FAYETTEVILLE WOMAN'S CLUB PRESENTS SCHOLARSHIP TO METHODIST COLLEGE STUDENT

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—The Fayetteville Woman's Club recently presented a $300 scholarship to Eileen M. Humphreys, a rising junior at Methodist College. The award is for the 1996-97 school year.

Mrs. Naomi Courson, club president, described Mrs. Humphreys as "a very deserving young woman, a mother who works two jobs and maintains an 'A' average." A resident of Autryville, Mrs. Humphreys hopes to enter Methodist's physician assistant program next year.

Dr. Alice Smith, chair of the club's Scholarship Committee, awarded the scholarship to Mrs. Humphreys at the group's April meeting. She also presented a new $300 scholarship to Richard Crosby, a rising junior at Fayetteville State University.

Mrs. Courson said the Fayetteville Woman's Club's newest scholarship is designed to help a student with a handicapping condition. She said the club will award two scholarships in 1997-98, one to a Methodist College student and one to an FSU student.

METHODIST COLLEGE GRADUATES 168 at 33RD SPRING COMMENCEMENT

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Methodist College graduated 168 students at its 33rd spring commencement May 12.

The commencement speaker, White House Communications Director Don Baer, spoke of the need for community and responsibility in America, urging members of the graduating class to “go out in your community and give something back.”

“You can’t have freedom without responsibility,” said Baer, a Fayetteville native. “Let the penny be your guide. Remember the word ‘liberty’ from the front and the words ‘e pluribus unum’ (out of many, one) from the back. We must honor the debt we’ve received from our founding fathers. If we do, we will create an ‘Age of Possibility’ and a better tomorrow for our children.”

During the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning, Rev. Michael W. Safley, vice president for student affairs, spoke on the subject “The Impossible Becomes Possible,” using as his text Mark 10:27. He cited several examples of persons who had overcome what looked like impossible odds, including: the Apollo 13 astronauts, Abraham Lincoln, Helen Keller, Jackie Robinson, and Christopher Reeve.

“With God, all things are possible,” he said. Rev. Safley observed that in order to solve personal and societal problems, it is necessary to approach them with optimism, faith, and vision. He concluded by asking members of the Class of '96 to “be involved and be part of the solution to our problems.”

Forty-five members of the class graduated with honors. Laurie Ann Davison, a biology major from Fayetteville, received the L. Stacy Weaver Award, denoting her selection by the faculty as the senior who best exemplified academic excellence, spiritual development, leadership, and service.

Dr. Elton Hendricks, college president, presented an honorary Doctor of Humanities degree to Dr. Mott P. Blair, a Siler City dentist, for outstanding service to his community, his church, and Methodist College. Dr. Blair was a trustee of Methodist College from 1965-1976 and succeeded Terry Sanford as chairman in 1967.

Three graduates—Malcolm James Powell of Cornwall (England), Ana Rodriguez of Spain, and Derek Tang of Malaysia—presented the college with the flags of their native countries.

Eight Army ROTC graduates took the oath of office and were commissioned second lieutenants: Steven David Baas, Anthony Eugene Daniels, William Connell Davis, Mikel Scott Hubbard, Shane Frank Liptak, Helmut E. Riepel, and Thomas Albert Yaroch.

P.A. PROGRAM AT METHODIST COLLEGE WINS PROVISIONAL ACCREDITATION

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—The Commission on the Accreditation of Allied Health Education Programs has granted provisional accreditation to Methodist College's new physician assistant program.

"We will begin the professional phase of the program May 13 with our first class of four students," said Ron Foster, program director. "Our program was one of eight new programs nationally to receive provisional accreditation."

Construction will begin this summer on a 13,000 square-foot allied health building/family medicine clinic to house the program.

"Our P.A. program is off to a good start," said Dr. M. Elton Hendricks, college president. "We are offering a P.A. loan incentive to encourage graduates to practice in the medically underserved areas of southeastern North Carolina. We will graduate our first class in May 1998."

To win provisional accreditation, Methodist had to submit hundreds of pages of data regarding the curriculum, staffing, and other resources. "We had to write course outlines, objectives, daily lesson plans and exams for all 27 courses in the professional phase of the program," said Foster. "Support from the regional medical community has been outstanding."

The students accepted for Methodist's first P.A. class are: Sayeh Araghi, Melissa Stout, Jason Williams, and Robin Lincoln. Foster said they are "excited and a bit frightened" as they prepare to begin their "didactic" year May 13. This summer they will take eight courses, meeting all day, five days a week. Peter Stanford, assistant director, is in charge of the "didactic" program. Dr. Christopher Aul is the program's medical director.

Methodist's P.A. program will undergo a full accreditation review in late 1997. Methodist's first class will begin its "clinical year" next May and should receive bachelor of science degrees in May 1998. The new graduates must then pass a two-day exam administered by the National Commission on Certification of Physician Assistants before they can begin practice.
