ANNA TATUM SMITH OPENS SENIOR
ART EXHIBIT at METHODIST

FAYETTEVILLE- Anna Tatum Smith of Fayetteville will open her senior art exhibit at Methodist College on Sunday, September 2 in the Lobby of Horner Administration Building from 3o'clock until 5o'clock.

Smith, a Senior Art Major, will display over 40 works including oils, sculpture, crafts, watercolor, pen and ink, silkscreen and photography.

"Oils will dominate the show, I suppose, because I prefer that medium most," states Ms. Smith.

"I've painted ever since I can remember. My aunt, Sudie Culbreth, has always been an inspiration to me."

Highlighting the exhibit will be an oil entitled "Rocks from Menton, France," painted after Ms. Smith returned from a summer in France, and "Just Picked," painted from a still life arrangement of fresh vegetables from her garden.

"Those are my favorites, although everytime I finish a painting it is my favorite right then," laughs Ms. Smith.

Much of the work exhibited is similar in style and subject to Andrew Wyeth with smooth texture and rustic qualities.

"I enjoy old things although sometimes I come out of character and paint a wild abstract," says Ms. Smith, who graduates from Methodist in December.

"Like all artists, I sometimes dream of being famous for my paintings. But right now I'm excited about teaching- I love children and I'm eager to have them explore their own talents."
