BUSINESSMAN, CHURCH LEADER ADDRESS SPRING GRADUATES AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—"Never lose your desire to learn." "Purchase a Third Class ticket." Two speakers delivered two distinct challenges to the spring graduating class at Methodist College Sunday, May 11.

"Never lose your desire to learn."

The commencement speaker was former Fayetteville High School football standout Jerry Richardson, a man who made millions as CEO of Flagstar Companies in Spartanburg, South Carolina and who now owns the Carolina Panthers professional football team. He said being the first in his family to finish college, the first Wofford College graduate to play professional football (Baltimore Colts, 1958-59), and the first Carolinian to win a pro football franchise had taught him that learning is an ongoing, lifelong process.

The speaker listed five lessons he said he had learned from his family, past mentors, and business associates: 1)Teamwork enhances individual effort, 2)Treat people fairly and listen to both sides of every issue, 3)Work hard to achieve worthwhile goals, 4)Build on the strength of diversity to achieve common goals, 5)Be happy in your work and balance work with leisure. Mr. Richardson concluded his address by urging class members to hold fast to their religious values, to volunteer their time to help their communities, and to be humble and listen to others.

"Purchase a Third Class ticket."

The baccalaureate speaker was Rev. Dr. Marion Edwards, bishop of the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church. In a sermon based on the parable of the Good Samaritan, Bishop Edwards added an example from the late novelist Louis L'Amour concerning stagecoach travel in frontier America. He said First Class ticket holders could ride inside no matter what happened, while Second Class passengers had to get out if a problem developed, and Third Class ticket holders were expected to get out and push if the need arose. He said the Good Samaritan was similar to the Third Class ticket holder.

“Jesus never issues anything but Third Class tickets,” said Bishop Edwards. “Are you standing on the promises or sitting on the premises? . . . I challenge you to turn in your First and Second Class tickets and purchase a Third Class ticket. Develop a stewardship that follows Jesus.”

Dr. Elton Hendricks, college president, presented honorary Doctor of Humanities degrees to Jerry Richardson and to Bill Weisser, diaconal minister of music at Edenton Street United Methodist Church in Raleigh. He also presented the L. Stacy Weaver Award to Cindy Lu del Rosario, denoting her selection by the faculty as the senior who best exemplified academic excellence, spiritual development, leadership, and service.

In other commencement activities:

- Thirty-eight of the 150 students in the spring class graduated with honors.
- Two Army ROTC cadets—Teyles Bandy and Stanton Trotter—were commissioned as second lieutenants.
- Viktor Miladinov of Macedonia and Rafal Szwejkowski of Poland presented the flags of their home countries to the college.

METHODIST COLLEGE RECEIVES $100,000 GIFT TO ENDOW PROFESSORSHIP IN REEVES SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Methodist College has received an anonymous gift of $100,000 to establish an endowed professorship in the Charles M. Reeves School of Business. The donor is a local businessman who is committed to private higher education.

A committee made up of the college president, the vice president for academic affairs, and the director of the Reeves School of Business will select a current member of the business faculty to fill the professorship, based on proposals submitted by eligible business faculty. The first recipient will be chosen next spring for a Fall 1998 appointment. There are currently 14 full-time faculty members teaching in the Reeves School.

“I believe this gift will enhance our program considerably,” said Joe Doll, director of the Reeves School. “One-half of the annual earnings from the gift will be used for a salary supplement for the professor and one-half will be used for programming, teaching materials, or professional development. “

FAYETTEVILLE MAN BEQUEATHS $500,000 TO METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Methodist College was recently advised of a $500,000 bequest from the estate of Louis D. Thomas, a Fayetteville resident who died April 18 at the age of 84.

In his will, Mr. Thomas stipulated that his gift to Methodist College be used to create the Louis D. and Bernadine Thomas Scholarship Fund. Mr. Thomas's wife Bernadine died in 1990. The former owner of Supply Electric Co., Mr. Thomas was a United Methodist who was reportedly impressed by the growth and progress which have occurred at the College over the last decade.

"Bequests like this are the keys to building our endowment," said Jay Dowd, Methodist's vice president for institutional advancement. "Mr. Thomas's gift is another example of the commitment by residents of our community to the mission and existence of Methodist College."

The Thomas bequest is the largest Methodist College has received since B. F. Stone, a pharmacist from Elizabethtown, bequeathed $530,000 to the College in 1995.

METHODIST COLLEGE SEEKS TEACHER EDUCATION SCHOLARS

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—The Methodist College Teacher Education Research Institute is now accepting applications for its second class of Teacher Education Scholars. Persons selected will participate in a public forum Tuesday, Aug. 5, do follow-up research, and publish their findings in a special issue of the North Carolina Journal of Education.

Applicants must be currently employed as teacher educators and have a desire to pursue research in the area of teacher education for the purpose of publishing. They should also be willing to serve as change agents in confronting current problems and issues affecting school teachers and those who train them.

The scholars selected will be honored at an awards luncheon Aug. 5, sponsored by the college. Winners will be notified by July 15. Applications can be secured by phoning Mrs. Jaunita Heyward (910) 630-7051 or Dr. Elizabeth Belford (910) 630-7054. The deadline for applying is June 28.

The Aug. 5 forum or "think-tank" will be free and open to the public. Persons from all walks of life will be invited to participate in discussions about the professional preparation of teachers and ways to ensure safe, high quality, and morally-sponsored education.

Teachers will have an opportunity to receive two continuing education units by attending the forum and two follow-up sessions. There is a $35 fee for processing the paperwork needed to obtain the two C.E.U.'s of teacher certification renewal credit.
