METHODIST COLLEGE P.A. PROGRAM BEGINS TAKING APPLICATIONS

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Methodist College will begin taking applications for its physician assistant program December 1. Applications for the first class will be accepted through Jan. 15.

The first group of students will begin the "didactic studies" or professional phase of the program in May. After another year of clinical rotations, Methodist's first class of physician assistants will be awarded B.S. degrees in May 1998.

"We will conduct interviews in March and make our selections shortly thereafter," said Ron Foster, program director. "Letters of acceptance will be sent out in April."

Before the college can accept students, it must first win provisional accreditation of the P.A. program from a national review committee of the Commission on Allied Health Education Programs. The committee will visit Methodist Feb. 1-2 to evaluate the curriculum, staffing, and other resources.

After three years of planning and visiting 11 other schools with P.A. programs, Foster is confident that the review committee will grant the college provisional accreditation. "The committee will return in 1997 for a full accreditation review," he added.

Potential applicants for the six-semester physician assistant program must have been enrolled at Methodist College for one semester and must have completed 81 semester hours of prerequisite courses, meeting minimum grade and time requirements for specific courses.

Students accepted for the professional phase of the program must complete an additional 54 semester hours of course work during the didactic phase and 44 semester hours during the clinical phase.

The director concedes that the program has stiff entrance requirements. "We want to select the finest students we can find and put them through the most rigorous program we can develop to produce health care providers of exceptional quality," he explained.

Foster completed a physician assistant program in Wisconsin. He has 22 years experience as a P.A. and has worked for Methodist College since 1992.

He estimates that 25-30 students currently enrolled at Methodist are eligible to apply for admission to the P.A. program. "We will probably accept less than half that number for the first class," he added.

The director said the college has received hundreds of inquiries about the P.A. program, some from as far away as Hawaii and Germany. "A lot of military wives have expressed an interest," he noted, "as have EMT's, nurses, lab technicians, and X-ray technicians."

Foster's assistant director, Peter Stanford, began work last summer. A graduate of Duke's P.A. program, he is in charge of the "didactic" or first year phase of the program. Stanford holds a master's degree in health education from U.N.C. and previously worked five years as a P.A. at a rural health clinic in Bluefield, W. Va.

Dr. Christopher Aul, co-founder of the Hope Mills Family Medicine Center, joined the staff in February 1995 as medical director of Methodist's P.A. program. Students will be taught by local physicians employed as adjunct instructors and will do clinical rotations in area hospitals, clinics, and health departments.

As previously announced, the P.A. program will be housed on one floor of a 13,000-square foot allied health building/family medicine clinic to be built on campus. Construction of that facility is scheduled to begin early next year.

METHODIST COLLEGE GRADUATES 107 AT 23RD WINTER COMMENCEMENT

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Methodist College graduated 107 students at its 23rd winter commencement December 15.

Dr. John Griffin, superintendent of the Cumberland County schools, asked members of the winter class to become true "laborers" by sharing with and helping those in need. He used as his text Matthew 9:37, in which Jesus said to his disciples, "The harvest is great, but the laborers are few."

Dr. Griffin challenged each graduating senior to take part in the political process, to become a volunteer, and "to reach out and show that you care for others." He said Americans need to change their mode of thinking from "me" to "we" and unite to restore the virtues of caring, integrity, and responsible citizenship.

In her baccalaureate sermon, Rev. Hope Ward, pastor of Soapstone United Methodist Church in Raleigh, urged class members to embrace "the simple and profound wisdom rooted in faith" and to "go forth nobly, humbly, and selflessly." Using as her text Matthew 11:2-19, Rev. Ward said Jesus invites his followers to "stand and shine."

Thirty-one members of the winter class graduated with honors—21 "cum laude," six "magna cum laude," and four "summa cum laude."

College President Elton Hendricks presented the Sam Edwards Award to Mrs. Linda Johnson Hood of Harrells, N.C., denoting her selection as the outstanding Evening College graduate of 1995. Mrs. Hood received a degree in business administration in May and is now employed as the human resources manager at Danaher Controls in Elizabethtown.

Continuing a tradition begun in 1985, two international students presented the flags of their native countries to President Hendricks. Konde Joe Mabilia presented the flag of Zaire and Simone Young presented the flag of The Barbados.
