Kathy Woltz Assumes New Position

Kathy Woltz '73 is the new Director of Career Placement and Counseling at Methodist.

The former Director of Residential Life has been charged with organizing the college's first full-time Guidance and Placement Office. She will continue to work under Vice President for Student Affairs Mike Safley. Her office is located in the south wing of the Student Union.

President Hendricks decided in July that the college needed a full-time Placement and Counseling Director and that Kathy's training and experience made her a logical choice for the job. With an M.A. in counseling from Appalachian State University, eight years' experience as a counselor at Fayetteville Tech, and an undergraduate degree in sociology, she has all the requisite qualifications.

In her new position, Kathy will assist students in the areas of job placement, career planning, and individual counseling. Her principal objectives are: 1) To establish a testing (and testing referral) center, 2) To bring recruiters from major businesses, corporations, and school systems to the campus, 3) To establish a collection of graduate school catalogs and career-oriented publications, 4) To offer workshops in resume writing and job interview skills (conducted by outside specialists), 5) To act as a referral agent for the college's mental health assistance program, 6) To develop a strong counseling and peer tutoring program.

After a year of working closely with residential students, Kathy Woltz is acutely aware of some of the problems they face. For women students, she believes "social pressure" and a "shift in career interest toward male-dominated jobs" are the principal challenges. "For the men, it's pressure to produce good grades and get a good job," she added.

The MC alumna has noticed that current students are "very pragmatic" in choosing a career. "They know where the job opportunities are," she said. Today's students are money-minded, but their parents are the same.

She decries a lagging interest in the "helping professions." "In the 1960's, social work and teaching were popular careers," she noted. "Today everyone wants to become an entrepreneur and get rich."

The new placement director feels there is a lot of apathy among today's college students, including those at Methodist. "We need to raise their consciousness," she said,

Kathy Woltz '73

"and show them the importance of being a well-rounded person. I want them to care about more than their paycheck."

This year more than last, Kathy has noticed that most Methodist College students are happy, that most are being challenged, and that most are "blossoming" in the small college atmosphere. "I hear very few complaints about the faculty," she said. "Many feel challenged. Our resident advisers are enforcing closed study (Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights from 7:30-10 P.M.) for dorm students. Our peer tutors are available to help day students five afternoons a week and dorm students two nights a week."

All students, particular seniors, are being encouraged to take advantage of the new Career Placement and Counseling Office. The director is confident that she can help students realize their career objectives. "An impressive resume is only part of what it takes to land a good job," she noted. "Part-time work experience and internships help a lot. Patience and persistence are also important. A senior came in recently and was in panic because he had sent out eight resumes and had not gotten an interview. I said eight wasn't enough."

While Kathy is known to many MC alumni as a "liberal do gooder," she wears that label proudly. She is clearly proud to be in a "helping profession," proud to be a Methodist graduate, and proud of the people Methodist sends forth to "do good in the world."

West German Consul General Speaks At Methodist

Alexander von Schmeling, Consul General of the Federal Republic of Germany, visited Methodist October 21. His visit was arranged by Associate Professor of German Inge Dent, in observance of German-American Month.*

Von Schmeling is one of the ten consuls general representing West Germany in the United States. Based in Atlanta, he is responsible for promoting the cultural and business interests of his country in the southeastern U.S. His office also issues West German passports and visas.

Born in Potsdam in 1926, von Schmeling was a lieutenant in the German army during World War II. After receiving a law degree in 1955, he became a career diplomat. He is married and has three sons and a daughter. He has held consular positions in Luxembourg, Belgium, India, Malaysia, Portugal, and Italy. He was Consul General to Washington, D.C. and the states of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware from 1974-79. In May, 1985 he assumed his current post of Consul General to the Southeastern United States.

At a convocation attended by 140 Methodist College students, faculty and other interested persons, von Schmeling said his generation is "grateful that Americans liberated us from the Nazi dictatorship during World War II and have protected us since from Communist domination."

The West German official said his countrymen don't agree with America on everything, but are loyal allies nonetheless. "Though the Marshall Plan," said von Schmeling, "the Americans and the British helped us with re-education and we were able to build a democratic government." He said the younger generation in West Germany is not as pro-American "because they haven't had the same experience as us."

During a question-answer period, von Schmeling said American troops are still needed in West Germany to prevent Soviet aggression. "Who knows how long Gorbachev will last? he asked. The Soviet threat is sleeping, but could awaken."

von Schmeling declined to comment on the U.S. presidential candidates, expect to say that "the Republican concept on trade is more favorable to us."

Asked if he felt a Unified Common Market will become a reality in Europe by 1992, von Schmeling answered in the affirmative. He said the primary aims of the UCM are the free flow of capital and labor and standardization of laws and industrial norms, not the establishment of a protectionist wall to keep out U.S. exports.

Asked to compare educational opportunities in West Germany to those in America, von Schmeling said, "Your university system is one of the best in the world. But your high schools are not. We do a better job of professional training. In our country, you must stay in school until the age of 18."

In her welcoming remarks, Mrs. Dent noted that the first German immigrants came to America in 1683 (on a ship called the Concorde) and that one in six Americans is of German descent.*

College Breaks Ground for PAC

An official groundbreaking ceremony for Methodist's new Physical Activities Center was held Saturday, October 8. (See photo, page 12.)

Fifteen persons, representing the college's various constituencies, turned the earth with green and gold shovels as several hundred spectators watched. The weather was cool but sunny.

