METHODIST CONFERENCE AWARDS SCHOLARSHIPS TO METHODIST COLLEGE FRESHMEN

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—The North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church recently awarded scholarships to two students who will be entering Methodist College this fall.

During the Conference's 1995 session June 8, Beth Norris, chair of the Conference Commission on Higher Education Scholarship Committee, presented the William Ragsdale Cannon Scholarship to Norman Daniel Privette of Zebulon, N.C. and the United Methodist Foundation Annual Conference Scholarship to Karen Neadle of Fayetteville, N.C.

Daniel Privette is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Tommy Privette of Zebulon and recently graduated from East Wake High School. The Cannon Scholarship is worth $2,000. It is designated for pre-ministerial students and honors a former bishop of the North Carolina Conference.

Karen Neadle is the daughter of Donna K. Smith and is a recent graduate of Douglas Byrd High School. The scholarship she received is worth $1,000. Karen is a member of Roseboro United Methodist Church.

1995 North Carolina Annual Conference

*PUBLISHED DAILY BY THE COMMITTEE ON COMMUNICATIONS OF THE CONFERENCE COUNCIL ON MINISTRIES TO PROVIDE A SUMMARY OF NEWS
DURING THE NORTH CAROLINA ANNUAL CONFERENCE*

Thursday, June 8, 1995

How Many Are Here? The official count according to the Conference Registrar, Vivian Mitchell, is 1302 as of 8pm, Monday, June 5. There are 536 lay, 656 clergy, and 110 special registrants (staff-at-large, diaconals, youth/young adults, new clergy, and guests.)

Special presentations were made on Wednesday afternoon. The second annual Award for Notable Achievement in Race Relations was awarded to Clark Street Ministries in Rocky Mount. Clark Street Ministries, led by the Reverend Gregory Bronson and his wife Deborah, is a community organization which provides a "home away from home" for children and youth in the community. Volunteers from N. C. Wesleyan College and area United Methodist Churches make it possible for programs such as homework assistance, Saturday Bible study, arts, crafts, and a "Respect Yourself" program for teen-age girls... The Francis Asbury Award for United Methodist Ministries in Higher Education was awarded to Anne Exum Hinnant of Greensboro College. The award is for "individuals who have made a significant contribution to fostering the church's ministries in higher education."... The Key Taylor Town and Country Mission Award was given to Flat Rock United Methodist Church near Henderson, in recognition of their outstanding commitment to local and foreign missions. Their mission work includes a local soup kitchen, a county-wide shelter for battered women, and a Duke student in the Honduras for mission work. The Reverend Jeff Arthurs accepted the award for his church.

Scholarships for students who are or will be attending United Methodist Colleges in North Carolina were presented by Beth Norris, chairperson of the Conference Commission on Higher Education Scholarship Committee. The Blackburn Scholarship ($5,000.00) was awarded to Kenneth Jason Westbrook of St. Marks UMC in Raleigh and a rising sophomore at Louisburg College... Norman Daniel Privette received the William Ragsdale Cannon Scholarship ($2,000.00) designated for pre-ministerial students. Privette will be attending Methodist College in the fall... The United Methodist Foundation Annual Conference Scholarship ($1,000.00) was presented to Karen Neadle of Roseboro UMC who will attend Methodist College in the fall... The Conference Merit Award Student Day Scholarships ($500.00) were awarded to Holly Crumpler and Sean Tidrick. Crumpler attends Englewood UMC in Rocky Mount and will attend N. C. Wesleyan College in the fall. Tidrick

ACBSP ACCREDITS REEVES SCHOOL OF BUSINESS AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—The Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs has accredited the undergraduate degree programs offered by the Charles M. Reeves School of Business at Methodist College.

Dr. M. Elton Hendricks, college president, received the certificate of accreditation June 19 at the ACBSP's annual conference in Orlando, Florida.

"In our strategic plan adopted several years ago," noted Dr. Hendricks, "the trustees identified several programs for which we would seek national accreditation. This latest accomplishment indicates the growing academic strength and reputation of Methodist College."

"Accreditation is a logical and natural step in the continuous process of improving our business programs," added Joe Doll, director of the Reeves School. "This will help our students, faculty, and the business community by ensuring that our graduates are well-prepared to meet the demands of a dynamic, ever-changing global economy."

The Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs is a specialized accrediting body which reviews the quality and integrity of business degree programs. The faculty of Methodist's Reeves School applied for ACBSP accreditation in 1993 and a team of business faculty and academic administrators visited the campus in March of this year. As of May 1995 ACBSP had 477 member institutions, of which 120 were accredited.

The Charles M. Reeves School of Business currently offers four associate degrees and seven bachelor's degrees. The school awarded 87 degrees in 1994—17 in accounting, 53 in business administration, 13 in business administration with a concentration in professional golf management, two in business administration with a concentration in professional tennis management, one in business administration with a concentration in health care administration, and one in economics.

METHODIST COLLEGE RECEIVES BOOK COLLECTION

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Davis Memorial Library at Methodist College recently received a collection of books, journals, and collectibles from the estate of the Rev. Vergil E. Queen.

Rev. Queen, who died in August 1993, held six pastorates in the North Carolina Conference, was superintendent of the Wilmington and Sanford districts, and was a charter member of the Methodist College Board of Trustees. He was present at the State Capitol when N.C. Secretary of State Thad Eure signed the charter for Methodist College on November 1, 1956. He was the organizing pastor of Haymount United Methodist Church in Fayetteville.

Rev. Queen's personal library included scores of books and journal articles about John Wesley, some major commentaries by Biblical scholars, and several well-known histories of Methodism in England and America. He was considered an authority on church history and Wesleyan theology.

After reviewing the 254 books, 75 journals, and 16 related objects, Mrs. Susan Pulsipher, director of library services, and Dr. Ken Collins, professor of religion, described the collection as "a very valuable addition" to Davis Memorial Library. Included in the collectibles are pictures and prints of John Wesley, several plates, a Methodist Church Bicentennial Medallion, a pocket-size hymnal containing all the Wesley hymns, and several biographical pamphlets about members of the Wesley family.

While most of the books will go into general circulation, a few rare volumes and all the collectibles will be kept in the Lafayette Room for Special Collections and Archives. Many of the items pertaining to John Wesley will be displayed later in glass cases in the library foyer.

Davis Memorial Library's church-related archives are growing and now include the records of the United Methodist Women of the North Carolina Conference, Carolina College (Maxton, N.C.) memorabilia and alumni records, the Rev. Allen C. Lee Bible Collection, and a 30-volume set of John Wesley's 18th century work entitled A Christian Library.
