'SNOW WHITE' SLATED FOR METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Monarch Playmakers at Methodist College will present the children's classic Snow White November 19, 20, and 21 in Reeves Auditorium.

Performances are scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $4 for adults and $2 for children and senior citizens. Matinees for school groups are scheduled for noon November 18 (Thursday) and 19 (Friday) at a reduced charge of $1 per person. Phone 630-7483 to make reservations.

Mrs. Susan Paschal, instructor of theatre at Methodist, is directing the college's second annual holiday children's classic. Edwina Lindsay, a local actress last seen in Harvey at the Fort Bragg Playhouse, will play the Evil Queen, and Bethany Surrige, a Methodist College music major, will portray Snow White. Other characters, including the seven dwarfs and woodland creatures, will be played by Methodist College students and local children.

"Snow White should be a hit with the children," said Mrs. Paschal. "It has suspense, magic, love, and laughter. We are doing Tim Kelly's 1990 adaptation of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. Even adults will enjoy this show; the Mirror and the Queen are absolutely hilarious, much like Aladdin's Genie and Jaffar."

METHODIST COLLEGE DEBATE TEAM

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—The Methodist College Debate Team experienced renewed success at an intercollegiate tournament hosted by James Madison University October 21 -24. Participants from twenty-one schools, including Dartmouth and Boston College from the north and University of Georgia from the south, competed in the three-day event.

The Methodist team of Travis Jordan and Todd Lyden completed the preliminary competition with a 5-3 win/loss record, earning an opportunity to compete in the octo-final break round. After advancing in octo-finals with a 2-1 decision over George Mason University, they were defeated by the eventual tournament champions, Mary Washington University, on a 2-1 decision in the quarter final debate.

The new director of debate, John Humphreys, said that this early success was important for two reasons: "This is a great success for our program. Neither of these gentlemen had even seen a debate two months ago and now they prove to be very competitive. Additionally, I think it's important to point out that because there are no divisions in debate, as there are in sporting activities. We were successful in head to head competition with much larger schools with well financed programs. For example, both George Mason and Mary Washington are ranked in the top five schools nationally."

The debates were focused on this year's national topic, "Resolved: that the commander-in-chief power of the United States President should be substantially curtailed." Also participating at the tournament were Methodist debaters Jodi Plew and Julie Dais; they compiled a 3-5 record in the preliminary rounds, which did not allow them to advance.

METHODIST GRAD, STUDENTS ADVANCE IN THEATRE CONTESTS.

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Several Methodist College thespians advanced to regional and national competition after participating in the N.C. section, American College Theatre Festival, November 13 at Catawba College.

The MC contingent performed Caroline Kearns' two-act comedy, Out of Gas. Ms. Kearns is a '93 graduate of Methodist who double majored in communications/mass media and English.

Ms. Kearns' script for Out of Gas advanced to the finals of the Michael Kanin Playwriting Awards Program, National Student Playwriting Award, and the Columbia Pictures Television Award for Comedy Playwriting. The script will be read and judged April 18-25 at the Kennedy Center in Washington, DC.

Two Methodist students who performed in the play—Lane Wray and Gesa Wellenstein—advanced to regional competition in the Irene Ryan Scholarship Contest. The regionals will be held February 2-5 at Clemson University; regional winners will advance to the national finals at the Kennedy Center.

Lane Wray is a sophomore from Fayetteville, majoring in theatre. Ms. Wellenstein is a senior from Fayetteville majoring in biology.

MONARCH DANCERS TO PERFORM DECEMBER 11 AT METHODIST COLLEGE.

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—The Monarch Dancers, a newly-formed dance troupe at Methodist College, will give a free performance Saturday, December 11 at 8 p.m. in Reeves Auditorium.

The troupe will perform a dance based on a story by Methodist College senior Gesa Wellenstein. Entitled "Maya;" the 45-50 minute program features a variety of dance styles and musical backgrounds, along with special lighting effects. Ms. Wellenstein is the choreographer and president of the Monarch Dancers.

In the story, an island inhabited by the Jesters is conquered by the warlike Humans. Fulio, a jester, undertakes a quest which could restore the island to its original state. In the process, Fulio discovers the true meaning of love.

The Monarch Dancers are: Tina Byard, Patricia Dennis, Stacey Harper, Patty Howard, Cassie Paugh, Mikey Steen, and Terri Stem. The advisor is Terri Abbott, aerobic instructor.

Robert Bloodworth will narrate the program. Michael Thrash will play Fulio and Julia Kahl will be Eyeblossom.

METHODIST COLLEGE, SVSH CHORUSES ANNOUNCE WINTER CONCERT

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—The Methodist College Department of Music and the South View Senior High School Chorus will join forces for a winter concert of great choral music Wednesday, December 1, 1993 at 8 P.M. in Reeves Auditorium. Admission is free and the public is invited.

The Methodist College ensembles will include the Methodist College Chorus and Rainbow's End under the direction of Alan Porter and the Monarch Quartet under the direction of Valerie Oyen-Larsen. The Southview Senior-High School ensembles are under the direction of Richard Butler.

The program will be made up primarily of seasonal music, including such well-known pieces as "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel," "Carol of the Bells," "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas" and the Robert Shaw arrangement of "Adeste Fideles".

The combined choruses will conclude the program by performing John Rutter arrangements of "Joy to the World".
