'CHRISTMAS IN DICKENS'

TO BE PRESENTED

BY METHODIST DRAMA GROUP

FAYETTEVILLE: 'Christmas in Dickens,' a holiday reading, will be presented by the Methodist College Theatre and Speech Department throughout the season to various groups in the Fayetteville area.

Readers for the 18th century presentation will be Dr. Jack Peyrouse, chairman of the Theatre Arts Department at Methodist College, and Mary Kirby, junior education major at Methodist.

'Christmas in Dickens' is scheduled for Wednesday, December 7 at Sandhills Youth Center; Thursday, December 8 for Senior Citizens at Ft. Bragg Recreation Center; Friday, December 9 for Senior Citizens at Tokay Recreation Center; and Wednesday, December 20 for Senior Citizens at the Alexander Graham Gym.

Ms. Kirby is the wife of Garfield Kirby and they reside at 2905 Eldorado Drive in Fayetteville. She attended Bennett College and Kentucky State University before coming to Methodist. A graduate of E. E. Smith High School, Ms. Kirby is a recipient of scholarships from Delta Sigma Theta and the Negro College Fund.

"THE LONG CHRISTMAS DINNER"

The Methodist Drama Group will present Thornton Wilder's The Long Christmas Dinner for the college community on December 6, 8, and 9 in the Ballroom of the Methodist Student Union.

This human comedy represents a long Christmas dinner which depicts over 75 years of the Bayard family. The changes in customs and manners of various generations are obvious as the family ages and shares its joy and pathos at this meal.

WINSTON-SALEM NATIVE MAKES ALL-TOURNEY TEAM

FAYETTEVILLE -- Winston-Salem native Jimmy Lomax, a starting guard for the Methodist College Monarchs basketball team, was named to the All-Tournament team in the Oglethorpe University (Ga.) Tip-Off Tournament, Nov. 25-26.

Lomax aided the Monarchs in winning the tournament, Methodist taking a 55-46 title victory over the hosts and a 73-72 triumph over Pfeiffer in the opening night's action.

Methodist trailed in the Pfeiffer contest with eight seconds remaining when Lomax drove the length of the court and passed off to teammate Clarence Wiggins for the winning layup. Wiggins was selected as the tournament's MVP.

The 5-10 senior played two years at Lees-McRae College before coming to Methodist last season. He was instrumental in the Monarchs' 18-8 slate and Dixie Conference championship.

GRIFTON NATIVE NAMED M.V.P. IN CAGE TOURNAMENT

FAYETTEVILLE -- Grifton's Clarence Wiggins, 6-5 starting center for the Methodist College Monarchs, was named Most Valuable Player in the Oglethorpe University (Ga.) Tip-Off Tournament, Nov. 25-26.

Wiggins, in his second year on the varsity, averaged 15 points in tournament victories over Pfeiffer College and the hosts. He scored the winning basket with two seconds to play in the Pfeiffer game, a 73-72 win for the Monarchs.

Wiggins' selection marked the second time he has been honored for his abilities while at Methodist. He was chosen to the All-Tournament team in the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tourney last February as the Monarchs captured both the regular season and tournament titles. The team finished 18-8 overall last year and reached the finals of the NCAA Division III South Atlantic Regionals

Wiggins attended North Lenoir High School and is a junior at Methodist.

Off to the best start in coach Joe Miller's three years at the helm, the Methodist College basketball team meets three tough opponents in the coming week.

The Monarchs open their home season against sister school North Carolina Wesleyan, Tuesday at 7:30. Methodist, 2-1 so far, has always had tight battles with the Bishops in the past and this should be no different.

The Monarchs journey to Richmond, Va., Wednesday night at 8:00 to face the Rams of Virginia Commonwealth University, a Division I team.

The ever-tough Pembroke State University Braves will be hosted by the Monarchs Saturday night at 7:30. Pembroke recently topped Campbell in the finals of the Campbell College Tip-Off Tournament.

The Methodist women's team will square off against UNC-Wilmington here at 6:30 Wednesday evening. The Monarchs opened their season with a 10-point victory over Pembroke State.

METHODIST COLLEGE--

A PLACE TO CALL HOME

FAYETTEVILLE--Methodist College--small enough to be home for four years yet large enough to provide leadership in academics and athletics--is located five miles north of Fayetteville on Highway 401-N.

The statistics are all there: 650-acre campus resting on the border of the Cape Fear River; fifteen building complexes; 883 students; Southern Association Accreditation. But a college is more than statistics and more than buildings. A college is people at work in a setting of concern and conscientious effort.

To see what Methodist College really is and why it is a place to call home for four years, look inside those buildings on campus. Look beyond the modern architecture and gracious landscaping. Look at what happening. Look at the students who are at home in these buildings.

