Fayetteville, North Carolina

Dear Dr. Womack:

The September 30th event has just been finalized, and I would appreciate it very much if your public information people would take steps for publicity using the following basic facts:

1. The two-year North Carolina Southeastern Consortium for International Education World Studies Program will begin on September 30th with the address of Senator John C. Culver.
2. Senator John C. Culver of Iowa is a ranking member of the Senate Arms Service Committee, who made recently a trip with President Ford to Eastern Europe and Russia.
3. The topic of the speech will be "The Priorities in American Security," and the address will be made to about fifty international education faculty and chief administrative and academic officers of the four member institutions of the Consortium--Fayetteville State University, Methodist College, Pembroke State University, and St. Andrews Presbyterian College--at the Green Valley Club following the buffet dinner, which will begin at 6:30 on the evening.
4. The Program has various parts: there will be five more lectures during the rest of the academic year; two Symposia and two International Cultural Festivals will be held next spring; a five day Faculty Development Workshop will be held next spring; and the first year activity will be concluded early next summer with the three week Curriculum Development Institute.

Sincerely,

John Chay

METHODIST COLLEGE ADDS FOUR FACULTY MEMBERS

The addition of four faculty members at Methodist College has been announced by Dr. Samuel J. Womack, dean. They are Dr. Janet M. Cavano, Miss Mary Jane Hunley, Mr. Joseph L. Miller, and Mr. Marlin M. Stewart.

Dr. Cavano will serve as a lecturer in the English Department. Born in Denver, Colo., she attended San Antonio Junior College, received her bachelor of arts degree from the University of Denver, and her master of arts in teaching and doctorate degrees from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Dr. Cavano previously taught at the Fort Bragg Branch of North Carolina State and Fayetteville State University. She is married to Arthur T. Cavano Jr., and they have five children: Arthur Thomas III, Jame, Anne, Jeffrey, and David.

Miss Hunley, an instructor in the Physical Education Department, will also serve as director of women's athletics. A Bethesda, Md. native, Miss Hunley attended Southern Seminary Junior College, Montgomery College, and received a bachelor of science and master of arts in education degree from East Carolina University. Before coming to Methodist, Miss Hunley was a physical education specialist for the Greenville City School System.

Mr. Miller is also a member of the Physical Education Department staff and in addition to his teaching duties, is Methodist College's head basketball coach. Hailing from Edgerton, Ohio, Miller received a bachelor of science degree from Ohio Northern University and a master of education degree from Bowling Green State University. Miller previously held the position of assistant professor at Ohio Northern University. Miller's wife, Sue Anne, is a guidance counselor at Pine Forest Senior High School. They have two children: Andy and Patrick.

Mr. Stewart will fill the position of lecturer in insurance in the Business Administration-Economics Department. Stewart attended Mississippi State University and holds a Certified Life Underwriter designation. He is a retired Army Lt. Col. where he served in the Corps of Engineers. He is a member of the Fayetteville Association of Life Underwriters and the Kiwanis Club. Stewart's wife, Elizabeth, is an elementary school teacher and they have two children: Susan and Marlin, Jr.

World Studies Program Theme

Funded this year by a $25,000 grant from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), the N. C. Southeastern Consortium for International Education— which is made up of Pembroke State University, Fayetteville State University, Methodist College and St. Andrews Presbyterian College— begins a two-year world studies program this month.

The program will have four major component parts: lecture-seminar series, symposia and international cultural festivals, faculty development workshop and summer curriculum development institute.

First scheduled event will be a talk by Sen. John C. Culver, Democrat of Iowa, at Fayetteville's Green Valley Country Club, Sept. 30, at 6:30 p.m. It will be part of the consortium's lecture-seminar series. Sen. Culver is a ranking member of the Senate Arms Service Committee which recently toured Russia and Eastern Europe with President Ford. His topic will be "SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Talks) and American Security."

The lecture series will schedule five other prominent speakers in international education during the remainder of this academic year in October, November, February, March and April.

This consortium program is the first attempt on this large scale for inter-institutional cooperation between senior colleges and universities of this Southeastern N. C. region. Chairman of the executive committee which organized and is executing the program is Dr. John Chay, chairman of the History Department of Pembroke State University. He is also director of the program. Other committee members are Vice President Victor A. Arnold of St. Andrews Presbyterian College, Dean Samuel J. Womack of Methodist College and Dr. William R. Dempsey, professor of history at Fayetteville State University.

"Our objectives are to improve the educational capabilities of our member institutions and promote the interest of the general public of the region in world affairs," said Dr. Chay. "We wish to enlighten as well as educate members of the academic communities and public with speeches by these major leaders in the various fields of international education."

Two international cultural festivals will be held during this academic year. Pembroke State University will conduct a festival next spring in Scandinavian culture, while St. Andrews will focus on Japanese culture. Objective of each will be to introduce people of this region to these cultures through various media, including dance, music, theatrical performances, films, art exhibits, lectures and other activities.

Fayetteville State University and Methodist College are organizing symposia to be held next spring. Each will seek to encourage professors of the regional institutions as well as scholars of the nation to promote knowledge in international education by presentation and publication of papers on important themes.

