DR. TONY DELAPA NAMED PROFESSOR OF YEAR AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Dr. Tony DeLapa, professor of education at Methodist College, has been named Professor of the Year. College President Elton Hendricks presented Dr. DeLapa with a $500 check and a plaque at the college's annual Awards Ceremony April 29.

The tenured professor and director of Methodist's Division of Education and Physical Education, was chosen by a faculty/student committee. A native of Lockport, N.Y., Tony DeLapa joined the Methodist faculty in 1989.

"Tony is an outstanding teacher who is devoted to his students and is innovative in his teaching style," said Dr. Erik Bitterbaum, vice president for academic affairs. "He has been very involved in campus life—performing in and directing plays, playing sax in the Stage Band, and attending athletic and cultural events on campus. He is also the current president of the Fayetteville Rotary Club."

Under Dr. DeLapa's leadership, the Methodist College Education Department's teacher education program was accredited by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education. He was also instrumental in securing Reynolds Foundation grants totalling $47,000 for the Students Involved in Reading Instruction Together (SPIRIT) program at Pauline Jones Elementary School in Fayetteville. In 1992, he received the Outstanding Faculty Award given by the Methodist College Alumni Association.

Dr. DeLapa spent 23 years in public education, serving as an English teacher, principal, and curriculum supervisor. A specialist in reading instruction, writing processes, and competency-based testing, he earned bachelor's and master's degrees at State University of New York at Buffalo and a doctorate in education at the University of Toledo. He is an Army veteran and served as Chief of the Instructional Branch, Civil Affairs Department, at Fort Bragg's John F. Kennedy Special Warfare Center and School from 1986-89. He came to Methodist College from that position.

REEVES SCHOOL OF BUSINESS AT METHODIST COLLEGE HIRES ARMY VETERAN TO DIRECT HEALTH CARE ADMINISTRATION PROGRAM

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Michael H. Sullivan, a recently retired Army officer with 17 years experience as a health care administrator/educator, has joined Methodist College's Reeves School of Business as director of the school's new health care administration program.

Sullivan comes to Methodist from Womack Army Medical Center at Fort Bragg, where he was manager of the Coordinated Care Division. He has been teaching evening courses at Methodist since last fall. He holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Austin Peay State University and a Master of Health Administration degree from Baylor University.

"We're delighted that Michael Sullivan has joined the faculty of the Reeves School of Business," said Joe Doll, the school's director. "He has a strong background in managed care and a variety of health care experience."

Methodist's Reeves school launched associate and bachelor's degrees in business administration with a concentration in health care administration last fall. The new concentration is designed to train administrators for the health care industry and to prepare those interested in graduate school. Students pursuing this concentration must take seven courses in health care administration in addition to the college's basic liberal arts core and business courses. A course in biology and, for the bachelor's degree, a course in human anatomy and physiology, are also required.

Sullivan said he will work to develop a program of "quality, competence, and professionalism." He projects that the number of non-traditional students (working adults) entering the program will outnumber the number of traditional (college-age) students during the first two years.

Among his long-term goals, he lists: establishing a student group affiliation with the American College of Health Care Executives, establishing a good working relationship with health care organizations in the Cape Fear Region, and developing a program that will be accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

Persons desiring more information about Methodist's health care administration concentration should write or phone Mike Sullivan in care of the Reeves School of Business, Methodist College, 5400 Ramsey Street, Fayetteville, NC 28311, (910) 630-7047.

DR. KEN COLLINS NAMED SAMUEL J. AND NORMA C. WOMACK PROFESSOR OF RELIGION AND PHILOSOPHY

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Dr. Ken Collins has been appointed to the first Samuel J. and Norma C. Womack Endowed Chair in Religion and Philosophy at Methodist College.

The endowed chair honors Methodist's former academic dean and religion professor, Dr. Sam Womack, and his late wife Norma, who was director of library services at the college. Family and friends of Dr. Womack established a fund in 1986 for an endowed chair in religion and philosophy in his honor; it was renamed to include Norma after her death in 1988.

Dr. Collins, the first occupant of an endowed chair at the college, is an associate professor of religion and philosophy and head of the Philosophy and Religion Department. He has taught at Methodist since 1984.

A Wesley scholar, Dr. Collins has published two books about John Wesley, the founder of Methodism; they are: Wesley On Salvation (1989) and A Faithful Witness (1993). He holds a Ph. D. from Drew University, master's degrees from Princeton Theological Seminary and Asbury Theological Seminary, and a bachelor's degree from the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Dr. Elton Hendricks, college president, said interest earned from the endowment will support both the Samuel J. and Norma C. Womack Endowed Chair and the Womack Lecture Series. The lecture series will bring two scholars to the campus annually—one in the fall and one in the spring—to speak about philosophy, religion, or ethical issues.

Dr. Sam Womack said he and his family are "greatly pleased with the format developed by the college for the administration of this endowment." He also applauded the selection of Dr. Collins as the first occupant of the chair, describing him as "an outstanding young scholar and teacher whose appointment will bring honor to the institution."