Methodist College resident students are housed in one of four dormitories, each three stories in size. The women's dormitories feature two-room suites with adjoining bath; the men's dormitories feature large rooms with individual study areas and beds. What's happening in the dorms? Students are enjoying a few minutes from the busy schedule that Methodist students boast about-- from student government to student legislature to cheerleading to publications. Methodist students are involved in what is going on around them. Perhaps you might catch them cooking in the dorm kitchens or visiting with one of the house

That's probably the Stage Band rehearsing "Boogie Nights" for one of their guest concerts. And listen. Hear the bells? That's the Handbell Choir preparing for a concert in one of the Methodist Conference Churches.

The center of any college campus is the Classroom Building Complex. At Methodist, you will see students sitting in circles engrossed in some aspect of psychology that Dr. Klutz discussed. Along with the regular students, you will see some who are here on campus instead of in a senior high school somewhere finishing their senior year. They are the students who took the CLEP exam and placed out of enough hours to gain admission to college. Other freshmen are well on their way to becoming sophomores before they ever attend class because they have received credit for courses by demonstrating sufficient knowledge on the CLEP exam. And all the busy traffic downstairs? That's the Publication Center where students publish a bi-weekly award-winning newspaper, the college yearbook, and Tapestry, the student literary magazine.

Hensdale Chapel is the site for Sunday morning worship services--interdenominational in scope, Methodist in format. Here all members of the College community sit together to worship--maintenance man and dean; student and professor--they are all here. Bible study groups meet here and often Hensdale holds special services like the Moravian Love Feast that has become a Christmas tradition with

METHODIST COLLEGE ANNOUNCES OPENING OF FORT BRAGG CAMPUS

FAYETTEVILLE--Methodist College will open an extension on Fort Bragg Military Reservation effective January 16.

General Volney Warner, Commanding General of Fort Bragg, and Dr. Richard Pearce, president of Methodist College, made the public announcement at a luncheon meeting on the Methodist campus on Friday afternoon, Dec. 2.

The Friday announcement culminated several years of planning and implementation, according to Mr. Andrew Edmundson, Director of Education at Fort Bragg.

Methodist joins seven other colleges currently offering baccalaureate degree programs on the military reservation.

"The opening of the Methodist campus at Fort Bragg is part of our continued emphasis on degree completion for officers," stated General Warner.

"We encourage all military personnel to strive for their maximum potential."

In welcoming Fort Bragg to the Methodist College Continuing Education Division, Dr. Pearce asserted the need for continued cooperative ventures for the two institutions.

"We both exist for the purpose of serving--Fort Bragg as a key defense for our nation and Methodist as a college dedicated to serving the church and community which support her. It is natural that we join forces in this service as we have with the establishment of the Fort Bragg campus

METHODIST COLLEGE CHORUS
JOINS WITH PINE FOREST CHORUS
FOR CHRISTMAS CONCERT

FAYETTEVILLE--The combined choral groups from Methodist College and Pine Forest Senior High School will perform a Christmas concert in Reeves Auditorium on Saturday evening at 8:00.

The concert will feature both secular and religious selections performed by the Treble Chorus, the Mixed Chorus, and the Vocal Ensemble of Pine Forest and the College Chorus and Handbell Choir of Methodist.

Alan Porter, choral director at Methodist, initiated the joint performance. "I felt that the proximity of the two schools and the quality of student Pine Forest produces made such a venture a sure success."

The Methodist College Chorus has worked previously with 71st High School under the direction of Betty Neill Parsons, now of Westover Senior High School, and with the Guy Schools.

Joyce LaCelle, choral director at Pine Forest, states that this is a first for the program at the county school.

"My students are excited! The opportunity to perform with a college chorus, particularly one with the reputation for excellence that Methodist has, is one they welcome as well as the opportunity to perform in Reeves Auditorium again," states LaCelle.

Pine Forest Chorus performed their annual Spring Concert in Reeves last season.

MONARCHS, BRAVES PREP FOR SATURDAY BATTLE

FAYETTEVILLE -- There won't be much difference in Saturday night's encounter between Methodist College and Pembroke State when compared to past cage contests. Just expect the same tooth and nail fight that emerges each time the Monarchs and the Braves square off.

Both clubs are off to fine starts, the Monarchs currently possessing a 3-1 record against all comers and the Braves owning a 3-2 slate. Both have won tournaments this year, Pembroke State capturing the Campbell College Tip-Off Tournament and the Methodist squad winning the Oglethorpe University Tip-Off Tournament in Atlanta, Ga.

"Obviously, we expect a tough game from coach (Joe) Gallagher's team," Methodist mentor Joe Miller said. "We know they are well-prepared fundamentally and will present us with a variety of defenses."

Miller has come away the winner in two of the three meetings between him and Gallagher, including last year's game at Pembroke. But Gallagher insists he isn't out to gain personal vengeance.

"It's not a personal thing between us," the former Methodist coach said of Miller. "When our teams play one another, it's Pembroke State versus Methodist College."