Site preparation for the $3.2 million structure began in August. By the last week in October, the steel reinforced footings and retaining wall on the lower level had begun to take shape.

Construction of the 46,600-square-foot building will take 16-18 months, with completion expected in January or February, 1990.

Registrar's Office Releases Fall Enrollment Data

Enrollment at Methodist College topped 1,500 students this fall, setting a new record.

As of October 1, the Registrar's Office reported a total head count of 1,502 students — 955 in the regular day program and 547 in the Evening College.

Total enrollment increased six percent over last year. The regular day program enrolled 14 percent more students than last fall. The number of students living on campus increased 23 percent over last year's opening figure.

Full-time students total 1,329. Of that number, 440 (32 percent) are residential students and 889 (68 percent) are commuters.

The freshman class — the Class of 1992 — includes 752 full-time equivalent students, another record for the college. Among upperclassmen, the full-time enrollment includes 213 sophomores, 150 juniors, and 208 seniors.

While men outnumber women 260 to 180 in the residence halls, the overall gender ratio is more even. Counting day and evening, full-time and part-time students, the total student population includes 762 males and 740 females.

The college has broadened its geographic representation. Registrar Sam Clark reports that 1,002 students are North Carolina residents and that 500 are from other states, U.S. territories, or foreign countries. Within North Carolina, 55 of 100 counties are represented. The college draws 798 students from its home county of Cumberland.

Methodist counts 410 out-of-state students who hail from 41 states plus the District of Columbia and 10 foreign countries. The states with the largest representation are: Florida-71, Virginia-51, Pennsylvania-48, New York-44, and Ohio-37.

Methodist Welcomes Record Number of Foreign Students

Japan accounts for nine students, followed by Ireland with seven. Other countries are represented as follows: Korea-4; Sierra Leone-2; El Salvador-3; Zimbabwe, China, England, Thailand, Vietnam, Puerto Rico, Italy, West Germany, Canada, and the Bahamas - one each.

An International Students Association recently organized on campus has 23 members. Fynda Fillie-Faboe of Sierra Leone is the president and Dr. Arnal Guzman, assistant professor of Spanish, is the adviser.

While Methodist has always had an international faculty—with Cuban, Czech, Chinese, German, and Indian professors—international students have never been recruited in large numbers. Now that's changing.

From 1978-1980, Methodist hosted a foreign student program administered by the East-West Foundation. That program brought 15-200 foreign students to the campus each summer; 10-15 of those became full-time students at Methodist. After 1980, the foundation's Summer Language Institute moved to another college, but Methodist has continued to welcome East-West students and currently has eight students through this program.

Because of its affiliation with the United Methodist Church, Methodist does have an international presence of sorts. Given its relative youth as colleges go and the fact it has not been marketed abroad, Methodist has had to rely on alumni, friends, and exchange groups for foreign students.

Having an international sport like soccer has given Methodist something familiar to sell abroad. In recent years, the men's and women's soccer coaches have recruited at least one-third of the foreign students enrolled at Methodist. Five Irishmen and two Irish lassies wore green and gold on the MC soccer field this fall. The soccer teams also claimed players from: England, El Salvador, and Puerto Rico.

Alan Dawson, the men's soccer coach, is from Belfast, Northern Ireland; his assistant Phil Stephenson is from England. Joe Pereira, the women's coach, is Portuguese.

Methodist's proximity to Fort Bragg and Pope Air Force Base has also been a factor in the recruitment of foreign students. As more military personnel have married or adopted foreigners and brought them to America, Fayetteville has become an international city. Because of its good working relationship with the military (the college has offices at both military bases) and its good reputation in this area, Methodist has attracted a large number of military spouses and dependents.

The international flag collection is a visible symbol of the fact that Methodist College, like America, is a melting pot where people of diverse ethnic and cultural backgrounds can pursue their dreams and learn from each other. In May, 1985, the college began the custom of having each international student present the flag of his home country at graduation. Today, the college owns the flags of 18 foreign countries, which are carried in all academic processions.

*For the purposes of this article, a foreign student is one who lives abroad. An international student is one who immigrated to this country since birth. Because MC registration forms identify only "non resident aliens," it is not possible at this time to count all international students.

International Students Enjoy Methodist

Mike D'Arcy, senior history major from Naas, Ireland—"I like the homey atmosphere. My professors have been very good to me." (Last year's S.G.A. president would like to attend graduate school at Appalachian State U.)

Fynda Fillie-Faboe, junior communications/business major from Sierra Leone—"I am impressed by the sports programs. Accounting is my favorite class; Mr. Swing has been very helpful."

Anne Thorpe, sophomore from Ireland—"My favorite classes are geography, biology, and German—they are all interesting and the teachers are excellent."

Paddy Gibney, freshman from Ireland—"My favorite class is U. S. Government. I enjoy learning how this great country is run and controlled. All my teachers are friendly, very fair, and helpful."

Cynthia Ruwende, junior from Zimbabwe—"Methodist is large enough to allow you to grow in all ways possible, but small enough to permit you to maintain your identity."

Philippa Beneby, sophomore from the Bahamas—"I like the friendly, Christian people. The students, black and white, get along well with each other. My favorite classes are psychology and music."

Trustees Authorize Board Of Visitors

The Methodist College Board of Trustees recently authorized the creation of a board of visitors consisting of 30 plus members.

