technical Institute, Sanford; and recently in the St. John's Gallery in Wilmington. Future shows will include an exhibit to begin March 4 in the Reeves Auditorium, Methodist College.

Groups wishing to tour the Fayetteville Museum of Art and the historic Market House can contact Mrs. Morton Union at 484-6666.

Clowns, musicians, actors, dancers, sportsmen, all appear to be saying "I want to please you." Johnson explains most of this exhibit was taken for fun as the result of recreational photography. In addition to people doing things the show contains many pictorial scenes and abstract interpretations. About one-half of the large photographs are in color. Photos cut in various shapes and sizes hang from rods dangling, twisting and turning in the breeze to capture the viewer's imagination and pleasure.

Dick Johnson has a varied background in photography. After college Johnson served as a U.S. Army photographer for public information programs. .....Dick Johnson has a varied background in photography. As a college student he photographed for the University of Minnesota yearbook and daily newspaper. During his last two years of school, he worked as night bureau manager for United Press Newspictures in Minneapolis. He also tried his hand at television newsreel camera work until he was drafted into the army. While serving we made pictures for Army ~~public information~~ public information programs. This led him, ~~to his current position~~ after several years of architectural freelancing, to his current position which is Pictorial Officer at Fort Bragg. His duties there include making training and documentary films and photos. Last winter he spent some time at Appalachian Ski Mountain with the Special Forces making training films and this sparked a revival of his interest in skiing and he enjoys photographing places accessible only by ski or snowshoe.

This year he is vice president of the Fayetteville Little Theater and puts his talents to work as lighting director. He says of this hobby: "Nothing is more challenging than to conceive a lighting plot which is dramatically sound and photographically beautiful." He has received several photographic awards, among them the National Press Photographer's Association, and the Commendation Medal from the U.S. Army for outstanding ~~milit~~ military photojournalism. Johnson comments: "The color prints in this exhibit are almost entirely the result of recreational photography...I took them for fun...if they manage to please someone else, too, so much the better..."

Alan M. Porter recital

Kari Michele Hagan, Public Relations
488-7110, ext. 228

FAYETTEVILLE _____ Alan M. Porter, well known soloist, conductor and Methodist College <sup>assistant</sup> professor of music, will present the song cycle "The Lovely Milleress" by the great nineteenth century composer Franz Schubert February 4 at 8:00 p.m. in the band room of the MC Fine Arts Building.

This work, considered one of the greatest cycles in the literature of vocal music, was originally composed to the German poetry of Wilhelm Mueller. Mr. Porter will present the English translation. The story is that of a young man who follows a brook to a mill where he finds work. While there he falls in love with the beautiful miller's daughter, who encourages him at first, then rejects him for a hunter who comes to the mill from the forest. Completely defeated, the young man can not bear to go on living, and finds his peace at the bottom of the brook.

Assisting Mr. Porter at the piano will be Harlan Duenow, conductor of the Fayetteville Symphony Orchestra and the Cumberland Chorale.

In his home state of Pennsylvania, Porter sang professionally in more than 30 shows with the Pittsburgh Civic Light Opera Company. Graduated from Mount Union College and the University of Illinois, Porter joined the Methodist College faculty in 1963. Since coming to Fayetteville he has served as choir director of the Hay Street United Methodist Church, guest conductor of the Fayetteville Symphony Orchestra and presents frequent solos, oratorios and cantatas in the area.

Last spring Porter sang the role of Faust in the Fayetteville Opera Guild's production of operatic scenes. In recent years the musician has been musical director for the Fayetteville Little Theater. In February Porter will serve as music director for the Fort Bragg Playhouse production of "Celebration."

The public is welcome to attend the performance February 4 free of charge.

Loyalty Campaign for MC

NEWS

To: small Talk

Community support counts. So do you as a student of Methodist College. That's why Methodist College will take on the role of fund raiser beginning February 13. Headed by Foundation Executive Secretary Rev. Thomas Yow, Foundation Board President C.C. Ingram and campaign co-chairmen Von Autry and John Ashford, the Community Loyalty Campaign will conclude on April 10. This Loyalty Campaign has been an event of MC since 1966. In 1966 it became apparent that the people of Fayetteville had provided only half of the two million dollars they had pledged to the college at its beginning in 1958. An additional $50,000 was also pledged at the college founding for operating funds per year. Faced with the need for sustaining funds, Methodist College found it necessary to borrow the promised one million dollars. Now, it takes $70,000 annually to retire this debt and pay its interest. Thus, it is necessary to raise $120,000 each year during the Community Loyalty Fund Campaign. Methodist College needs your enthusiasm and concern as students, faculty and employees.

