RE: Sam Ragan ceremony
DATE: August 13, 1986

Methodist College will host a very special ceremony on Sunday, August 17, at 3 p.m. in the Davis Memorial Library. The friends of Davis Memorial Library will be honoring Sam Ragan, editor and publisher of the Southern Pines Pilot and North Carolina's poet laureate.

A recording of Ragan reading his poetry has been produced into album form; with 1,000 of them to be distributed free to school and public libraries in the state.

On hand to honor Sam Ragan this Sunday will be Frank A. Daniels Jr., president and publisher of the News and Observer, Raleigh; Terry Sanford, former governor of North Carolina and former president of Duke University; Robert W. Scott, state president of the Department of Community Colleges; William C. Friday, recently retired president of the University of North Carolina System and Dr. James Hemby Jr., president of Atlantic Christian College.

There will also be representatives present from the Department of Public Instruction, the friends of Weymouth Inc., North Carolina State Library and the North Carolina Writer's Conference.

Also on hand will be directors from libraries at Campbell University, Mt. Olive College, North Carolina State University, Pembroke State University, St. Andrews College and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Please join us for this celebration of the arts and education in North Carolina.

If you have any questions, please call me at (919) 488-7110, ext. 246.

McCOOL TO ATTEND METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC -- Joe Miller, basketball coach at Methodist College, has announced that Kevin McCool, son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. McCool, RD #5, Bellefonte, PA, will attend Methodist College this fall.

The 6-0, 170-lb. McCool is a graduate of Bellefonte Area High School.

"I'm really happy to have Kevin attending Methodist this fall," said Miller. "He has had an outstanding career at Bellefonte, playing in 70 straight games since his sophomore year and averaging 11 points a game over those three years. I am looking forward to working with him this season."

During his senior year, McCool led his team in free throws made and free throws attempted (69-103), free throw percentage (67%), field goals made and field goals attempted (145-337), and total points (359). He was the team's second leading scorer averaging 15 points a game.

He also led the team in most games scoring in double figures (19) and assists (147). McCool had five games in which he scored 20 points or more.

Defensively, McCool led Bellefonte in steals (62) and he was third in rebounds (120).

A three-year letterman at his guard position, he was named Penns Valley