A five-day faculty development workshop will also be held next spring for 50 international education faculty members of the four participating schools. Five scholars will be brought to the region to present new frontiers of the various fields of international education, both in substance of knowledge and instructional methodology. Next summer four professors of the member schools will be chosen to produce, with the assistance of two instructors, a pair of learning packages for the four schools.

This N. C. Southeastern Consortium was organized initially 1 1/2 years ago. Active participation by the people of the region is welcomed by the consortium, said Dr. Chay.

COLE NAMED DIRECTOR OF DEVELOPMENT FOR METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE--Mr. Robert G. Cole, a member of the North Carolina Arts Council by appointment of Gov. James Holshouser, has been named director of development for Methodist College.

Cole comes to Methodist from the Brevard Music Center, a non-profit educational institution located in Brevard, where he was general manager. His position there encompassed responsibility for public relations, development, business affairs and facilities management.

At Methodist College Cole will help draw up the college's 15-year development plan which was approved by college trustees last spring. The long-range plan envisions, in part, a $2 million field house, a $16 million endowment, and retirement of capital indebtedness.

Cole joined Brevard Music Center June 1, 1972, after having served for two and one-half years as director of development for the University of Tennessee-Martin Campus.

Previously, he was director of public relations for St. Jude

Children's Research Hospital in Memphis. For 11 years, he was employed by General Electric Company in Alabama, Oklahoma, and North Carolina in a variety of employee and community relations positions.

An active member in community affairs, Cole's past service includes chairmanship of the United Fund, president of a county safety council, membership on the board of directors of the American Red Cross, United Fund, Equal Employment Opportunity and bi-racial committees, the church administrative board, and extensive work with his political party. He has been a member of the International Council of Industrial Editors, National Management Association, and Sigma Delta Chi/Society of Professional Journalists. He is also a member of Rotary International.

Cole is a graduate of the University of Alabama with a bachelor of arts degree in journalism and business economics. He has completed several corporate training programs and has taught in-company courses. He recently graduated from the Kennedy-Sinclair Planned Gifts Training Program which is a specialized training program for development and public relations officers.

The native of Huntsville, Ala., is a veteran of the Air Force. He is married and has two daughters--Cynthia, aged 16, a high school senior, and Susan, 11, a sixth grader. His wife, Mary Alice, is a ceramics instructor and is active in PTA and related community affairs. She recently was nominated as an "Outstanding Young Woman in America" by the Western North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church.

Princeton, N.J., August 1, 1975. The Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT), formerly the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, will be offered on November 1, 1975 and on January 31, March 27, and July 10, 1976. The GMAT is required of applicants to about 390 graduate schools of management. Although the name of the test has been changed, its nature and purpose remain the same. It is a test of academic aptitude designed to estimate an applicant's promise to succeed in a program of graduate study leading to an MBA or equivalent degree.

Registration materials for the test and the GMAT Bulletin of Information are available from Methodist College or by writing to GMAT, Educational Testing Service, Box 966, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

The regular GMAT fee of $12.50 includes a score report sent to the candidate, to his undergraduate counseling/placement office, and to as many as three graduate schools designated on the registration form. GMAT registration forms and test fees must be received at ETS on or before the registration deadline announced in the bulletin. A $4 late fee is charged for registration forms received after the deadline.

Candidates who cannot register in advance may wish to consider registering at the test center on the day of the test. Walk-in registration is permitted at all test centers if sufficient space and test materials are available after all normally registered candidates have been admitted. To be admitted as a walk-in registrant, a candidate must present a completed registration form and a check or money order for the regular test fee plus an additional $10 service fee. The $4 late registration fee does not apply here.

SENIOR YEAR OF HIGH SCHOOL BYPASSED BY TWO FRESHMEN AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE--Among the 158 new freshmen on the Methodist College campus this year are two students who are bypassing their senior year of high school. They are Victoria Lee Dailey of White Oak and Richard Edward Pearce of Fayetteville.

Miss Dailey is the daughter of Mrs. T. J. Dailey, Rt. 1, White Oak, and Pearce is the son of Dr. and Mrs. William H. Pearce, 2105 Fordham Dr., Fayetteville..

For different reasons both of these students have been permitted to enter Methodist College on the freshman level. They are now experiencing the enthusiasm and energy of a large and eager freshman class.

During Miss Dailey's junior year at Tar Heel Senior High School, she visited Thomas Yow, director of admissions at Methodist. She found out from him that the idea of skipping her senior year was feasible as long as she took and did well on the CLEP (College Level Examination Program) and passed the GED (General Educational Development) examinations. The GED is a high school equivalency test.

Unlike Miss Dailey, Pearce took only the CLEP examinations receiving six hours of credit for his score on the science section. Rather than take the GED, he prefers to graduate with his class at E. E. Smith High School this spring.

Yow says that he hopes more qualified students will take advantage of this opportunity. He also expressed appreciation for the cooperation received from the respective school boards in allowing the two students to participate in this new program.

Thus far, Pearce likes the less structured college class. He also enjoys the class organization at MC because "it emphasizes student responsibility and effort. I'm working a lot harder than I would have been in high school," he said. "My first year at Methodist will be a test of my ability and adjustment."

