RESTORED MALLETT-ROGERS HOUSE TO BE DEDICATED MAY 15

FAYETTEVILLE, NC--Methodist College and the Florence Rogers Charitable Trust will dedicate the restored Mallett-Rogers House Sunday, May 15 at 5 p.m. The public is invited.

Now located on the southern edge of the campus near O'Hanlon Amphitheatre, the Mallett-Rogers House has undergone a two-year, $150,000 renovation and will now serve as an art gallery. Paintings will be displayed on the first floor, sculpture on the second.

Dr. William C. Fields, portrait painter and amateur historian, will open the Invitational Exhibition of North Carolina Artists--the inaugural exhibit in the new gallery. A reception and tour will follow from 5:30-7:00 p.m.

Cumberland County's oldest house was donated to the college in 1985 by the Florence Rogers Charitable Trust. The trust had the structure moved to the campus in February, 1986, from a site off Stamper Road near Eutaw Village Shopping Center. The college and the trust have jointly financed the restoration.

Built by James Council in 1735, the house was originally located off Gillespie Street, on property now occupied by the N. C. Dept. of Transportation. In 1778, Council sold the house to cotton manufacturer Charles Peter Mallett. In 1830, Charles Beatty Mallett (Peter's son) moved the house to Eutaw Springs.

The Mallett-Rogers House has two components--a one-and-a-half story structure which will serve as the gallery, and a small two-room cottage which is located to the rear of the main structure. The small cottage, which was attached to the side of the main structure at the Eutaw site, is now attached by steps and a small stoop to the back porch of the main house. The college news bureau will be housed on the first floor of the cottage, which has been equipped with a small restroom and galley kitchen.

In the new configuration, the Mallett-Rogers House retains all of its original architectural features, including full-width porches, wide pine flooring, and four working fireplaces with hand-carved mantels. Brick walks have been laid in the front and along the south side--areas that are now being professionally landscaped. A wooden ramp will give handicapped persons access to the restroom in the cottage.

METHODIST TO HOST NATIONAL CHEERLEADING COACHES CONFERENCE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC--Cheerleading coaches from 41 states across the nation, as well as Canada, will attend the second annual National Cheerleading Coaches Conference May 12-15 at Methodist College.

More than 200 persons are registered for the three-day national conference, which will feature over 37 instructional sessions for the college/university coach, the high school coach, and the junior high school coach, as well as networking sessions and safety seminars.

Instructors for the National Cheerleading Coaches Conference include: Cathy Buckey, cheerleading coach of the 1986 national champion N. C. State University cheerleaders; Don Collins, cheerleading coach at UNC-Chapel Hill; Gwen Sykes, coach of the 1988 top-ranked NCAA Division III cheerleading squad at Methodist College; Lynda Chappell, cheerleading coach for the Kansas City Chiefs; and Lisa Kubinski, cheerleading coach at St. Cloud State University (MN) and a former Minnesota Vikings cheerleader.

Sykes, who also serves as executive coordinator of the conference, said the key issues to be addressed by the National Cheerleading Coaches Conference include the standardization of terminology and safety guidelines, the credibility of cheerleading as a sport, the need for a resurgence of spirit-promoting cheerleaders, and the prevention and treatment of cheerleading injuries.

"Coaches have always wanted to be better than they are, to increase both their knowledge and their expertise in coaching," added Sykes. "There just

METHODIST COLLEGE AWARDS 102 DEGREES AT 25TH SPRING COMMENCEMENT

FAYETTEVILLE, NC--Methodist College awarded 102 degrees to 99 students at its 25th spring commencement Sunday afternoon, May 8.

Brigadier General Stephen Silvasy, Jr., Deputy Commandant of the U.S. Army War College in Carlisle, PA and the father of a graduating senior, challenged members of the Class of '88 to "make things happen" and to "become history makers." He also stressed the importance of maintaining high standards of personal integrity and asking oneself "What is the right thing to do?"

Gen. Silvasy expressed his gratitude to the college faculty and staff for giving the graduating seniors the potential to make things happen. He concluded his address by suggesting that class members adopt three mottoes used by various military units--"Follow me. . .All the way. . .Let's go."

Rev. Helen Crotwell, Fayetteville District Superintendent, N. C. Conference of the United Methodist Church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning. She urged the candidates for graduation to beware of "wolves in sheep's clothing" and to adopt Christian values over worldly values.

Richard Butler, Jr. of Fayetteville, who graduated Summa Cum Laude with degrees in music and French, received the Lucius Stacy Weaver Award, given in honor of the college's first president. Butler was chosen by the faculty as the senior who best exemplified academic excellence, leadership ability, devotion to Christian ideals, and humanitarian service.