The purpose of the board, as stated in the constitution and by-laws, is to "provide a means by which a broad range of friends of the college can assist in fulfilling its mission of promoting academic excellence and extending the influence of science, art, and Christian culture."

Members will be nominated by the college president and appointed by the board of trustees. They will serve staggered terms of four years' duration. Dr. Elton Hendricks, president of Methodist College, is beginning the process of inviting nominees to serve on the board. He said the complete board of visitors should be in place by the summer of 1989.

Dr. Hendricks said he would like the board of visitors to "suggest ways to improve our quality, visibility, and image." He said he will nominate persons from a wide-ranging geographic area "whose wisdom, experience, and stature in the community" would help the college to move forward.

The board of visitors will hold two regular meetings annually — one in the fall and one in the spring. The board will also elect a slate of officers each year — a chairperson, vice-chairperson, and secretary.

Vice President for Development Gene Clayton will serve as college liaison to the board of visitors.

College To Establish ACCLC In '89

Methodist College will launch an innovative program for foreign students next July.

The Atlantic Coast Center for Language and Culture will offer foreign students private tutoring in spoken and written English, escorted travel from their home country to Fayetteville and to other U.S. cities, an American host family and roommate, testing and counseling services, and the opportunity to earn up to 22 units of college credit during three semesters.

Elaine Porter, associate professor of French and chair of the Foreign Language Department at Methodist, wrote the proposal for the center. She said a foreign student who completes the first year should be fluent in English to continue college work, either at Methodist or at another institution.

Jane W. Cherry of Fayetteville will serve as director of the center, effective July 1, 1989. A public school guidance counselor, Mrs. Cherry has extensive experience working with international students and holds a master's degree in history from George Washington University. She and her husband, N.C. District Court Judge Sol Cherry have opened their home to more than 100 foreign students, half of whom have enrolled at Methodist.

The Atlantic Coast Center has adopted the motto "A Center for Language — A Place For Friendship." Foreign applicants must be high school or college graduates, have studied English successfully, have three references from the high school or college attended, and be interviewed by a member of the center staff. The cost for one year will be $25,000, payable in three installments.

Mrs. Cherry projects that the Atlantic Coast Center for Language and Culture will enroll 22-25 students during its first year, 1989-90. Mrs. Masumi Matsumura, a teacher of English in Japan, is acting as consultant for the center and has already begun marketing the program in Japan.

Ernie Pitts, a senior communications major, mans camera in new TV studio.

TV Production Now Possible

Methodist's fledgling communications program received a boost this fall with the addition of a television production studio in T-243.

The studio includes a basic set with overhead lighting, a color camera, and a small control room with video monitors, sound and light boards, and videotaping equipment. Courses in "Basic Broadcast Electronics" and "Production" will be taught there.

The Methodist College Maintenance Department performed most of the electrical and carpentry work needed to convert the classroom into a studio. Communications students have already produced a few programs, including a talk show with Mike Saffley and Walt Swing as guests.

"We cannot ignore the place of electronic media in our age," said Dr. Alex Nakireru, assistant professor of communications. "Acquiring a TV studio and communications lab has been a goal since I came here two years ago." With a Ph.D. in instructional television and an M.S. degree in journalism from Ohio University, he is confident he can build a solid communications program at Methodist.

Dr. Nakireru believes the studio will do more than give communications/mass media majors hands-on experience. He said it should give the four-year-old program new credibility and help attract students who have a career interest in broadcast journalism.

College Opens 29th Year With Many New Faces

Dr. Carroll Jones' Textbook Published In Illinois

Dr. Carroll J. Jones, associate professor of education and chair of the Education Department at Methodist College, has written a college textbook for use in preparing teachers of handicapped pre-school children.

Dr. Jones came to Methodist this fall from Fayetteville State University. A native of Kansas, she holds a B.A. degree in Elementary Education and an M.Ed. degree in Reading from the University of Arizona. She earned her Ph.D in Special Education Administration from Kansas State University.

Designed as a methods text for graduate students, the book is entitled Evaluation and Educational Programming of Deaf-Blind/ Severely Multihandicapped Students (Sensorimotor Stage). It is designed to help the teachers of handicapped pre-school children prepare an individual education plan for each student. The book is being published by Charles C. Thomas of Springfield, Illinois.

Dr. Jones says her text is based on actual case studies of deaf-blind children and research data collected when she chaired a regional diagnostic team in St. Louis in 1985. The eight-member team was charged with developing multidisciplinary student evaluation procedures for the federal government and the state of Missouri.

As a result of her experience in St. Louis, Dr. Jones decided there was a need to "organize information in an area where there is very little," namely the teaching of handicapped children of pre-school age.

Each chapter in the book presents detailed procedures for interpreting medical assessments, assessing the developmental skill level of the handicapped student in comparison to the normal student, designing appropriate educational services, and monitoring the educational progress of the student.

While Methodist does not currently offer a concentration in early childhood education, Dr. Jones notes, "I hope to build our learning disabilities program and add an early childhood special education program." By 1990, public school units will be required by law to serve handicapped children of pre-school age.

Dr. Jones has presented her research findings at major educational conferences in Denver, Boston, and Vancouver.

Professional Activities Reported In Faculty Bulletin

Mr. Cliff Wells, '82, the manager of Reeves Auditorium, received a special recognition pen from the United Methodist Women at their Annual Meeting on September 30. The gift was presented as a symbol of appreciation for the many helpful deeds and creative ideas he has given to the United Methodist Women of the Conference at their meetings on the Methodist College campus.

