GEORGE BLANC NAMED VICE PRESIDENT OF STUDENT LIFE AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Methodist College has promoted George Blanc, director of international programs, to vice president of student life and dean of students, effective Jan. 15, 2001.

College President M. Elton Hendricks announced Blanc's appointment Dec. 21. He will replace Mrs. Kim Dowd, who recently resigned. Mrs. Dowd had served as dean of students since July 1, 1997; she came to Methodist as assistant dean for academic services in 1995.

Blanc joined the Methodist College staff in the summer of 1998 as the director of international programs. He is 55. He served 27 1/2 years in the U.S. Army, attaining the rank of colonel.

"George Blanc has done an outstanding job working with our international students," said President Hendricks. "He has the skills and experience to build on what is already an excellent student life program. We are indebted to Kim Dowd for her outstanding work at Methodist over the last five years, first as director of our new student orientation program and then as dean of students."

The new dean of students holds a B.A. in political science from St. Mary's University in San Antonio, Texas, and is a graduate of the Army War College in Carlisle, PA. A native of Mexico, he grew up in San Antonio and became an American citizen at the age of 18. Blanc and his wife Carole, a registered nurse, are the parents of two grown daughters and have lived in Fayetteville for several years.

Blanc said he felt "honored and privileged" to have the opportunity to serve Methodist as dean of students. "Our College has one of the most active and successful student life programs in the state," he said, "and my intention is to build on past successes in an effort to provide even better service to our students in the future."

METHODIST COLLEGE TO OBSERVE MARTIN LUTHER KING JR.'s BIRTHDAY

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Methodist College will observe Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday with several events next week.

The Student Life Office will sponsor a freedom march on campus Monday, Jan. 15 at 7 p.m. The march will begin and end at Davis Memorial Library.

A 1995 feature film entitled Higher Learning will be shown Tuesday, Jan. 16 at 8 p.m. in the Berns Student Center. The film is about a group of college students from diverse racial and social backgrounds and how they learn to get along. A group discussion of issues raised in the film will follow the screening.

Dr. Willie Jennings of Duke Divinity School will discuss Dr. King's legacy at the College's weekly chapel service Wednesday, Jan. 17 at 11 a.m. in Hensdale Chapel.

The College will offer van transportation to the communitywide prayer breakfast Monday morning, Jan. 15. For more information about Methodist's MLK observance, contact William Walker, assistant dean for student services, at (910) 630-7030.

FOUNDATION AWARDS GRANT FOR LEADERSHIP TRAINING CENTER AT METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Cumberland Community Foundation, Inc. has awarded Methodist College's Lura S. Tally Center for Leadership Development a $4,500 grant to establish a leadership training facility that will serve the greater Fayetteville area.

The Center will operate from a seminar-style classroom and an adjacent office suite for Dr. Suzan Cheek, director of the Tally Center, and Dr. Andrew Ziegler, coordinator. It is located on the lower level of the Trustees Classroom Building. The CCF grant covered one-third of the cost of the renovations and new furnishings; the Tally Center and its Advisory Board raised the balance.

"Development of new leaders is critical to the quality of life here," said Mary Holmes, executive director of the Cumberland Community Foundation. "I see this center serving as a catalyst for leadership development in the community."

"We are grateful to Cumberland Community Foundation and our Advisory Board for their support of this project," said Dr. Suzan Cheek. "We are excited about our new multimedia training area and look forward to providing leadership workshops tailor-made to the needs of mid-level supervisors in local businesses, public agencies, and nonprofit organizations. We plan to send information about the Leadership Center and its services to businesses, government agencies, and civic groups throughout Cumberland County."

Dr. Cheek and Dr. Ziegler will be the lead instructors for both "basic" and "advanced" workshops, assisted by other College faculty and community experts as needed. In the last two years, Cheek and Ziegler have provided leadership training for the Fayetteville Chamber of Commerce and the N. C. Association of Symphony Orchestras under the auspices of the Tally Center.

The Center will offer a menu of 12 instructional “modules” from which local organizations will build the specific content for the leadership training they need. The modules feature one to four hours of instruction and cover topics such as: The Myers-Briggs Personality Type Indicator, How to Build and Lead a Team, Becoming an Effective Planner, and How to Solve Problems.

A brochure describing the Center’s public offerings is now available to anyone interested in leadership training workshops. For more information about leadership training available through the Tally Center, contact Dr. Suzan Cheek at (910) 630-7070 or Dr. Andrew Ziegler at (910) 630-7488.

