FEBRUARY 8-14 PROCLAIMED

METHODIST COLLEGE WEEK

The week of February 8-14 has been proclaimed Methodist College Week by Beth Finch, mayor of Fayetteville, and by Luther N. Packer Sr., chairman of the Cumberland County Board of Commissioners.

As part of the observance, on Tuesday (February 10) the Methodist College Foundation will kick off its annual community campaign for 1976 with a banquet in the College Cafeteria. The foundation, which is composed of 32 residents of Fayetteville and Cumberland County, has raised more than $1.5 million for the college in the past 20 years.

Guest speaker for the banquet will be Bishop W. Kenneth Goodson, resident bishop of the Virginia Annual Conference and president-elect of the Council of Bishops of the United Methodist Church.

In her proclamation Mayor Finch cited Methodist College for its cultural, social and educational contributions to Fayetteville and the surrounding area.

The Cumberland County Board of Commissioners, in their statement, also stressed the cultural, spiritual and civic achievements of the college and requested the support and attention of the people of Cumberland County toward the activities and welfare of the college.

METHODIST COLLEGE FOUNDATION

TO HEAR BISHOP KENNETH GOODSON

FAYETTEVILLE--Dr. W. Kenneth Goodson, president-designate of the United Methodist Church's Council of Bishops, will be the keynote speaker at the kickoff banquet of the Methodist College Foundation's annual loyalty campaign on February 10. The campaign goal is $120,000.

Bishop Goodson is the spiritual and administrative leader of the more than 1,000 ministers and nearly 400,000 members of the 1,300 churches in the Virginia Annual Conference.

Elected a bishop in 1964, Bishop Goodson was assigned to the Virginia Conference in July, 1972. In addition to his responsibilities for the church in Virginia, he holds key denominational leadership positions. He is president of the Board of Discipleship, the largest of the four denominational program agencies. He is also a member of the Board of Higher Education and Ministry and vice-chairman of its Division on Chaplains and Related Ministries.

A graduate of Catawba College, Bishop Goodson received his seminary training at Duke University Divinity School. He is now a trustee of that university--one of seven which have conferred honorary degrees upon him.

His ministerial career goes back to 1935 when he was received as a minister-on-trial in the Western North Carolina Conference. He was ordained a deacon in 1937 and an elder in 1939. Prior to being elected a bishop, all of his service except one three-year term as a district superintendent was spent as a pastor in the Western North Carolina Conference. He served churches in Oak Ridge, Greensboro, Wadesboro, High Point, Charlotte, and Winston-Salem.

Despite the administrative duties of his office, Bishop Goodson insists that his role is still that of a pastor. He preaches three to four times each week and is one of Virginia's most persistent travelers, visiting churches and church members throughout the state. There are few corners of the Virginia Conference that he doesn't cross several times a year.

His pastoral concern is combined with a deep social commitment. As bishop in Alabama, he led the church during the civil rights conflicts of the 60s and was instrumental in establishing significant inner-city ministries in the area. Closely allied with his social concern, however, is an evangelistic fervor. He has often said, "Regardless of what I can do for a man's station in life, if I have not introduced him to Christ, I have missed the mark."

Born Sept. 25, 1912, in Salisbury, Bishop Goodson joined the Methodist Church at the age of five. In 1937 he married the former Martha Ann Ogburn, and they have three children.

MC SCHOLARSHIP EXAMS

TO BE GIVEN SATURDAY

FAYETTEVILLE--Methodist College's final scholarship competition for high school seniors will be conducted this Saturday (February 14). The application deadline for anyone wishing to take the exams is Friday (February 13).

The competition is open to all high school seniors who plan to attend Methodist College. Awards are based upon four factors: scores on the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) General Examination which is administered by Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J.; the results of a personal interview conducted by a panel of three faculty members and one student currently attending Methodist College; the applicant's Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores; and the applicant's high school grade-point-average.

There currently are 45 scholarships available ranging from full tuition scholarships to scholarships of $200. Presidential Scholarships, which cover full tuition, will be presented to the top three finalists who can renew them for the four years they attend Methodist providing they maintain a 3.00 (B) grade-point-average.

Last Saturday (February 7), the first group participated in this competition taking the CLEP examinations during the morning and afternoon and being interviewed that evening. Fifteen of these incoming freshmen received college credit on the basis of their scores on the General Examinations. ART EXHIBIT BEGINS

FEB. 23 AT METHODIST

A one-man exhibit of paintings, drawings, and intaglio by Walter Aunders of Chadburn will begin Monday (February 23) in the North Lobby of Reeves Auditorium on the Methodist College campus. This special one week invitational show will conclude Friday (February 27).

An opening reception honoring the artist is scheduled in the North Lobby Monday (February 23) from 7-9 p.m., and the public is invited. The public can also view the exhibit weekdays from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

The 24-year-old Saunders plans to attend graduate school this September in Arizona. He taught for one year at Southeastern Community College (part-time) and at Waccamaw Private Academy.

"I first started painting in 1971 while attending Southeastern," he says. "From the beginning of my painting experiences, painting totally realistically has not been a major concern. Although representational realism is utilized, the finished canvas is dreamlike and fantasy.

PROGRESSING

Almost $35,000 had been contributed or pledged in the Methodist College Foundation Community Loyalty Campaign by 10 a.m. Friday, February 13.

The $120,000 campaign opened Tuesday night with a banquet in the College Cafeteria attended by campaign workers and guests.