Since Miss Dailey is from White Oak, she is living in one of the college's residence halls. She spends her free time playing tennis and intramural softball, confessing that she doesn't "spend as much time with books as I should; however, I am keeping up with most of the reading lists."

Both agree that only those who meet academic requirements and possess a high level of maturity should be considered for early admission to college. Too, in both their cases the only remaining requirement was the high school senior English course.

PLEASE DO US A FAVOR...

To publish Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges by graduation our staff must compile and edit your students' biographies before December 1.

Therefore, to be included in this year's edition, your students must return immediately the material we send them.

Often students put off filling out the material, waiting for an opportune moment when they will have the time to put a lot of thought into it. However, a lot of time isn't necessary for the simple forms we send them. Moreover, this procrastination, while with good intentions, causes our staff to get drastically off schedule.

This causes two unnecessary problems for you, your students and our staff:

First, we're unable to publish the book on time, causing the publication date to be months off schedule.

Secondly, this disruption could prevent, perhaps, the staff giving their undivided attention to the student placement and reference service, which wrote over 25,000 letters of reference last year for students seeking employment, admission to graduate schools, acceptance for scholarship and grants, etc.

Thus, to give you and your students better service we ask you to do us a favor.

Please contact your Who's Who Students and ask them to fill out and return the material we send them immediately. Also please inform them why it is so important to do so.

It is easy...and it only takes about 15 minutes.

Your help is greatly appreciated.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

H. Pettus Randall, Director

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges

The following students, whose academic eligibility has been verified by the Registrar, have been nominated by faculty members for consideration in the final ballot for the selection of 12 Methodist College representatives for the 1975-76 edition of Who's Who.

This list of nominees has been screened by an S.G.A. committee, in accordance with the prescribed procedures, and that student committee has indicated its endorsement of those candidates it considers as having played a sufficient role in campus activities to merit serious consideration. The S.G.A. endorsement is indicated in each case by an asterisk beside the candidate's name. Figure in parenthesis after each name indicates number of faculty members nominating that candidate.

Since we may pick 12 candidates, it is essential that you weight your choices. In the spaces provided at left of names indicate by number the order of your choices: give 12 points to your first choice, 11 points to the second choice, 10 to the third, etc. You may vote for 12 candidates if you wish, but are not required to vote for 12. Whatever the number of candidates you vote for, give 12 points to first choice, etc.

(NOTE: The original list submitted to faculty contained names of four students who were eligible and voted upon for Who's Who last year. They will have graduated by the end of this summer, if not earlier, and were not correctly included in next year's Who's Who listing. They were Henry Francis, Linda Mardres, Lynda Baum and Verlis Secrist. It has been necessary to delete their names from the roster below.)

ENROLLMENT GAIN SHOWN AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE--Enrollment is up over 10 per cent at Methodist College this year, according to figures released today by G. Gordon Dixon, registrar.

Last year, 622 were enrolled. This year's enrollment of 686 includes 635 in the regular session and 51 in the night school.

All areas of the college grew including commuting students from 376 last year to 432 and residential students from 246 to 252.

This year's freshman class of 204 is the largest in four years. In addition to Cumberland County, the student body represents 48 other North Carolina counties, 11 other states, and four foreign countries.

Director of Admissions Thomas Yow attributes the growth to three factors: "One, our rate of retention is the best it's been for several years. This indicates our students are pleased with our academic and social policies. Secondly, the academic quality of the college and its extensive student life program is becoming more widely known. And thirdly, the state of North Carolina's financial support of independent higher education. This year, due to increased appropriations, we were able to substantially increase our financial aid to needy students."

METHODIST COLLEGE TO HOST FALL MEETING OF HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

The fall meeting of the Association of Historians in Eastern North Carolina (AHENC) will be held at Methodist College on Friday, Oct. 24, with R. Parker Wilson, assistant professor of history at Methodist, serving as official host.

Dr. William Dempsey, assistant professor of history and political science at Fayetteville State University, will moderate the keynote dinner panel discussion entitled "What in the World Has Happened to History in the Public Schools?" On the basis of a nationwide survey, the Organization of American Historians recently concluded that the teaching of American history in the nation's public schools has reached a state of crisis.

Panelists with a wide range of viewpoints will participate in the debate and high school students are especially invited to this evening session of the meeting.

The other two sessions, to be held during the day, are also open to the public and will be in the College Cafeteria's private rooms. The first session will be from 2:30 - 3:15. Roger Jeans from Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., will present a paper on "Syncretism in Defense of Confucianism: The Early Thought of Carsum Chang." Comment will be made by Vernon O.

AHENC was instituted three years ago by college and university professors "to promote interest in history, the teaching of history, and historical research," says Bruce Pulliam, assistant professor of social studies at Methodist College. "We especially encourage historians to write and then publish their works."

Dinner will be served in the private dining area of the cafeteria from 6-6:30 immediately preceding the panel discussion. Those interested in attending the dinner should contact Pulliam or Wilson at Methodist College for reservations. Cost of the dinner is $3.00 per person.
