METHODIST HOSTING

HANDBELL FESTIVAL

Approximately 12 handbell ensembles from the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church are meeting at Methodist College today (March 6) for a festival of handbell music.

Each ensemble will prepare a selection to present during a concert which will be held in the Student Union Building at 3 p.m. The concert is open to the public, and admission will be free.

All groups will also combine to play four selections: "Medley of Patriotism," "A Festive Ring," "Arioso," and "Bicentennial Collection for Handbells." Directing the combined ensembles will be guest conductor Clyde Peterson, minister of music at Wilson's First Baptist Church.

The sixth annual handbell festival is under the sponsorship of the Committee on Music Ministry, and about 130 participants are expected. Cities to be represented include: Fayetteville (including Methodist College's English Handbell Ensemble), St. Pauls, Wilmington, New Bern, Roxboro, Wilson and Goldsboro.

COLLEGE CHORUS TOUR

TO TAKE IN NORTHEAST

The Methodist College Chorus and the English Handbell Ensemble will depart for its annual spring tour on Thursday morning, March 18. In commemoration of the bicentennial, the group will tour historic spots of the Northeast.

The spring tour performances will begin the evening of March 18 with a performance at the Marydale United Methodist Church in Marydale, Maryland.

The following day the chorus will present a program at the Delaware Home and Hospital in Smyrna, Delaware. That evening the group will be performing in Pemberton, N.J. at the Pemberton United Methodist Church.

On March 20, the group will spend a day sightseeing in Philadelphia.

The following morning a performance will be given at the Zoar United Methodist Church in Philadelphia. From there it's on to Washington, D.C., where the College Chorus has been invited to perform at the Capitol Hill United Methodist Church as the representative of the state of North Carolina.

The group will perform its final performance of the tour on March 22 at Central United Methodist Church in Asheboro, N.C.

The performances will consist of music composed entirely by Americans including choral works from the various historical periods in honor of our country's bicentennial.

ALUMNI PARENT'S COMMITTEE FORMED AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE--The formation of a Parent's Committee composed of parents of Methodist College alumni has been announced by its organizers: Dr. and Mrs. William Lee Woltz Jr. of Sanford and Mr. and Mrs. Marcus G. McKnight of Fayetteville.

Dr. and Mrs. Woltz are parents of Kathy, '73, and Cindy, '75. Mr. and Mrs. McKnight are parents of Mrs. Carole McKnight Wells, '70, and Mrs. Ann McKnight Sutton, '67.

The purpose of the new Parent's Committee is to provide varied assistance to the college in developing its total educational program, they said.

The organizers are asking parents of Methodist College alumni to assist in several ways: student recruitment, donations, and suggestions for the structure and growth of the committee.

In time, according to Methodist College Development Director Robert Cole, the Parent's Committee will evolve into a strong and useful adjunct of the college such as the Methodist College Alumni Association or the Methodist College Foundation.

McKnight is a retired assistant sectional center manager for the U.S. Postal Service and a lay speaker and member of the administrative board of Salem United Methodist Church. He is president of the Cape Fear Chapter

COMMEMORATIVE PLATE

GIVEN TO METHODIST

FAYETTEVILLE--A commemorative plate showing the Marquis de Lafayette signing his enlistment in the American Revolutionary Army has been presented to Methodist College.

The plate was presented by the Cumberland County Historical Society in memory of former president and founder Jack Crane. Mrs. W. D. Sherman, president of the society; Miss Kitty Purdie, member; and Mrs. Jack Crane formally presented the plate to Dr. Samuel J. Womack, dean of Methodist College.

The plate will be placed in the Lafayette Room of the Davis Memorial Library. The room features a special collection of books, documents, letters and other memorabilia relating to Lafayette.

Illustrated on the plate is the secret December, 1776, signing of Lafayette by Silas Deane, the American agent who recruited the then 19-year-old French army captain. Also present is Lafayette's friend and interpreter Baron Johann de Kalb, a brigadier general in the French army whom Deane had already recruited to fight for the American cause. De Kalb was later killed in the Battle of Camden.

The contract provided for Lafayette to serve without pay but promised him the rank of major general. The signing was conducted in secret because Lafayette, as a minor, could not legally leave for America against the certain opposition of his politically powerful family and his sovereign.

AFRICAN TO GIVE GUEST LECTURE AT METHODIST

If the Cubans in Angola attack the South Africans guarding the Cuene River dam just inside Angola, how should the United States react?

This is just one of several timely topics that will probably be discussed by Dr. Victor C. Uchendu, director of the African Studies Center at the University of Illinois. Dr. Uchendu will deliver a guest lecture at Methodist College entitled "American Interest in Africa: A View from an African" at 11:30 Monday (March 22) in Hensdale Chapel. Dr. Uchendu is a native of Nigeria.

His lecture will be of especial timeliness in view of the current concern over matters in Angola where a Marxist regime has recently come to power after a bloody civil war, and the declaration of "a state of war" by black-ruled Mozambique against white-ruled Rhodesia.

Dr. Uchendu was educated in England and the U.S. having earned his master's and doctoral degrees from Northwestern University. In 1966 he returned to Africa living and working in Ghana and Uganda until 1971. He is a member of nine professional societies, and is the author or co-author of eight books. In addition he is the author of 17 chapters in various other books, and has had 24 journal articles published.

Dr. Uchendu's lecture at Methodist College is sponsored by the North Carolina Southeastern Consortium for International Education.

MINISTERS' WIVES TO MEET AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE--"Our Fish Bowl Existence" is the theme of the North Carolina Conference Ministers' Wives gathering being held this weekend at Methodist College.

