TO: Local Media
SUBJECT: Suggested features for Homecoming
DATE: October 2, 1981

The enclosed release will alert you to Homecoming activities at Methodist College during the coming week. Of the activities planned, the following feature ideas for photography and possible story coverage are suggested:

Wednesday, Oct. 7--10:00 a.m.--Student Union

Club dress-up day is visual to say the least! College students have the imagination and creativity that might be interesting photographic subjects. Although clubs value secrecy, rumor has it that there will Southern belles, Confederate soldiers, Little Orphan Annies, and others.

Thursday, Oct. 8--after midnight--all over campus

Among the unplanned traditions associated with Homecoming is the annual "rolling of the campus" held on Thursday night late. No place is sacred; last year the most decorated place on campus was Dr. Pearce's house. You can find students climbing trees, belltowers, entrance markers often until dawn.

Friday, Oct. 9--bonfire/pep rally--Outdoor courts

The focus here might be the survival of this tradition through cries for relevancy in the sixties and cries for meaningful experiences in the seventies.

Saturday, Oct. 10--Old Tyme Fair--Central Mall

Visually, this is probably your best bet. The sheer amount of activity is exciting as well as the color of the chalk drawings being created. There are children from Falcon's Home that the college ROTC students spend time entertaining; there are alumni who return to see how things are on the campus they once called home.

Saturday, Oct. 10--Soccer Game and halftime activities

Game shots; parent's returning; spectators on the bank; alumni soccer players; etc.

I've listed but a few of the activities; please feel free to choose any others that might be of interest to your audience. If I can help you in any way, please call me.

METHODIST COLLEGE FEATURED IN BILLBOARD MAGAZINE

FAYETTEVILLE--Methodist College was one of several colleges to be honored in a photographic feature article in the current issue of Playbill magazine, national publication of the Alpha Psi Omega National Theatre Honorary.

The theater department of Methodist College was recognized for its "outstanding production of the world premiere of Maxwell Anderson's Raft on the River" performed on the Methodist campus in April of 1981. The play with a cast of 60 gave five performances of the Huckleberry Finn musical during celebration of Fine Arts Week.

Playbill is one of the oldest theatre publications in the United States, distributed to over 900 colleges and universities. Davidson College was the only other North Carolina institution to be featured in the 1981 issue of Playbill.

Highlights of the early season have been the tie with 5th ranked Averett and wins over DIAC foes Virginia Wesleyan and Christopher-Newport. The Monarchs, playing without leading scorer Denny Laird, defeated the Captains of Christopher-Newport by 3-1 on their home field, Saturday, Oct. 3. Freshman Dean Beach from Hebron, MD left his position as halfback to replace Thomas in the goal. According to collegiate soccer rules, a player ejected from a game cannot be replaced but his position may be filled by vacating another position on the field.

Methodist was able to hold the score at 2-1 for the remaining 4:30 minutes playing with 9 players on the field through the determination for Randy Burge, freshman from Lemon Springs, NC and Kenny Morgan, senior from Fayetteville, NC who kept the ball from penetrating the Methodist goal area at all.

The elation over the Virginia Wesleyan victory might have to last the Monarchs a while as they were unable to win in their next two games with Coastal Carolina and North Carolina Wesleyan.

Coastal Carolina, NAIA District 6 team, visited the Methodist field on Tuesday, Oct. 13 to surprise the Monarchs by shutting them out 1-0. The offense for Methodist took 15 shots on the Coastal Carolina goal during the entire game, capitalizing on none. Coastal was able to score their winning goal in the first half on a high shot to the left top corner.

The defeat at the hands of the Bishops of N.C. Wesleyan was even more dismal because it was a conference loss, only the second for the Monarchs. Wesleyan was quick to recover from the first Monarch score by Denny Laird in the first 10 minutes of the game, and brought the score to 2-1 at halftime. Both teams came back into the second half fired up, but a third Wesleyan goal at 11:23 of the last period signaled the end of scoring for the game.

The Monarchs have eleven days to regroup from the post-homecoming slump before facing the Salisbury State Tournament in Salisbury, MD on October 23, 24, and 25. Forward Denny Laird has just returned to the Methodist lineup after hospitalization for an ulcer, while Aki and Victor Campbell join Bob DiPiazso in recuperating from leg and ankle injuries.

FAYETTEVILLE-In an atmosphere of confidence and commitment, the North Carolina Conference Division on Evangelism entered Phase II of the "Proclaim The Word" at their fall meeting at the Methodist College campus October 12-13.

Sid Huggins, pastor of the North Raleigh United Methodist Church and conference chairperson for Evangelism praised the 38-member board for "efficient practical leadership."

"Our motivation in Evangelism is from the gospel. We are trying to strengthen the local church for evangelism in the world, one of five goals of the General Conference," says Huggins.

Although church membership has experienced a decline nationwide, Huggins is quick to state that the Division of Evangelism would be doing the same work with the same intensity if church membership were up.