Leadership Training

Are good leaders born or made? We believe leadership can be learned, and our high quality Executive Leadership Workshops reflect that precept.

Designed for lower and mid-level supervisors, these reasonably priced workshops give emerging leaders the skills they need to meet challenges, inspire others, and boost productivity.

Businesses, public agencies, nonprofits, and others can select from a menu of modules to build the leadership training for their specific needs.

TALLY FORUM TO EXAMINE ETHICAL IMPLICATIONS OF NEW TECHNOLOGIES

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—What ethical principles should be used to judge the moral character of new technologies?

Methodist College's sixth annual Tally Leadership Forum will seek answers to that question Feb. 19-20, 2001. The theme for this year's event is "Leaders, Ethics, and the Technology Revolution." The 2001 forum will address issues such as genetic reproduction, the digital divide, threats to individual privacy, and the social and moral implications of new technologies.

Presented by Methodist's Lura S. Tally Center for Leadership Development, the forum features an opening convocation with two keynote speakers, followed the next day by a series of student roundtable discussions. The convocation is set for 11 a.m. Feb. 19 in Reeves Auditorium; it is free and open to the public.

Dr. Jane Smith Patterson, senior advisor to Gov. Jim Hunt for science and technology, and the Reverend Bruce E. Stanley, Duke University Divinity School's director of field education, are the keynote speakers for the opening convocation. Dr. Smith will discuss the role of government in the technology revolution, and Rev. Stanley will address the need for ethical guideposts to deal with emerging technologies.

Dr. Patterson is an expert on information technology infrastructure and its impact on the operations of government, industry and education. She developed and implemented the North Carolina Information Highway and has consulted with more than 20 countries and 38 states on the design and operation of information networks.

After serving as secretary of administration during Gov. Hunt's first two terms, she was a vice-president of ITT Corp.'s Network Systems Group for six years. She has published articles and chapters of books on information infrastructure policy and applications in Japan, England, and the United States. Dr. Patterson attended UNC-Chapel Hill, Harvard University and N.C. State University.

The Rev. Bruce Stanley participated in last year's Tally Leadership Forum, serving on a panel that examined "America's Role in the World." At that time he was director of missions and evangelism for the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church. In that position he gained extensive overseas experience with humanitarian relief efforts in the Third World.

A native of Grafton, West Virginia, Stanley received an undergraduate degree in history from West Virginia University in 1977 and a Master of Divinity from Harvard University in 1981. He was ordained by the United Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. in 1982 and transferred credentials to the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church in 1985. He held ministerial appointments at four churches before joining the Bishop's Cabinet as director of missions and evangelism.

The second day of the Tally Leadership Forum, Feb. 20, will be devoted to student roundtable discussions sponsored by various academic departments at Methodist. These will be held in the Alumni Dining Room of the Berns Student Center. M.C. students will be able to register in advance for two roundtable discussions lasting an hour and a half. Two to three tables of eight to twelve students will discuss a specific question. Both morning and afternoon sessions are planned.

The four general topics and questions to be discussed at the roundtables are: Topic 1,

CHRIS CAMMACK CHAIRS LOYALTY DAY FUND DRIVE FOR METHODIST COLLEGE

FAYETTEVILLE, NC—Chris Cammack, president of Carpenter, Cammack & Associates, Inc., will chair the 2001 Loyalty Day Campaign for Methodist College.

On Loyalty Day—Tuesday, Feb. 6—Cammack will lead the directors of the Methodist College Foundation and a team of local volunteers as they seek to raise $100,000 in the Fayetteville community. This year's theme is "A Day of Support: A Lifetime of Difference." All gifts will be applied to the College's operating budget.

"Methodist College has been a symbol of growth and progress in this community since its inception," said Cammack, "and continues to bring a variety of cultural activities, educational symposiums and athletic events to Cumberland County. I have pledged to support the 2001 Loyalty Day Campaign, and I urge my fellow citizens to do likewise, remembering that our support will make a lifetime of difference for the students of Methodist College."

Chris Cammack is a Certified Insurance Counselor specializing in large commercial accounts throughout the state. He grew up in Fayetteville and was a star baseball player at Terry Sanford High School and at NC State University. In 1971, he received a B.S. in Economics from NC State and joined Aetna Casualty and Surety Co. in Charlotte. He returned to Fayetteville in 1985 and was a partner in the Tomlinson agency before founding Carpenter, Cammack & Associates, Inc. in 1992.