Special guest speaker will be Dr. Norman A. Desrosiers, a physician and clergyman who is medical director of the North Carolina Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center. He received the bachelor of arts degree in 1949 from Duke University and the master of divinity degree in 1953 from the Duke University Divinity School.

Between 1953 and 1959 he served as an assistant pastor and pastor to several churches in the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church while also studying for his M.D. degree at the University of North Carolina Medical School. He graduated in 1959.

About 180 are expected for the two day affair. In addition to the discussions with Dr. Desrosiers several interest groups are scheduled Friday afternoon: "Family Dynamics and Financial Planning" with Mary Ingram of Durham; "The Role of the Minister's Wife" with Jean Jerome of Smithfield; and "It's Later Than You Think," a look at the importance of wills, with Clyde McCarver of Rockingham.

FAITH AND LIFE WEEK

OBSERVED AT METHODIST

Methodist College will observe Faith and Life Week during the week of March 28-April 2. This is an annual event which is designed to stress spiritual awareness among the students at the college. Faith and Life Week is sponsored by Koinonia-a group devoted to Christian fellowship on campus.

Leader for the week's activities will be the Rev. Stephen O'Shields, associate pastor of the Assembly of God in Burlington. Rev. O'Shields graduated from Southeastern Bible College where he majored in Bible and pastoral ministry. O'Shields is director of the Christian Youth Center in Burlington and leads a live-in program for troubled youth in the city. He will be accompanied to Methodist by his wife Susan, a graduate of Evangel College, who is an accomplished musician and their son.

Activities for the week include a communion service conducted by Rev. Don Lee of Durham, on Sunday (March 28) at 7:30 p.m. and a play entitled "A Certain Just Man" to be presented Tuesday (March 30) at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union. Other activities scheduled are a Coffee House featuring "Four in Rapture", a local singing group, and various discussion sessions to be held at different times and locations on campus.

COMMUNITY SEMINAR SET FOR TUESDAY AT METHODIST COLLEGE

"The Cultural Contributions of New Immigrants" will be the final program in this year's seminar series at Methodist College on the overall topic of "The American Dream: Accomplished Fact or Continual Movement?"

Featured speakers will be Dr. Bodo Nischan, assistant professor of history at East Carolina University, and Roy Parker Jr., editor of the Fayetteville Times.

The seminar, which is open to the public, will begin at 8 p.m. Tuesday (March 30) in the Science Building Auditorium on the Methodist College campus.

The four-part series this academic year has thus far looked at the "melting pot" theory of American society, the impact of ethnic groups on American society, and equal treatment of unequals by government.

Dr. Sid Gautam, coordinator of the Business Administration/Economics Department at Methodist College, will serve as moderator for Tuesday's program. Dr. Gautam is also project director for the seminars which are funded by a $4,000 grant from the North Carolina Humanities Committee.

CHAMBER MUSIC CONCERT TO BE HELD AT METHODIST COLLEGE

The Music Department of Methodist College will present a program of late eighteenth century chamber music for stringed instruments this Sunday (April 4) at 8 p.m. The concert will be held in Hensdale Chapel on the college campus. The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Included on the program will be the Haydn Quartet, Opus 33, No. 2 (the Joke), composed in 1781; Beethoven's Quartet, Opus 18, No. 6, composed about 1799; and the Quintet in A Major by the American Moravian composer, John Frederick Peter. The latter composition was written in Salem (now Winston-Salem) in 1789.

Performing in the concert will be Willis Gates, violin and viola; Roger Taylor, viola; Grace Gates, violin and viola; Bobbi Riggs, 'cello; Pam Gaylor, violin; Margaret Miller, violin; and Beth Whittington, 'cello. All are members of the Fayetteville Symphony.

COMMUNITY LOYALTY CAMPAIGN

PASSES HALF-WAY MARK

Methodist College's annual community loyalty campaign has now reached almost $77,000 ($76,887.63 as of 10:30 a.m. March 30, 1976) toward its goal of $120,000.

"The gift total is encouraging, especially in light of the fact that approximately a third of our regular contributors have yet to be contacted," said I. H. (Ike) O'Hanlon, campaign director. "In addition we still have contacts to make with several hundred prospective donors. Indications are that when all cards are returned, we will have reached our goal."

"By the end of this year we anticipate that we will exceed the $120,000 goal," Dr. Richard W. Pearce, the college president, said. "This hometown support is essential to the college. Not only does it substantially aid our financial position, but it enables us to plan for the coming year knowing the community believes in what we are trying to accomplish in the field of higher education."

Enrollment at Methodist College is currently 620, an increase of 25 over the 1975 spring semester. In addition the college has 52 persons enrolled in the fourth night school session of the current academic year. Thus, total enrollment is 672 compared to 595 last year at the same time.

'WORLD ORDER' LECTURE

SLATED AT METHODIST

Dr. Richard A. Falk, acting director of Princeton University's Center of International Studies, will speak on "The Future of World Order" at Methodist College April 7. The speech, to be held in Hensdale Chapel at 2, is open to the public.

Dr. Falk's appearance at Methodist is the fourth of six programs being offered this semester at the college under the umbrella heading "U.S. Issues-- Beyond the Bicentennial." The six programs are funded by the North Carolina Southeastern Consortium for International Education composed of Fayetteville State University, Pembroke State University, St. Andrews Presbyterian College, and Methodist College.

Dr. Falk received his bachelor of science degree in economics from the University of Pennsylvania, his bachelor of law degree from Yale University Law School, and his doctorate in law from Harvard University Law School.

He is the author of 17 books, 35 chapters in other books, and 93 journal articles. He is an officer in four professional societies and a member of six other professional societies as well as serving on the editorial boards of three learned journals.