VOLLEYBALL TEAM FACES DISAPPOINTING SEASON

FAYETTEVILLE-It will be hard to salvage the 1981 volleyball season unless the Monarch team can pull out an upset State Championship. Coach Benson's young Methodist Team currently stands at 4-7.

"We're just too inconsistent," says Benson. "The team is young and I guess it shows-but the talent is there."

Jôy Pendleton, freshman of Titusville, Florida, has been a bright spot in the Monarch line-up along upperclassmen Ginny Ward, Cheryl McCrary and Robin Baxley.

Most recent matches on the Methodist schedule were losses to Pembroke State University (2-15, 8-15, 15-11, 12-15,); Greensboro College (5-15, 8-15); and St. Andrews (8-15, 15-12, 9-15). Remaining matches include Fayetteville State University, Meredith, Queens College, N.C. Wesleyan, UNC-Greensboro and the DIAC Volleyball tournament to be held November 6-7 at N.C. Wesleyan.

FAYETTEVILLE-After winning the Groudhog Mountain Invitational Golf Tournament and finishing second in the High Point College Invitational, Methodist golfers are sitting at 47-4.

"That record doesn't reflect wins over our own teams, only over teams from other colleges," says Gene Clayton, golf coach.

Methodist traveled three teams this fall: Methodist Gold, Methodist Green and Methodist White. The six-player teams gave Methodist the opportunity to travel 18 golfers on some occasions.

"Golf is a game where the numbers don't lie," says Clayton. "These guys had to qualify for each tournament and they had to shoot good scores against their teammates."

In their last three tournaments the Monarch golfers won two championships and one second-place finish.

Winning the Falcon Invitational Golf Tournament at Eagle Crest Golf Course in Raleigh was the first tournament win for Methodist since capturing the Fall DIAC championship.

Methodist won the tournament with a 296 over Fayetteville State's 309, Livingstone's 321 and St. Augustine's 336. Mickey Sokalski shot a 1-under par 70 for medalist honors. Ian Joyce and

"In fact, I believe this is really the mark over which an institution must pass to be significant."

The Parable of the Talents provided the scriptural focus for the Sermon.

"Jesus was teaching a natural and spiritual law which is universally true," asserted Lowdermilk.

"Use a capacity and it will grow and expand. Neglect it and it will wither and die."

"This is true of the mission of a college. We need to do what we do well and do to best, rather than standing in awe of enrollment, endow and graduate programs."

The Reverend Mr. Lowdermilk has been a member of the Methodist College staff since the college opened its doors, serving as Director of Admissions and Director of Public Relations prior to assuming his position as vice-president.

State Senator Glenn Jernigan predicted that economic growth in the Tar Heel State will well surpass the national average by the year 2000.

Jernigan spoke to a convocation of Methodist College Students Wednesday on the current economic outlook and its impact on students.

According to Jernigan, the state has a strong commitment to narrowing the gap between private and public tuition costs.

"The state legislature has just approved an increase, even under the austerity program, for state students attending a private college in North Carolina," said Jernigan. Beginning in the 1982 academic year the tuition assistance will be $650.

Calling for major growth in the microelectronics field, the Cumberland County Senator predicted a decline in manufacturing and agriculture for the state.

This is Gwen Sykes reporting from Methodist College.

Kenny Hall of Duplin, NC should be a senior at East Bladen High School this year. Instead, he is a sophomore at Methodist College having 30 hours of College credit from the CLEP exam. How he is adjusting, what he's missing, what he's gaining, why he chose this route, where does he go from here--all make for an interesting look at an alternative to the high cost of education and a short cut to the financially productive years.

College students from a 10-county area who are pursuing a career in education will have an opportunity to attend a seminar on "Why We Lose Good Teachers" on Friday afternoon October 30 at 4 o'clock in C-204 in the Classroom Building. Panelists include Gwen Sykes and Pat Clayton. The seminar is conducted in conjunction with the Regional meeting of the NCAE being held all day Friday on the Methodist campus.

Several Japanese students who were part of the first group of East-West exchange students will graduate this May. What changes have these four years brought to these students in attitude, in ability, in future plans? How Americanized have they become? What now--do they return to Japan? Graduate school? Where do they plan to establish their home? The answers might surprise you. The students I recommend are Yoshiaki Ishii and Mamoru Kobota.

United States Congressman Charlie Rose urged local school boards to follow the example of Japanese management in treating teachers with respect and understanding.

Speaking to 1500 teachers at the regional NCAE meeting at Methodist College, Congressman Rose drew strong comparisons between the productivity of Japan and the productivity of education in the United States.

Rose told the group that administrators and school boards need to create the feeling of family with their teachers because they are the custodians of the future.

"Nothing is more powerful than the well and open mind of a child" said Rose. "Nothing is more disturbing than the wasted mind of a child who hasn't been challenged.

Teachers heard the dismal prediction that 55 thousand nationwide will lose their jobs this year as a result of cutbacks advocated by the current Reagan economic policy. That figure computes to over 800 North Carolina teachers who will lose their jobs.

NCAE urged members to use their political clout to reverse this trend.

This is Gwen Sykes reporting from Methodist College.
