US, AIR FORCE BAND

TO PERFORM AT METHODIST

FAYETTEVILLE-Reeves Auditorium on the Methodist College campus will be the site of an unprecedented two-night concert engagement of the U.S. Air Force Band and Singing Sergeants on Monday, October 15 and Tuesday, October 16 at 8 o'clock.

Concert coordinators Gwen Sykes of Methodist College and John Holmes of the Fayetteville Publishing Company initiated the two-night schedule to accommodate "overwhelming local and regional requests for tickets."

"In our last negotiations with the Air Force Band, we explained that over 2000 people requested tickets after the concert was filled," explained Sykes, Director of Publications at Methodist.

Considering the magnitude of that response, the Air Force made the unprecedented two-night schedule for Fayetteville.

According to Sykes, the request for tickets has again exceeded the space available for both performances. Those wishing to attend either performance can go to Reeves Auditorium on the concert night and wait for last-minute cancellations.

The United States Air Force Band and Singing Sergeants will present twenty-one concerts to audiences in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia during their 1984 Fall Tour.

Major James M. Bankhead will conduct all concerts. Featured band

The programs will include several other favorite overtures and well known concerts works.

Master Sergeant Ron Blais will perform the "Allegro con Brio" from Ib Glindemann's Concerto for Trumpet, op.1, and on alternate concerts, Clarinet Soloists Senior Master Sergeant Wayne Titerance and Master Sergeant Steve Lawson will be featured on Felix Mendelssohn's Concertpiece, op.114, no.2.

Vocal solos will include "Una Voce Poco Fa" from Rossini's The Barber of Seville, sung by Technical Sergeant Julieanne Turrentine, and "A Sinatra Sampler," featuring soloists Technical Sergeant Donna Baldwin Abraira, Senior Master Sergeants Glenda Rueb Shepela and Bob Black and Master Sergeant Dana Steinhäuser.

On alternate performance, Technical Sergeant Daisy Jackson and Master Sergeant George Singleton will perform selections from Porgy and Bess, and Senior Master Sergeant Charles Kuliga will perform "Luck Be A Lady" from Frank Loesser's Guys & Dolls.

The Singing Sergeants will conclude each concert with Randall Thompson's Frostiana, F.E. Werle's The Year Was 1926: When The Twenties Really Roared, John David Earnest's "Never Another" from A Van Doren Tryptich and Senior Master Sergeant Michael Davis' arrangement of My Fair Lady.

The 1985 Spring Tour by the United States Air Force Band and Singing Sergeants will occur during April and include performances in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Nebraska and California.

TRYOUTS FOR METHODIST
THEATRE PRODUCTIONS ANNOUNCED

FAYETTEVILLE—Two shows a year at Methodist College have open tryouts, including the 1984-85 selections Moliere's comedy THE WORLD BE GENTLEMAN and Paul Wilson's outdoor 400th Celebration production DIAMOND CITY.

The WORLD BE GENTLEMAN is a comedy of a man who hopes to buy culture with his wealth. As he tries to learn grooming, manners, fencing, music, and dancing in hilarious scenes, the teachers make fun of him as they take his money. It is a bright comedy which allows the audience to meet a nice old man who "would be a gentleman" if that sort of thing could be bought or taught.

Tryouts are December 4 and 5 at 7 o'clock in Reeves Auditorium.

A variety of roles for male and female performers over 18 years of age are available. Some performers need only to act; others need to dance, play musical instruments or fence.

Tryouts for the premiere of Diamond City will be held at 7 o'clock of February 26 and 27 in Reeves Auditorium on Methodist Campus.

The Would Be Gentleman opens on February as part of the Fifth Annual Fine Arts Festival highlighting the theme of French Cultural Influences.

ARTS MANAGEMENT AUTHORITY

HEADLINES METHODIST COLLEGE SEMINARS

FAYETTEVILLE—The new Arts Management major arrives on Methodist Campus with a series of seminars on Arts Management and the appearance of the national authority on Arts Management, Dr. Alvin Reiss.

Methodist College and the Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County are sponsoring a "Marketing for Non-profits" series of four seminars on Tuesday nights from October 2 through November 13. This series is designed to instruct professional and non-professional non-profit people in the management of their programs.

Seminar three on October 30 will feature Dr. Alvin Reiss. Dr. Reiss directs the Performing Arts Management Institute and acts as Director of Management Programs for the Arts at Adelphi University's School of Business Administration. He is author of the "standard reference" in the field, The Arts Management Reader.

While here Reiss will make three appearances in the Methodist College Alumni Dining Hall. At 12:30 on October 30, he will speak on "Careers in Arts Management." At 3:30 his topic will be "The Computer and the Arts." Both of these talks are free and open to the public without any pre-registration and should be of interest to majors in the Arts, Arts Management, Business, and Computer Science.