On October 10, Mr. Parker Wilson spoke on Ramesses II at the Cumberland County Public Library. [The library called October 13 to say that over 160 people attended, the largest turnout ever, and asked to be notified when the presentation is made on campus: people have been calling the library to inquire about another opportunity to hear Mr. Wilson!]

Dr. Collins presented "Twentieth-Century Interpretations of John Wesley's Aldersgate Experience: Coherence or Confusion?" November 4-5 at a conference of the Wesleyan Theological Society on the campus of Point Loma Nazarene College in San Diego.

Dr. Sill's review of William Foote Whyte and Kathleen King Whyte's Making Mondragon: The Growth and Dynamics of the Worker Cooperative Complex (Ithaca: ILR Press, 1988) will be published in Sociological Inquiry.

Drs. Kimball and Sadler are serving as mentors for women scholars through a special program of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association.

On October 7, Professors Murray, Pulliam, and Wilson attended the Association of North Carolina Historians in Williamston. Mr. Pulliam was elected to the Nominating Committee of the association. Dr. Murray attended a workshop on the use of computers in the teaching of history.

October 11, Dr. Barnes presented a slide presentation, "America the Beautiful," to the Daughters of the American Revolution at Highland Country Club. The emphasis was on conservation of resources and showed national and state parks as well as the Pauline Longest Nature Trail.

Dr. Kimball is Secretary of the Women's Caucus of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association.

Dr. Sadler's keynote address, "Computers and the College Curriculum," will be published in the Proceedings of the Second Annual Conference on Integrating Computing into the Curriculum.

At the Second Annual Southeastern Small College Computing Conference November 18-19, Methodist College will have three representatives. Dr. Cheek is presenting a paper, "Searching for Classroom Software"; Drs. Ward and Sadler are giving a tutorial on "Setting Up and Running a Computer-Assisted Composition Laboratory." The Methodist College Press is again publishing the proceedings, edited by Dr. Sadler.

Mrs. Diane Guthrie has received a $3500 assistantship to continue work on her doctorate in music at the University of North Carolina-Greensboro.

Ms. Rose Britton, a new Assistant Professor of Accounting in the Reeves School of Business, reviewed papers and chaired a session on "Teaching Innovation" for a conference of the International Business Schools Computer Users Group July 26-29 at Miami University of Ohio.

This summer, Dr. Perkins presented a paper, "Applying Hypertext to Studying the History of Technology," at the Bowdoin College conference on "Teaching with Hypertext."

Mrs. Sautter is coordinating Library Services until a replacement is found for Mrs. Womack.

Dr. Todd and Mrs. Sarah Woerner, former members of our faculty, had a son born on June 14.

Mrs. Pat Jones attended a Research Institute for North Carolina Mathematics and Science Education Researchers at North Carolina State University in May.

Dr. Kimball's article on E. Phillips Oppenheim will be published in Salem Press's Critical Survey of Detective Fiction.

Dr. Narendra Singh was awarded a $6,000 stipend to participate in a summer institute in analytical chemistry at the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. Dr. Kimball was at Johns Hopkins this summer for a National Endowment for the Humanities Institute.

Dr. Jaeger has been appointed a Consulting Reader for Psychological Reports and Perceptual and Motor Skills.

Dr. Sadler will keynote the Second Annual Conference on Computing in Small Kentucky Colleges and Universities on October 1 and will keynote a conference for all of the faculty of junior and community colleges and technical institutes in the state of Alabama on November 21.

Dr. Hope, former Director of the Tennis Management Program, received the Region II Arthur Ashe Community Service Award from the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association and the United States Tennis Association.

Ms. Shelia D. Yates-Tanouye is Director of ACES and Coordinator of the Evening College.

Mrs. Pat Jones is Acting Chair of the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science.

Ms. Weeks will perform a Mozart concerto with the Fayetteville Symphony in November.

Dr. Perkins is editor of the newsletter of the Fayetteville Macintosh Users Group, FMUG News.

Dr. Peyrouse was our nominee for an Arts Service Award from the Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County this summer.

Mrs. Porter received a "Merci Beaucoup" plaque from the Cumberland County Schools for her work with the Poetry Declaration Contest last April.

Room 245 of the Trustees' Building has been remodeled as a Communications Laboratory and TV studio.

Dr. Kimball's review of Richard Wright's Act of Tragedy will be published in the November issue of the South Atlantic Review.

October 28-30 in Chicago, Dr. Knott will present a paper, "Education for Liturgy: The Pastor's Role," at the annual meeting of the Association of Professors and Researchers in Religious Education.

October 6-7, Mrs. Porter, Chair of the Teacher Education Committee, attended the state-wide committee meeting for Strengthening Teacher Education Programs.

Vice-President for Student Affairs Safley attended workshops this summer in Tennessee, Oklahoma, and Ohio.

On October 1, Mr. Porter and students Ronald Campbell and Steve Creech participated in an all-day Vocal Workshop for high school singers at Fayetteville State University jointly sponsored by the Departments of Music of Fayetteville State and Methodist

Ms. Foti-Soublét has been invited by the State Department of Public Instruction to serve on the Visual Arts Committee for the Basic Education Program.