Gallagher expects the Braves will be tested against Methodist's man-to-man defense because, "Methodist has consistently been a man-to-man team. Coach Miller will stay with what his team does best and man coverage is just that. We don't anticipate too many surprises."

Neither coach believes the game will ride on the performance of one individual.

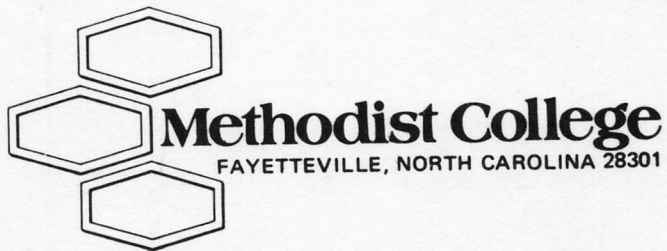

"The team that makes the least mistakes and rebounds better usually wins this type of game," Miller said. "And it's going to take that type of effort to win this game."

The Monarchs will present a lineup consisting of Audwin Pellom and Jimmy Lomax at guards, Harold Johnson and Gary Mattocks at forwards and Clarence Wiggins at center. Wiggins has been the steadying influence for the team to date and copped Most Valuable Player honors in the Oglethorpe tournament.

The Braves will start with a healthy lineup that will probably be made up of Melvin Reid and Jim Griffith at guards, Pete Mulligan and Linwood Graham at forwards and Stan Rountree at center. Graham was chosen the NAIA District Player of the Week for his efforts in the Campbell tournament.

Both squads will rely heavily on their benches, Pembroke utilizing Elmer Brown at guard when needed, as well as Kelvin Sampson. Methodist will substitute Elroy Gore and Ricky Ketchem as soon as needed with Don Patterson also seeing a lot of playing time.

The 7:30 p.m. tilt will be played in the Methodist College gym and will be preceded by a game between the Monarchs' jayvees and Southeastern Community College.

INFORMATION CONCERNING RECEPTION FOR METHODIST COLLEGE FOUNDATION:

Date: December 18, 1977

Time: 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.

Location: Highland Country Club

Host: Branch Banking & Trust

The purpose of this reception is to recognize those community leaders who have pledged themselves to be permanent workers in the Annual Methodist College Community Loyalty Drive scheduled for February.

Under the direction of Dr. Charles Speegle, the Methodist College Foundation is being revitalized by the plan of permanent workers to work one day year for Methodist College. Response to the request for workers has been overwhelming--as witnessed by the list attached. These workers, called the Developmental Team for Methodist College, represent the lifeline of Fayetteville community service. This reception is to honor them and their commitment to Methodist College.

I look forward to seeing you there!

METHODIST DEVELOPMENT TEAM

HONORED AT HIGHLAND TEA

FAYETTEVILLE--Commitment is the giving of one's talents, energy and time where they are needed.

The commitment of Fayetteville community leaders to Methodist College was celebrated on Sunday afternoon, December 18, with a Christmas tea at Highland Country Club.

Branch Banking and Trust Company and the Methodist College Foundation hosted the holiday event in honor of the Methodist College "Developmental Team" recently named.

Receiving guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Vogel, president of the Methodist College Foundation; Dr. and Mrs. Richard Pearce, president of Methodist College; and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson F. Yarborough, Sr., chairman of the Methodist College loyalty campaign.

Under the direction of Dr. Charles Speegle, the Methodist College Foundation has formed a "Developmental Team" of 160 members who have pledged to devote their time, energy and talent to Methodist College for one day a year.

The uniqueness of Dr. Speegle's plan is the continuity and permanence of community contacts.

"Each member of the Developmental Team will have a number of contacts to be made on the designated 'Methodist College Loyalty Day.' They will seek financial support from the community for Methodist College," stated Speegle.

METHODIST AWARDS DEGREES
IN DECEMBER CEREMONY

FAYETTEVILLE--Thirty seniors received baccalaureate degrees during graduation exercises at Methodist College on Sunday afternoon, December 18.

Dr. Allen Norris, president of Louisburg Junior College, addressed the winter graduation class. He asked them to consider the questions "What do you stand for?" and "What is your formula for success?"

Dr. Norris called upon the graduates to look to the future with optimism, yet realize "that there is always reason for skepticism."

"A man must be enthusiastic about morals--there is no middle ground there. No one can get the best of us unless we let them get to the worst of us," stated Norris.

He advised the graduates to "find a big enough idea to live for, and you'll never be unemployed."

Dara Faye Royal of Fayetteville graduated with top honors in her class as a Magna Cum Laude graduate. Receiving Cum Laude honors were Cheryl Anne Wardell Holladay of Fayetteville and Deborah Hardison King of Fort Bragg.

Fayetteville residents receiving bachelor of arts degrees were Ronald Dean Baucom, Lynn Marie Bumann, Thomas Roger Canham, Jr., Sarah Lou Cooper Leggett, Judith Ann Cushman-Eicklin, Milton Thomas