Fayetteville resident David Craig Melvin, who graduated Summa Cum Laude with a degree in biology and chemistry, finished first in the class with a perfect 4.0 (straight A) average. Two other students graduated Summa Cum Laude with grade point averages of 3.9 or higher, while eight made Magna Cum Laude (with 3.7 or higher), and 17 graduated Cum Laude (with 3.4 or higher).

College President Elton Hendricks conferred an honorary Doctor of Letters degree upon J. Roy Parker, Jr., editor of The Fayetteville Times. Parker was cited for his editorial support of education, human rights, the arts, and the preservation of local history.

Three international students presented President Hendricks with the flags of their native countries, continuing a tradition begun in May, 1985. The presenters and their home countries were: Paul Leite, Portugal; Christa O'Quinn, West Germany; and Luciana Spell, Italy. These gifts bring to 16 the number of flags in Methodist's international collection.

Five graduates of Methodist's ROTC program--John Pecoraro, Karen Grant, Gregory Creech, Angela Close, and Cynthia Clagett--took the Oath of Allegiance and were commissioned second lieutenants in the U. S. Army.

PIANO AND CHORAL MUSIC CAMP SLATED FOR METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC--Methodist College's second annual Piano and Choral Music Summer Camp will be held July 3-8, 1988.

The camp is open to all piano and choral music students ages 11-18. Piano students should have at least one year of prior instruction. Each student will receive four hours of group instruction and one hour of private lessons daily.

The $175 cost of the camp includes tuition, housing in air-conditioned residence halls, and three meals per day. Enrollment forms can be obtained by phoning Mrs. Joy Cogswell, Camp Director, at 488-7110, Ext. 256 during the day or 864-1380 evenings.

Guest instructors for the camp will be Joan Stoltz Miller (soprano), a Sanford native who has sung professionally with the Yale Symphony Orchestra, and Victor Rosenbaum (concert pianist), director of the Longy School of Music in Cambridge, Massachusetts. Methodist College faculty members Jane Weeks and Joy Cogswell will teach the music theory and history classes and private piano classes.

Camp participants will attend two evening concerts--one by Mr. Rosenbaum and one by a Methodist College choral ensemble--and give a group concert featuring a mixed chorus and selected pianists Friday, July 8 at 10:30 a.m. All concerts will be held in Reeves Auditorium. They are open to the public at no charge.

METHODIST TO OFFER ELDERHOSTEL

FAYETTEVILLE, NC--Methodist College will offer courses on the U. S. Constitution, microcomputers, and handbell ringing during an "Elderhostel" July 3-9.

Elderhostel is a national program for adults over 60. Participants spend a week on a college campus, taking three different mini-courses.

The specific course titles and the instructors are: "The U. S. Constitution: Incomplete? Is It Time to Tinker?"--Dr. Suzan Cheek, "Introduction to Microcomputers"--Dr. James Ward, and "The Art of Handbell Ringing"--Mr. Alan Porter.

Other activities planned for the Elderhostel participants include: a reception at the president's house, musical concerts, a cookout and dinner party, a July 4 celebration, and tours of Fayetteville area places of interest.

The cost for the week-long program is $230 per person (with double or single occupancy), which includes tuition, on-campus housing and meals in air-conditioned facilities. A limited number of commuting students will be accepted at a cost of $115 per person, which includes noon meals and most of the evening meals, as well as all activities.

Those interested in attending Elderhostel as residential students should request an application form from Mrs. Elaine Porter, Elderhostel Coordinator, no later than May 30. Residential participants must enroll

SUMTER RESIDENT COMPETING IN NATIONAL TRACK MEET

FAYETTEVILLE, NC--Gerald Davis, a junior at Methodist College in Fayetteville, NC, is a member of a 4X400 relay team which will compete in the NCAA Division III National Track and Field Championships May 24-28 at Northfield, Minnesota.

The team of which Davis is a member qualified for the nationals May 14 at the N.C. State Twilight Meet (Raleigh, NC) with a new school record time of 3:17.24. Their time is among the six fastest in the country for Division III teams.

Davis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Davis of Sumter, SC and a 1985 graduate of Sumter High School. He has been a member of Methodist's cross country and track teams for the last three years.

Davis is majoring in communications and is currently serving as editor of SMALL TALK, the campus newspaper. He is working as a summer intern this summer at WKFT-TV (Channel 40) in Fayetteville. He recently received the Publisher's Award (given annually by Fayetteville Publishing Co.) for outstanding contributions to college journalism.

Methodist College is a four-year co-educational college of liberal arts and sciences with a fulltime enrollment of 1,100 students.