Dr. Kimball's article, "The 'Gentle Insurrections' of Doris Betts' Short Fiction," has been accepted for presentation at the Philological Association of the Carolinas, to be held at Meredith College February 23-25.

Dr. Ciesielski made three presentations ("The Space of Density Continuous Functions," "Continuity Versus Density Continuity," and "Differentiability and Density Continuity") at the annual meeting of the American Mathematical Society at the University of Kansas-Lawrence October 28-29.

Three Methodist faculty will participate in a session on Chester Himes, chaired by Dr. Kimball, at the Popular/American Culture Conference in St. Louis April 5-8. The following papers will be presented:

The Reverend Mr. Green has been accepted in the Doctor of Ministry program at Emory University.

Field Achievement Test was 58; the national mean score was 48.7. Based on the total score, our students ranked from the 57th to the 94th percentiles. The test had three sub-scores, and the Methodist students performed especially well on the Organismal Biology component: they ranked from the 54th to the 99th percentile. The only student taking the Chemistry test scored 52, with the national mean at 43.7.

Mr. Porter reports that our scores on the Major Field Achievement Test in Music were 69, 60, and 43, with the national average at 42.5.

Dr. Sill will present a paper, "Utopian Group Marriage in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries: Oneida Community and Kerista Commune," at the annual meeting of the National Historic Communal Societies Association in Old Salem October 7-8.

The presentation that Dr. Carroll Jones made at the October Canadian Symposium on Issues Concerning Physically Handicapped Individuals will be published in the Division for Physically Handicapped Journal.

Dr. Jaeger is very proud of the results of the senior comprehensive examination (designed by the Educational Testing Service to help departments assess their curriculum and the progress of their students) taken by the psychology majors last spring. The national average was 50.5; our four students scored 67, 55, 50, and 49—and three of them were only juniors!

Dr. Christian was received as an Affiliate Member of the North Carolina Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church in June. He retains full membership in the Northern New Jersey Annual Conference.

Drs. Kimball and Sadler have been invited by the North Carolina Literary and Historical Society to make presentations in September, 1989, on Janet Schaw's Journal of a Lady of Quality (1774-76) and William Byrd's History of the Dividing Line betwixt Virginia and North Carolina (1728), respectively.

Dr. Cheek is a new Board member of the Fayetteville Museum of Art. She also serves on the Fayetteville Appearance Commission, the Fayetteville-Cumberland County Bicentennial Committee, and the United Way Planning Board.

Methodist College Theatre Angels Needed

In the theatre, the term "angel" refers to a person who supports the theatre with contributions. We need "angels" to help develop our theatre program further at Methodist College. We need furniture, clothes, and items to establish times and locales, as well as money to buy such things as sewing machines, materials, and tools for set construction, make-up, scripts, and royalties. Please be an angel and help us. Just call 488-7110, Extension 212, and tell us what you have to give us and when Alpha Psi Omega can pick it up. To show our gratitude, we will publicly proclaim you an angel in our programs this year.

*To book a performance for your group, please contact: Dr. Jack Peyrouse, Chairman of the Department of Theatre and Speech, 919-488-7110, Extension 212.

Lambda Chi Alpha Elects Officers

The Lambda Chi Alpha Association of the Sigma Theta/Methodist College Chapter held its annual meeting and elections October 8. Elected to serve as directors and officers of the association were: Randy Egsegian, president; Gil Wise, vice president; Gene Blount, treasurer; Tom Holland, secretary; Mamoru "Boots" Kubota, director; and Christopher Perry, director.

In other business, the association heard reports from the undergraduate chapter, internal committees, and the Lambda Chi Alpha Endowed Scholarship at Methodist College. This is the third consecutive year that the endowment has awarded this scholarship to help a Methodist College student continue his studies.

Lambda Chi Alpha is an international fraternity boasting the third largest membership in the Greek world. Its high standards and its positions on hazing and alcohol have made it a leader in the fraternity world.

On a local basis, Lambda Chi Alpha alumni support Methodist College by maintaining a chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha on the college campus, through pledges of almost $12,000.00 to the Capital Campaign, and by the individual achievements of brothers in the business world, graduate programs at Duke, UNC, East Carolina, the ministry of the United Methodist Church, and faculty/staff positions at Methodist College and other educational institutions around the nation.

College Honors Local Historian, 39 Summer Grads

Methodist College awarded 40 degrees to 39 persons at its 15th summer commencement August 26.

Rev. Wallace Kirby, Superintendent of the Durham District, North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church, urged members of the graduating class to emulate there character traits attributed to Jesus.

Dr. Kirby said Jesus: 1) had the courage to speak his convictions, 2) stuck by his principles, and 3) retained his integrity. He urged class members to seek the type of fame secured through steadfast pursuit of worthy goals.

The Friday afternoon commencement included two special presentations.

May, 1988 graduate Robert Graham presented the flag of India, his native country, to College President Elton Hendricks, continuing a tradition begun in May, 1985.

President Hendricks conferred an honorary Doctor of Letters degree on Mary Lynn

Alumni Notes

During a general meeting of the alumni at the annual banquet on October 8, 1988, two constitutional amendments were passed unanimously by the alumni body.

The first allowed the Nominating Committee to establish the number of Board of Director positions according to class groupings. Each seat shall not exceed a six-year span.