On the basis of an increase in gifts this year when compared with the same time last year, college officials are expressing confidence in this year's campaign.

"Prospect cards on nearly 1,500 business and individuals are currently being worked," Methodist College Development Director Robert Cole said. He noted that community interest in Methodist College appears to be very high this year, and he expressed appreciation for the support received thus far from donors, campaign workers, and the people of the area.

NEW METHODIST COLLEGE TENNIS COURTS

FAYETTEVILLE--The new tennis courts at Methodist College are now in use. The number of courts behind the Student Union Building has been increased from four to six and resurfaced with Beauguard--an all-weather surfacing. Coordinating the project was college trustee R. Dillard Teer, senior vice-president of the Nello L. Teer Construction Co. of Durham.

Athletic Director and women's tennis coach Gene Clayton noted that Methodist College now has as fine a set of tennis courts as can be found anywhere in the area. Clayton said the next capital improvements for the tennis program include bleachers for viewing tennis matches and renovation of the three courts on the south campus.

FOUR NATIONAL EXAMS BEING OFFERED AT METHODIST COLLEGE THIS SEMESTER

FAYETTEVILLE--As a service to the people of Southeastern North Carolina, Methodist College this semester is serving as a testing center for several national testing programs.

Prof. Earlyne Saunders, director of guidance and placement at Methodist, has announced that the college will administer the ACT, GRE, GRE Advanced, and CLEP examinations. Registration forms, which can be obtained at Methodist College or from high school guidance counselors, must be completed and mailed to the testing agencies with proper payment several weeks prior to the testing date, Prof. Saunders said.

ACT

The American College Testing (ACT) Program Assessment consists of two steps. The first is registration, in which responses to questions will be reported in a Student Profile Report. The second step is a test covering four subject areas: English, mathematics, social studies, and natural science. The ACT will be administered on April 10 and June 12. Both tests begin at 8 a.m. in Science Building 222. This test is required for admittance to many colleges.

GRE

GOODSON SPEAKS AT METHODIST FOUNDATION DINNER

FAYETTEVILLE--The Methodist College Foundation kicked off its annual fund raising campaign with a banquet at the college cafeteria on Tuesday February 10. Guest speaker for the dinner was Dr. W. Kenneth Goodson, the president-designate of the United Methodist Church's Council of Bishops. The foundation is attempting to raise $120,000 during this year's campaign.

Bishop Goodson, resident bishop of the Richmond Area, told the audience that gathered for the occasion that he believes that the dual system of education which provides the student a choice between public and private schools is a necessity. He sees the private schools as providing an alternative for those who are looking for something other than a state-supported school. He also stated that a church related college can commit itself in many areas where a state-supported institution can not.

With the establishment of the necessity of the small private college, Goodson urged the members of the Fayetteville community to get behind Methodist College and raise the money necessary for continued quality education at the college.

Bishop Goodson will assume his new position as the chief Methodist

SPRING CONCERT SET

AT METHODIST COLLEGE

The Methodist College Chorus will present their annual spring concert of sacred music by American composers at Reeves Auditorium next Tuesday (March 9) evening at 8 o'clock. Admission is free. Performing with the College Chorus will be two smaller groups, the Vocal Ensemble composed of eight selected singers and the English Handbell Ensemble, now in its second year as a performing group.

The concert will include great choral works from various American historical periods. While some pieces will be sung a cappella, the chorus will be accompanied at various times by piano or organ.

This year's program consists entirely of American music in honor of our country's bicentennial. "One of the foremost Moravian composers of the late 18th century was John Frederick Peter, who served his church at Bethlehem, Pa., as well as at Salem (now Winston-Salem), N.C. The chorus will sing his great anthem 'He Who Soweth Weeping,'" said Alan Porter, choral director at Methodist College. "Some of the most popular pieces on the program will be the spiritual 'Tryin' to Get Ready,' 'Magnificent Sanctuary Band,' and the great Ringwald arrangement of 'The Battle Hymn of the Republic,'" he added. Contemporary American composers represented on the program include Ned Rorem, Lloyd Pfautsch, and Leonard Bernstein. "Perhaps the highlight of the program will be the finale of the oratorio 'The Invisible Fire,'" Porter concluded. It will be performed in its entirety on April 28.

FIRST WORLD STUDIES PROGRAM
SET FOR TUESDAY AT METHODIST

"Casting Off the Chains--Women of the World," the first of six World Studies Programs being offered at Methodist College this month and next, will look at women's liberation from an international viewpoint. The seminar is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday (March 2) in the Science Building Auditorium, and the public is invited.

Fayetteville and Cumberland County teachers can receive one recertification unit by attending all six World Studies Programs. The registration fee is $5 for teachers, and additional information can be obtained from Dr. B. L. Crisp, coordinator of the Methodist College Education Department.

The featured speaker for Tuesday's seminar will be Dr. Sandra Thomas, vice-president for student development at Meredith College. Panelists will include Mary Ann Tally, assistant public defender for the Twelfth Judicial District, and Dr. Lee Kleise, professor of chemistry at Fayetteville State University.

In January, 1976, Dr. Thomas attended a Women's Interreligious Study Seminar focusing upon the condition of women, minorities, and the issue of Zionism. The seminar was held in Egypt, Syria, Jordan, and Israel. She also was a delegate to the United Nations World Conference on International Women's Year in Mexico City in June, 1975.