-MORE-

Methodist's former dean said he is also excited about the Womack Lecture Series and its potential impact on and beyond the campus. "May this program bolster the cause of faith and hope in a greatly troubled world and further the quest for deeper understanding of the meaning of life," he said.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKERS AT METHODIST COLLEGE FOCUS ON CHARACTER, SPIRITUALITY

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Brig. Gen. James M. Link told graduating seniors at Methodist College May 22 that their lives will be defined by the choices they make.

“You can either take charge of your life or be carried along by events,” he said. “Either way, the journey continues.”

Acknowledging that family, church, and peers have some influence on personal decisions, Link argued that a person’s character and values will more likely determine what choices are made. He urged the seniors to be true to themselves and “be your character...the sum of all your parts.”

The Army officer offered six personal observations for the Class of ‘94 to consider. He said they were things he had learned from personal experience during a 27-year military career. They are:

1) Money is not a satisfier; material things don’t bring happiness. 2) Your family is your most important legacy; take time for your children. 3) There is great joy in being part of something bigger than yourself...be it your church, community, nation, or career. 4) People are great; with good leadership they will meet your every expectation. 5) Strive for excellence in all things. and 6) Take good care of yourself...physically, spiritually, and mentally.

During the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning, Rev. Sid Huggins of Greenville, N.C. discussed journalist Bill Moyers’ thesis that the most important news story of the next 50 years will be the search for and interest in spirituality.

Rev. Huggins said if Moyers is correct, then more people will experience the following: 1) a new wholeness rooted in a spiritual foundation, 2) a richer life where one’s job, marriage, and talents are focused on the common good, 3) a long-term motivation to help others, and 4) a revitalized Christian church where the focus on Jesus Christ is sharpened.

Rev. Huggins concluded by noting that the word enthusiasm comes from two Greek words meaning “in God.” He then challenged the graduating seniors to “Let your spirit come alive in the right relationship with God and you’ll be ready to live with enthusiasm. You can be part of what may be the most important news story in the next 50 years.”

Methodist College awarded 133 degrees to 126 persons at the school’s 31st spring commencement. Thirty-four students graduated with honors. Dr. Elton Hendricks, college president, presented three honorary degrees—a Doctor of Divinity to the Rev. H. Sidney Huggins III of Greenville, and Doctor of Humanities degrees to Joseph P. Riddle Jr. of Fayetteville and Brig. Gen. James M. Link of Kaiserslautern, Germany.

Stephen Austin Fann, a “summa cum laude” graduate from Salemburg, NC, received the L. Stacy Weaver Award, denoting his selection by the faculty as the senior who best exemplified academic excellence, spiritual development, leadership, and service. A biology and chemistry major, Fann has been awarded a Brody Fellowship to attend the East Carolina University School of Medicine this fall.

Eight Army ROTC graduates took the Oath of Allegiance as second lieutenants. They are: Brian Scott Berry, Ben Hideo Dennis, Cynthia A.O. Evelyn, Rodney Githens, Martine Suzanne Lowry, Robert Lenn Ralston, Fletcher D. Walters, Diedre Lynn Windsor.

Two Air Force ROTC graduates also took the Oath of Allegiance, having previously been commissioned as second lieutenants. They are: Dereck Jamal Barnes and Jonathan Lee Terry.

Director of Public Relations

DR. TONY DELAPA NAMED ACADEMIC DEAN AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Dr. M. Elton Hendricks, president of Methodist College, has announced the appointment of Dr. Tony DeLapa as vice president of academic affairs and dean of the college, effective June 11.

Dr. DeLapa, 57, replaces Dr. Erik Bitterbaum, academic dean for the last four years. Dr. Bitterbaum recently resigned to take a position as vice president for academic affairs at Missouri Southern State College in Joplin, Missouri.

Methodist's seventh academic dean is a tenured professor of education and director of the Division of Education and Physical Education. A native of Lockport, NY, he has taught at Methodist for the last five years.

"Dr. DeLapa brings great wisdom, a caring spirit, and the ability to accomplish challenging tasks," said Dr. Hendricks. "He will give good leadership to our academic program. I look forward with pleasure to working with him."

Dr. DeLapa was one of three finalists interviewed for the position. "I am excited by the appointment," he said, "and look forward to working with the faculty to provide the best possible liberal arts education for our students."

Last month, Dr. DeLapa was chosen Professor of the Year by a faculty/student committee. In 1992, he received the Outstanding Faculty Award given by the Methodist College Alumni Association. He has been very active in campus life, performing in and directing plays, playing sax in the MC Stage Band, and attending athletic and cultural events.

Under Dr. DeLapa's leadership, Methodist's teacher education program was accredited two years ago by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education. He was also instrumental in securing Reynolds Foundation grants totalling $47,000 for a SPIRIT reading program at Pauline Jones

Elementary School in Fayetteville.

Dr. DeLapa spent 23 years in public education, serving as an English teacher, principal, and curriculum supervisor. A specialist in reading instruction, writing processes, and competency-based testing, he earned bachelor's and master's degrees at State University of New York at Buffalo and a doctorate in education at the University of Toledo.

He is an Army veteran and served as Chief of the Instructional Branch, Civil Affairs Department, at Fort Bragg's John F. Kennedy Special Warfare Center and School from 1986-89. He came to Methodist College from that position.