The second amendment states that the Nominating Committee shall nominate one candidate for each vacancy on the Board of Directors as a result of names submitted for consideration through an MC Today ad in the fall. Names must be submitted by the first weekend in January. The Nominating Committee will meet immediately following this deadline and recommend one candidate for each board seat to be presented to the Alumni Board Members. The Board will vote on the slate of candidates at their January meeting. Upon a vote of acceptance, the board members will take office in July.

Lynn Byrd '72 Alumna Director

A top priority for the Alumni Director during the coming months (or years!) will be to update records, correct records, and find lost alumni. This will be a long process and we need you to be patient with mistakes from over the years and try to help us to correct the mistakes. If you know of problems or if you know some alumni whom we are not reaching, please notify our office. We're trying.

January 1, 1989 begins our Loyalty Fund Drive. Please consider seriously your commitment to Methodist. A general mailing will go out at the beginning of the year and the annual phonathon will be held in March. There is tremendous excitement about the leadership role that our alumni are assuming. Let's keep it up!

I heard many of our faculty and administration say after Homecoming that we had more alumni back for the '88 Homecoming than for any other. Some came for the entire weekend and others just popped in for the groundbreaking or games or dinner, but the point is that you came and we were happy to welcome you back.

ATTENTION ALL ALUMNI

I submit the following alumnus/alumna for consideration for a position on the MCAA Board of Directors.

Jerry Wood '64 Is Now A Top School Administrator

Jerry Wood '64 is enthusiastic about every facet of his life. With a refreshing animation, he describes his family, service organizations, and his work and modestly insists that he does not take credit for any advancements made in the school system since he has been an administrator.

A native of Harnett County, North Carolina, Jerry entered Methodist's first Freshman Class after graduating from Pine Forest Sr. High School.

He remembers life at Methodist College at that time as "one big family" with a warm and caring atmosphere which offered the opportunity for a lot of individual attention. Looking back, he recalls the quality of the staff and faculty exemplified by Dr. Fox, Dr. Ott, Dr. Womack and many others. As president of the senior class, Jerry helped to guide an evolving Student Government Association.

Following graduation from Methodist, Jerry taught chemistry at Seventy First Sr. High School and then became assistant principal at the same school while he also assumed the duties of Driver Education Supervisor for the Cumberland County schools.

Meanwhile Jerry continued his education and received his M.ED in Education and Supervision from East Carolina University in 1970 and his Educational Specialist Degree in Public School Administration from the same institution in 1974.

Working his way up in the Cumberland County school system, Jerry became Director of Transportation, Energy Coordinator, Assistant Superintendent for Support Services and is presently Assistant Superintendent for Facilities Management and Transportation.

Jerry is enthusiastic about the Cumberland County school system and "how far we've come" and feels that there is a story to tell about our community.

In 1970, Cumberland County stood on the threshold of the Comprehensive High School Program which involved the completion and opening of Douglas Byrd Sr. High, South View Sr. High, and Pine Forest Sr. High, followed by Westover Sr. High four years later. All of these schools were a result of a 1968 bond issue.

He credits then Governor Terry Sanford for providing the thrust for the increased emphasis on education in North Carolina education. Jerry also remembers Terry Sanford as an imposing figure on the Methodist College campus as first chairman of the board of trustees. But What About the People? written by Sanford, has been a continual reference for Jerry in forming his ideas for education.

Part of Jerry's job depends on severe heat and unsafe snow conditions. Recently we have seen additional days of instruction for children because of fully air-conditioned classrooms. Previously, children were sent home in the early afternoon because of high temperatures and that made transportation and unsupervised homes a concern. Snow and icy conditions can bring Jerry and members of his staff together at 4:00 a.m. to assess the situation.

Jerry's office also supervises safety and security with health officials and safety and security engineers. They provide a liaison with the police and various agencies and oversee security at athletic events, access to schools, cross walk guards, and security within the school building.

Another large responsibility for this assistant superintendent is transportation. Scheduling, training and certification of responsible drivers are all top priorities. Working with Jerry is Phil Mullen, an alumnus of the Class of '74, Superintendent of Transportation.

A recent project called Transportation Information Management Systems (TIMS) computerizes the routing of the children and the school buses. This system, now used by Cumberland County and Durham County, has so impressed the state legislature that 10 more pilot programs are being planned.

"If I didn't think that I was working with the best school system, I would go to the best," said Jerry.

He credits the outstanding leadership of the superintendents who have served Cumberland County with the growth and low turnover of teachers and administrators. He takes special pride in (but carefully says "not credit for") being part of the building of over 40 of the 67 schools in this system.

Jerry stays busy with activities involving Methodist College, church, civic organizations, and professional organizations. Among his many honors, he is particularly proud of receiving NCAEOP, Administrator of the Year for 1988, as a result of a nomination by his staff.

Jerry and Jane, a teacher, have three sons. Jerry, Jr. received an appointment to the Air Force Academy. Jeffrey attends UNC-Chapel Hill and Jimmy is a junior high school student.

Well respected among his peers for his sense of organization and commitment, he obviously feels fulfilled by the responsibilities and accomplishments.

"I appreciate the opportunity to work with a fine school system and to make things better for kids," he said " Good caring teachers make possible a good education."

Basketball Coaches Anticipate A Rebuilding Year

Both Methodist College basketball coaches are in the process of rebuilding their programs and both anticipate improved teams and records for the upcoming season.

