WELCOME BACK, METHODISTS

More than 1,600 Methodists are expected in Fayetteville June 8-11 for the annual meeting of the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church. Methodist College will again host the event, as it has 13 of the last 14 years.

We in Fayetteville are pleased that the conference members decided to return here after holding their meeting at Duke University last year. We are fortunate to be near the geographical center of the North Carolina Conference, which encompasses 56 counties from Burlington to the coast.

Although Bill Lowdermilk has informed us that 600 of the clergy and lay members attending the annual conference will be housed on the Methodist College campus, hundreds of others will be staying in area motels. When they are not meeting or voting on church matters, we know these Methodists will dine out and shop in Fayetteville.

On behalf of all the residents of Cumberland County and the city of Fayetteville, we extend a cordial welcome to our Methodist friends from throughout eastern North Carolina. While we are proud the conference chose to build Methodist College in Fayetteville, we are equally proud that they like us well enough to come back year after year.

ONE HUNDRED STUDENTS RECEIVE DEGREES AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC -- One hundred students received degrees at Methodist College's 24th spring commencement, held Sunday afternoon, May 10 in Reeves Auditorium. The college awarded 87 bachelor's degrees and 13 associate's degrees.

Mary Lynn Bryan, historian-in-residence at the college, was the commencement speaker. Addressing members of the Class of 1987 as her "children," Mrs. Bryan urged them to "be the best that you can be," to keep an open mind, to take an active role in solving society's problems, and to make informed choices based on Christian values.

The Rev. Dr. Bill Lowdenmilk, vice president of church/community relations, delivered the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning. Entitled "Life as a Boomerang," the sermon challenged each of the graduating seniors to "become a catalyst for good"--committed to "building up, not tearing down; being caring not callous; and living a life of sharing, not hoarding."

Cu Phung, a Vietnamese American who graduated Cum Laude with a double major in chemistry and mathematics, received the Lucius Stacy Weaver Award, given in honor of the college's first president. Phung was chosen by the faculty as the senior who best exemplifies academic excellence, leadership and service, and devotion to Christian ideals and humanitarian service.

Fayetteville resident Cynthia L. Clagett graduated Summa Cum Laude in biology, with the highest average in the class. Four students graduated Summa Cum Laude with grade point averages of 3.90 or above. Three students graduated Magna Cum Laude with averages of 3.70 or above. Twelve students graduated Cum Laude with averages of 3.40 or higher.

Six graduates of Methodist's ROTC program--Peter Douglas Ahl, Teresa Diane Bowling, David Culbreth, William F. X. Knowlton, II, Thomas Lamar Shreve, and Stephanie Elizabeth Williams--took the Oath of Allegiance during the ceremony. In a separate ceremony held prior to commencement, they were commissioned second lieutenants in the U. S. Army.

SPRING COMMENCEMENT

Veteran state legislator John Henley of Hope Mills received an honorary doctor of humanities degree. Henley was cited for nearly 40 years of public service--as mayor and town commissioner in Hope Mills, during four terms in the North Carolina House of Representatives and seven terms in the North Carolina Senate, and more recently as president of the North Carolina Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

The college honored Miss Lois Lambie, a retired public school music teacher and the author of Methodist's Alma Mater, by presenting her with a Methodist College Medallion. Miss Lambie was recognized for her volunteer work with senior citizens in Cumberland County and outstanding service to her church and community.

SILVASY NAMED TO SCHOLAR-ATHLETE ALL-AMERICA TEAM

FAYETTEVILLE, NC -- Lori A. Silvasy of Methodist College has been named to the Adidas Scholar-Athlete Soccer All-American Team. The team is selected by the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America (ISAA).

Team members are selected on the basis of academic achievement as well as performance on the soccer field. "This is the second year of the Scholar-Athlete Soccer All-American program," said Terry Weekes, National Soccer Promotions Manager of Adidas USA. "We are proud to be working with the ISAA in honoring outstanding college soccer players who also excel in the classroom," Weekes added.

A junior biology and chemistry major, Silvasy was Methodist's first Academic All-American. Her other accomplishments include: President's List, two semesters; Dean's List, four semesters; Student Athlete of the Year, 1986; co-captain for two years; Most Valuable Player, 1986; first team All-Conference for three years; first team All-Region; third team All-American.

"Lori is a tremendous student-athlete who works extremely hard to excel in both areas," said Joe Pereira, women's soccer coach at Methodist. "With this work ethic, she is a pleasure to coach," he added.

METHODIST COLLEGE TO OFFER 14 SUMMER CAMPS

FAYETTEVILLE, NC -- Methodist College will operate 14 different youth camps this summer, offering instruction in seven major sports and four special subjects.

New additions to Methodist's summer camp lineup include: a one-week Piano and Choral Music Camp (residential for 12-18-year-olds, June 28-July 3); a two-week Youth Theater Summer Workshop (a day camp for 7-18-year-olds, Session I: July 13-24, Session II: July 27-Aug. 7); Girls' Basketball (a day camp for ages 10-18, July 13-17); and a Women's Soccer Select Camp (a residential camp for ages 10-18, June 12-16).

Guest instructors for the Piano and Choral Music Camp will include concert pianist Angela Cheng (a doctoral candidate from Indiana University) and soprano vocalist Joan Stoltz Miller. Alice Arrington, speech and theatre teacher at E. E. Smith High School, will serve as a guest instructor in creative dramatics for the Youth Theatre Summer Workshop.

The following youth day camps will be offered this summer: soccer, little league baseball, advanced baseball, all-sports (12 activities), girls' basketball, and tennis. In addition, the college will operate residential camps in dance and cheerleading, plus a night basketball camp designed for teenagers who work during the day.

Methodist's sports camps will employ college coaches and student assistants as instructors. Guest artists have been hired for the Dance Camp, Piano and Choral Music Camp, and East Coast Cheerleading Camp.

--MORE--

--2-2-2--

Methodist College will host the Eastern Band Front Camp July 5-9 for drum majors, majorettes, and flag and rifle teams. Purdue University will offer a four-day seminar entitled "How To Study in College" Aug. 3-6.

Under the aegis of the Cumberland County Recreation and Parks Department, the Methodist College cheerleaders will conduct a one-week mini-clinic for younger cheerleaders (ages 6-14) June 22-26.

Information on the cost and registration of specific camps is available by calling Methodist College at (919) 488-7110, ext. 298. Gwen Sykes, director of special projects, is in charge of the summer camp program. A schedule of the 1987 summer camps is attached.
