SCHOLARS CHOSEN

FAYETTEVILLE—Sixteen current or former students at Methodist College have been chosen Methodist College Scholars because of their academic achievements. Selection to the scholars' honor is determined by cumulative grade-point averages at the end of the junior year, or the first or second semester of the senior year.

Chosen because they have achieved a 3.75 or better grade-point average at the end of their junior year are Jean Lemke of Fayetteville and Juanita Thompson of Butner.

Seniors chosen as Scholars include Laura Kernek and Bert Schroer of Fayetteville, Anita Carroll of Willow Springs, William Holden of Roseboro, and Betty Massengill of Dunn. These students achieved a 3.60 or better grade-point at the end of the first semester of their senior year.

Recent graduates selected as Methodist College Scholars because they achieved a 3.50 or better grade-point average at the final semester of their senior year are Kathryn Locey, Jocee McLaurin, Linda A. Anderson, Kellye Perkins, and Jeanne M. Reed, all of Fayetteville; Cynthia Hanlin and Shirley Wilson of Fort Bragg; Lori L. Simmons of Hope Mills; and Norma Wingo of Oxford.