"We made great strides with our team last season," stated women's coach Rita Wiggs. "Though the 7-18 final record doesn't seem to indicate progress, we saw many gains in attitude, responsibility and running our offensive and defensive systems. We were young last year and that will be true again. Seven freshmen comprise this team and there are five upperclassmen returning. Kelly Ramsey will give us quickness at the guard position. Junior guards Bindy Lellock and Linda Eberly are two year starters and we will surely count upon their experience and leadership. Sophomores Pauline Carter, Rebecca Cartrette and Nancy Ramsey saw considerable playing time and some starts last season. We will depend upon them a great deal.

Freshmen Shaunna Stamper and Vickie Williams will man the center spot for us. Angie Conrad, Claudia Lucas, Tanya Howell, Kim Moore and Nancy Phillips are the other freshmen on the squad and each of them will be legitimate contenders for a starting position. I am particularly excited about the enthusiasm and hard work ethics of this team and the results we've seen in our pre-season conditioning. The 1988-89 Monarch women's basketball team should prove to be an exciting one to watch and the one that turns the corner for us in re-establishing a winning tradition for Methodist College's women's basketball."

Likewise, Coach Dan Lawrence will depend upon a few returning veterans and lots of new faces to get his season off to a good beginning. "Quinton Harshaw was our second leading scorer and third in rebounding last year," said Coach Lawrence. "Jim O'Malley had a very good freshman year, but now has a broken thumb that required surgery. This injury may slow him initially, but we're hoping he'll be full speed by second semester. I expect Quinton and Jim to contribute heavily at the two and three spots.

"Last year's leading scorer and second leading rebounder, Cedric Brickey, will join the team in January and will help us a great deal at the post and power forward position. Transfers Jearl Gray and Bill Hartman are likely to compete at the point guard positions. Though it's tough to tell at this point, three of our freshmen should contribute immediately.

Monarchs 1988-89

Mickey Hickman, a 5'10" off-guard from Pennsylvania, and Jason Baker, a 6'1" two guard from Belhaven, NC, averaged 28 points per game in high school. Michael Morgan, a 6'7" center from Parkland High School, will help us inside.

"We should see improvement over last year's record. How successful we are will depend upon how quickly our young players mature. I expect us to be much improved in the guard spots, which was a weakness last year. Our inside game was one of our strengths last year, but we will not be as strong there this season. Our schedule is more in line with a Division III schedule now. We only play one Division I school (Campbell) and have kept some of the NAIA teams. We have a trip to Florida in mid-January and how we're playing during that trip will be a good indication for us."

Lady Monarchs 1988-89

Women's Soccer Team Wins NCAA Regional At Home

For Coach Joe Pereira and his Methodist College women's soccer team, the frustration is finally over. In their third year of postseason NCAA Tournament play, they finally notched two victories and won the NCAA South-Mideast Regional Tournament Championship in the process.

Methodist was the No. 1 seed in this regional event and the host institution. Methodist's initial opponent on Saturday was Dixie Conference rival NC Wesleyan, a team Methodist defeated twice in the regular season. The Monarchs scored twice in the first half, then added a security goal early in the second half. Goalie Becky Burleigh had five saves in recording the shutout. Catherine Byrne scored both first half goals and Anne Thorpe drove in the third goal on an assist from Byrne. Thorpe also had an assist on Byrne's first goal. Methodist had 22 shots on goal as compared to five for the Lady Bishops.

In Sunday's championship action, Methodist faced Kalamazoo College (MI), a 5-4 upset winner in the first round over two-time defending champion Rochester. "We thought they were vulnerable in the back," stated Pereira, "and wanted to really go hard at them in the first half - try to deflate their morale and do as much damage as possible in the first 45 minutes."

Women's Soccer Team

The team responded to Pereira's directions as Thorpe scored off the dribble with only 3:48 gone in the first half and Byrne scored on a quick shot with less than seven minutes remaining in the half to give the Monarchs a 2-0 halftime edge. That lead proved insurmountable for the Hornets; they managed a goal with 19 minutes remaining but could not penetrate the Monarch goal a second time. Kalamazoo had 6 shots on goal and Methodist had 34.

Methodist will now face William Smith College (Geneva, NY) in the Final Four semifinals at William Smith on November 12. The Monarchs enter the semifinal action with a 15-3-1 record.

Volleyball Team Seeded No. 1 In DIAC Tourney

Methodist's volleyball squad clinched the Dixie Conference regular season championship and assured themselves of the top seeding in the DIAC Tournament held November 4-5 at Ferrum College in Ferrum, Virginia. With that seeding came a first round bye. Initial action for the Monarchs occurred at noon on Saturday, November 5, against the winner of the Christopher Newport-Ferrum contest.

Methodist secured the regular season title with a 15-0, 15-8, 15-3 victory against Averett on October 25 to up its conference record to 9-1. The only conference loss was a five-game heart breaker (11-15, 14-16, 15-3, 15-8, 12-15) to Greensboro College on September 21; however, that loss was avenged on October 11 in a 15-11, 15-10, 15-6 Monarch victory.

Seniors Aura and Audra Griffey and junior Billie Farris are the offensive leaders for the Monarchs. Laurie McGinn leads the team in the defensive categories.

