FAYETTEVILLE, NC--L. Stacy Weaver, the first president of Methodist College, recently donated the bulk of his personal library to the college. Fayetteville attorney Stacy Weaver, Jr. presented the collection to College President Elton Hendricks on behalf of the Weaver family.

Dr. Weaver's gift of 654 books and 61 music scores will become part of the permanent collection in the Davis Memorial Library. The subject matter runs the gamut from U.S. and North Carolina history to art and popular fiction.

College Librarian Norma Womack said she is delighted with the quality and condition of the collection, one that includes a number of rare and valuable books. A complete listing of the works filled 12 typewritten pages.

Mrs. Womack said she was particularly glad to receive a book of heraldry and a rare North Carolina book entitled "Songs Merry and Sad." She said each book and score in the Weaver Collection will bear a memorial book plate.

Lucius Stacy Weaver served as president of Methodist College from its inception in 1956 until his retirement in 1973. Dr. and Mrs. Weaver now live in Lakeland, Florida.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF METHODIST COLLEGE SPEAKS AT WINTER COMMENCEMENT

FAYETTEVILLE, NC-- Methodist College awarded 90 degrees to 89 persons at its 15th Winter Commencement Dec. 16.

Dr. Richard W. Pearce, who served as president of Methodist College from 1973-83, delivered the commencement address. Speaking on the topic, "What Are You Going To Do With Tomorrow?," Dr. Pearce listed some of the major achievements of his generation and challenged the degree candidates to adopt a "balanced set of values" for the future.

Dr. Pearce cited the ancient Carthaginians as an example of a people with no spiritual values. He said Carthage was a materialistic, self-centered, warlike society whose members were interested solely in trade and wealth. He said the Carthaginians contributed little to Western civilization, leaving behind no art, literature, philosophy, music, drama, religion, or science.

The commencement speaker urged the degree candidates to build on the socially oriented values of their parents and grandparents and thereby improve society. "That is the best reason for a college education," he said, "--to be sure there will be no more Carthaginians."

Degree candidates Alicia Ruiz Czajkowski, a native of Mexico, and Jose L. Rodriguez, a native of Puerto Rico, presented the flags of their home countries to College President Elton Hendricks, continuing a tradition begun in May, 1985. Thirteen countries are now represented in Methodist's international flag collection.

President Hendricks conferred an honorary Doctor of Humanities degree upon William Robert Johnson of Goldsboro, a charter member of the Methodist College Board of Trustees whose service spans the last 31 years. The retired businessman was cited for his humanitarian service to his church and the youth of his community and his longstanding efforts to recruit students for Methodist and to help his recruits financially.

MONARCH CHEERLEADERS HEADED TO DALLAS, TEXAS

A New Year is usually filled with lots of anticipation, excitement and enthusiasm for the unknown that lies ahead in the coming year. For the Methodist College cheerleading squad, they will leap, somersault, and jump into the New Year at the 1988 NCA Collegiate Cheerleader Championship in Dallas, Texas on January 3. They depart for the competition on January 2.

For Coach Gwen Sykes and her sixteen member squad, participation in this Championship has been the culmination of a lot of hard work and the realization of goals set three years ago. "As we began national competition," states Sykes, "we first wanted to make the Top 20. We were #15. Last year, we wanted to make the Top 10 - we were #8. Our goal for this year was to go to the National Championships. Now, we would like to move that next goal of winning a Championship up a year. It will be quite a challenge. We have a good squad, but we are a young team with ten freshmen."

Methodist will be competing against eight teams in Division II at the Championships. Included in this Division are NCAA Division II, NCAA Division III, NAIA, and JUCO squads. Those eight schools include Millerville University (PA), Trinity Valley College (TX), Liberty University (VA), Northwest Missouri State University (MO), Rose State Junior College (OK), College of St. Thomas (MN), Abilene Christian University (TX) and, of course, Methodist.

The squads will each perform a 3 minute routine of dance, stunts and cheers. "Ours will be heavy on dance," says Sykes. The order of performance, as determined by a computer draw, places Methodist performing last. Sykes thinks that could be a Monarch advantage. "Ours is a flashy routine, so hopefully that will be a final impact on the judges. Our music is mixed, but the finale is to 'Good Golly Miss Molly'".

Maybe this young squad will make the grand finale a real winner -- "We Are the Champions!."

METHODIST COLLEGE CHEERLEADERS TO COMPETE IN NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

FAYETTEVILLE, NC--The Methodist College Cheerleading Team will participate in the 1988 National Cheerleaders Association Collegiate Cheerleader Championship in Dallas, Texas Jan. 3, 1988.

The Methodist team was chosen by the Selection Committee on the basis of a videotaped routine. Forty-five squads were selected from three divisions. The Monarchs will compete against eight teams in Division II at the Dallas Convention Center.

The Methodist team will depart the Fayetteville Regional Airport for Dallas at 7:40 a.m. Saturday. They will perform their routine in the preliminary round at 1:10 p.m. CST (2:10 p.m. EST) Sunday. If the Monarchs make the Top Five after the preliminary competition, they will then compete in the final round, which begins at 5 p.m. CST (6 p.m. EST).

Coach Gwen Sykes' 16-member team has prepared an all-new 3 1/2 minute routine for the nationals. "As we set our short and long-term goals for beginning national competition," said Mrs. Sykes, "we first wanted to make the Top 20. We were No. 15. Last year we wanted to make the Top 10. We were No. 8. Our goal for this year was to go to the national championships. We have a good squad, but we are a young team with 10 freshmen. This competition will be a real challenge for us."