As part of the "Marketing for Non-profits" series, Dr. Reiss will appear from 6:30-10:00 on Tuesday evening speaking on "Audience Development," where and how to find audiences. The other three seminars in the series an overview of advertising by a panel of media experts from the area.

The final seminar on November 13 will be on Graphic Design and will be a hands-on experience led by M.G. Cain and Greg Hathaway as they explore color, design, and lettering in preparation of camera-ready graphics.

The cost of the seminars will be $10 each. Non-members can sign up for all four seminars for $30 and members cost all four will be only $20.

The seminar and Dr. Reiss's appearances at Methodist College are co-sponsored by Methodist College and the Arts Council and is supported in part by a grant from North Carolina Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington, D.C., a Federal Agency.

THREE SHORT ENTERTAINMENTS AVAILABLE
FROM METHODIST COLLEGE THIS YEAR

"Theatre Alive in '85" is the theme for the theatre season at Methodist College with three shows available to bring to organizations in the community during the year.

"Who ever said ½ hour of Shakespeare was enough," directed by Jack Peyrouse, will tour until December 1. It consists of two Shakespearean scenes done by Methodist College Artists-in-Residence-- Mary Kay MacIvor and Ron Bonanni, from As You Like It and Macbeth.

The Leader, directed by Jack Peyrouse, opens on October 13 and is available for touring through February 23. This 20-minute political satire by Ionesco has been chosen purposely in this year of elections as it examines the "intelligence" (?) with which society chooses and follows leaders.

Jacques Brel, directed by Paul Wilson, opens on February 23 and is available to tour until April 15. This one-hour collection of songs by Jacques Brel recreates the French nightclub style of music and entertainment.

Any of these shows are available for organizations by calling Dr. Jack Peyrouse theatre director at Methodist College, at 488-7110, ext, 212. Make arrangements to see how alive Methodist College theatre is in '85.

The other productions this season included "Great American One Acts" on November 8 and 9; Moliere's THE WOULD BE GENTLEMAN from February 14-16 as part of the French Fine Arts Festival; and an original drama Diamond City. Written and directed by Paul Wilson. Diamond City will be presented in FAYETTEVILLE-Methodist College will host the North Carolina Theatre Conference Piedmont District theatre contest on November 16 and 27. This festival/contest is open to area Junior and Senior High School theatre companies.

One of the four district theatre contests held annually in NC, the two-day event will feature awards for Distinguished Play, Best Actor and Actress, Ensemble Acting, Excellence in Directing and for Theatre Arts.

Winners at Methodist will advance to state contest at UNC-G on December 14 and 15.

Those interested in attending any of these free performances can call Methodist College, 488-7110, Ext. 212 for playing times and play titles.

Local director Jane Berry will serve as one of the judges.

FAYETTEVILLE-In celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of Methodism in America, Methodist College will present The Invisible Fire on Sunday evening November 18, at 8 o'clock in Reeves Auditorium.

The oratorio depicts the conversion experience of John Wesley, founder of the Methodist Church. Eminent American composer Cecil Effinger wrote the music for Invisible Fire. Tom F. Driver created the text.

Tenor Michael Best, who is in his sixth season as a principal artist with the Metropolitan Opera Company, will sing the role of John Wesley. Best is a Durham, NC, native with degrees from Duke University and the Julliard School of Music in New York City. In the late seventies Best spent two years in Fayetteville as a visiting artist. He sang the lead tenor role in another Methodist College production, the 1980 presentation of Homegar's King David.

Soprano Teresa Radomski, currently on the music faculty of Wake Forest University, will sing the narrator's role in Invisible Fire. At Wake Forest, Radomski teaches voice and serves as singing coach--consultant for the University Theatre. She has been a guest artist at the Eastern Music Festival in Greensboro, as well as a soloist with both the Greensboro and Winston Salem Symphony Orchestras. She has also appeared with the Greensboro Opera Company.

Alice Goode, a contralto who is a member of Meredith College's music faculty, will sing the role of Susanna Wesley, John's mother.

The Methodist College Chorus will form the nucleus of the choral group for the oratorio. The chorus will be augmented with local singers from the Cumberland County community.

The orchestra for Invisible Fire will be comprised of Methodist College personnel and local professional musicians. The North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church is sponsoring the production.

Alan M. Porter, Associate Professor of Music at Methodist College, will direct Invisible Fire. Porter holds degrees from Mount Union College and the University of Illinois. In his twenty-second year at Methodist, he teaches voice, conducting and music history. He has done post graduate work at Ball State University and Pennsylvania State University.

The public is invited to attend Invisible Fire at no charge.