Women's Volleyball Team

Methodist Should Be A Contender In Spring Sports

Men's Track

Coach Jeff DeGraw's men's track team finished fourth in last year's NCAA Indoor Nationals, and he is hoping this year's track team can better that finish at the Indoor and Outdoor Nationals. "We will probably be a better middle distance and distance dominated team," predicts DeGraw. "In sprinting, we will be strong in the 400. We didn't lose anyone from last year's outdoor season and have the addition of our freshman class. The women will be a lot stronger in all running events and will have a good blend of experience and youth. The schedule is very competitive and we will have an indoor and outdoor conference meet for the men and women."

Baseball

The baseball squad returns with three pitchers who won twenty-four games between them last season - Richard Seagroves, Rod Jones and Mitch Adams. Coach Tom Austin feels the team will be solid behind the plate with Robby Terry and Tim Fleischman. All-American Mike Brewington returns for his senior campaign. Newcomers Tom Smothers, Mike Rohr and Bill Haliburton have done a fine job in the Fall season. The schedule features the strong Dixie conference teams and a six-day span in which the Monarchs will play four nationally ranked teams - John Hopkins, North Adams, Frostburg and Salisbury (March 16-22).

Women's Golf

The women's golf team will complete in four or five spring tournaments in preparation for the NGCA National Tournament and the defense of three consecutive national titles. Coach Jerry Hogge feels his squad should be very competitive come springtime. "Our freshman have gotten better with each tournament and we have improved each time out." Three-time All-American Joy Bonhurst is the team captain and won two tournaments in the fall. Adding to her experienced play is the play of three time All-American Holly Anderson and last year's national tournament medalist, Kristina Kavanaugh.

Softball

Last year's young softball squad struggled to stay around the .500 won-loss mark, but the dawning of Spring 1989 should bring a renewing of this program. The addition of freshmen pitchers Michelle Karl, Lorie Sanuita and Jolie Kurtz will greatly enhance the Monarch lineup. Returners Linda Eberly, Laurie Kvach and Cheryl

Shaff should provide offensive punch and leadership. "We still be young, says Coach Diane Scherzer, but we should be quicker and a much improved team as compared to last year's squad. We have a tough schedule, but I'm optimistic and excited about the upcoming season."

Men's Golf

Men's golf coach Steve Conley feels that depth will be a definite plus for this year's team. Seven or eight players have really surfaced in the Fall Tournaments in which the Monarchs finished in the top 10 in five of six tournaments. Methodist won its own Invitational and finished second at the UNC-Wilmington Invitational. The team has averages about a 304 in the Fall competition and Conley feels that they will need a 75 average per man to win the National Championship. Returning All-American Trent Gregory and John McCullough should figure prominently in the Monarch Spring. Hank Kline was medalist in the Methodist College Invitational. Rich Mancuso and Rob Pilewski also had quality scores this fall.

Tennis

First year Monarch tennis coach Pete Kendall will face the same components in both his men's and women's tennis teams - an influx of new players with a bit of returning talent. Expectations are high for the women's team. Freshmen will probably fill the top two positions and veterans will command the middle lineup positions. After a third place finish in last year's DIAC Tournament, the Lady Monarchs are hoping to improve upon that showing.

The men's tennis squad has one returning player, two sophomore transfers and five freshmen in its top eight. "Our depth is a good thing for us," predicts Kendall. "This is especially helpful for competitive practices. We are optimistic about being competitive for the conference title."

Storms, O'Neil Triumph At Mason-Dixon

Methodist claimed both the women's and men's individual titles and the men's team took fourth place at the Mason-Dixon Conference Cross Country Championship held Saturday, October 29 at Newport News, Virginia.

Monarch John Storms won the five-mile race in a course record 24:26, shattering the old record by nine seconds and defeating his closest challenger by 8 seconds. Storms bettered his last year's performance (25:23) on this same course by almost a minute. The top fifteen finishers received All-Conference honors. Teammates joining Storms for these accolades were Rodney Rothoff (5th - 25:12) and Wes Wheeler (13th - 24:45).

Methodist's Cathi O'Neil won the women's 5k race with a time of 17:57, just 2 seconds off the course record and 31 seconds better than her own Methodist College record established 2 weeks ago.

Both Storms and O'Neil will be favorites to win in their respective NCAA Regional Meets held at the University of the South on November 12 in Sewanee, Tennessee. Neither has lost to a Division III competitor this season. Storms has only been beaten by four runners all year and they were Division I athletes. O'Neil has finished in the top seven in all her meets this season.

Men's Soccer Team Finishes 12-5-0

Methodist's men's soccer team completed its season with a 6-0 victory over St. Andrews and a 10-0 win at the expense of Ferrum. With 14 goals and 12 assists (40 points) in 17 games, freshman Fernando Martinez was the team's leading scorer. Last year's leading scorer, sophomore Guillermo Roeder, followed with 12 goals and 5 assists (29 points) and freshman Finbarr Clancy had 13 goals and 2 assists. Goalie Lance Watkins had an 11-5 record and 8 shutouts.

Riding a 12-5-0 record and a seven game winning streak, the young Monarch squad had hoped to garner a berth in the NCAA Tournament. But the Monarchs could not overcome an up-and-down first month of the season and a 5-5 mark at the October 1 point of the season. Despite the victory skein, five shutouts in their last seven games, and a 46-2 differential in scoring over their opponent in those last seven games, the NCAA bid was not forthcoming.

Methodist finished the season with a 12-5-0 record, a 4-2-0 conference record and a third place finish in the DIAC. The 12 wins is a new school record. This was Coach Alan Dawson's second season at the Monarch helm. His teams have posted a 20-11-3 record.