Join me in supporting Methodist College on Feb. 12 through the Community Loyalty Fund Campaign.

FOR PINKIE JACKSON

A date to remember...Feb 12. It's THE DAY for the Community

Loyalty Campaign for Methodist College. The college facilities enable us to add to the cultural life of our Entire county. The College/Community Civic Music Association brings opera, ballet, orchestras and choral groups to Fayetteville. The college's Drama Club provides two major productions a year. And the college chorus, in addition to their campus concerts, performs for many area civic clubs and churches. This is Pinkie Jackson reminding you to support the college. Your help here means a more-culturally alive city and county.

FOR A STUDENT

Life is a continuing series of commitments. At Methodist College, one learns the meaning of commitment through realistic preparation for life. Methodist College encourages constant evaluation of...who we are, what we want and where we are going. I am _____, a _____ at Methodist College. Here we receive More than a good, solid academic education. We learn about life and experience the joy of being involved. To develop oneself into a total person who is able to deal with life is as important as the academic preparation. Help US continue this valuable type of education. Participate in the Community Loyalty Campaign on Feb. 12.

FOR DR. SPEEGLE

This is Dr. Charles Speegle, chairman of the 1974 Community Loyalty Campaign for Methodist College. I accepted this chairmanship because of the urgent need for all of us to fulfill the commitment which we made to this fine institution in 1956. The future of Methodist College, which plays a vital part in the establishment of our well-rounded community and balanced economy, depends on US! We must recognize there is a continual need for a portion of our financial resources and our willingness to help meet this goal through our unselfish subscription to the cause. I urge YOU to join hundreds of others in our community to make a commitment to Methodist College on Feb.12.

FOR MAYOR LEE

This is Jack Lee. As Mayor of Fayetteville, it gives me great pleasure to proclaim Tuesday, Feb. 12, as Methodist College Day. We are fortunate to have such an outstanding college in our city. All of Fayetteville and Cumberland County benefits from this young institution. We now can participate in its future through a commitment in the Community Loyalty Campaign. Remember the economic, cultural and educational opportunities which Methodist College brings to Fayetteville. I invite you to join me in making Feb. 12 a great day for our city and for Methodist College.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The Methodist College Cheerleaders are desperately trying to raise $300.

By reaching this goal, the group hopes to attend the Dixie Conference Basketball Tournament at Lynchburg (Va.) College, Feb. 21-23.

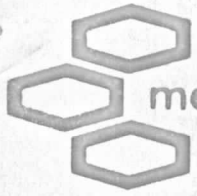

"We want to give our team (the Monarchs) complete support at the tournament", according to head cheerleader, Miss Brenda Smith of Elizabethtown.

Unfortunately, she added, "the host college notified us last week that it would not provide overnight accommodations for any cheerleaders attending from other Dixie Conference colleges."

Senior David Daniel, a cheerleader from Sylva, N.C., explained how important it was for the team's morale when they (the cheerleaders) were at the away games. "It gives the team a big boost to hear us chanting them on to victory."

Consequently, the need to raise at least $300.

The first fund-raising event will be a bake sale this coming Friday, Feb. 1. To be held in the college Classroom Building and in the Student Union, the sale is for everyone. Miss Smith said she hopes the community will attend.

"We've asked the entire college community (from students and faculty to the administrative staff) to support us. Many have offered to bake goodies and others are donating a dollar."

On Saturday morning, Feb. 9, the cheerleaders will sell donuts in the four college dormitories. And, "we'll have a 50's Sock Hop on Feb. 11 in the college gymnasium", the head cheerleader explained. The Sock Hop is also open to the public.

The cheerleaders also sell refreshments and popcorn at all the Methodist College home basketball games. "To save money, instead of buying popcorn in the future, some faculty members have offered to make popcorn at their homes," Miss Smith added.

"We hope we're successful. All of us cheerleaders know there isn't too much time until the tournament. But, we don't want to disappoint the players", Miss Smith said.

"It's not for us, but for the college and for the basketball team."
