NCLTG Preserves Small School Opportunity

In the mid 1950's, Fayetteville attorney Terry Sanford was a key figure in the local effort to persuade the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church to build Methodist College in Fayetteville. Sanford chaired the fund drive in Cumberland County for the land and the money needed to begin construction of the campus. He was the first chairman of the board of trustees (1956-67) and has served continuously as a trustee since the college was chartered.

When he was governor of North Carolina (1960-64), he secured state funding for the community college system and promised to help every Tar Heel youth "with the will and the skill" find a way to attend (finance) college.

It was Sanford who first proposed (in the 1960's) that the N. C. General Assembly enact a program of tuition "equalization" grants to state residents who choose to attend private colleges. In 1971, the state legislature began funding tuition grants to state residents attending independent colleges.

The Methodist College Alumni Association has made Terry Sanford an honorary smaller school opportunity for those students desiring that over a large state institution. I think it ought to be increased as we go along. When I was governor, I thought it ought to be about 40 percent of the average subsidy that goes to help a student attending a public, non-Ph.D. granting school. So if that figure were $2,700 or $2,800, $1,100 would be about right. If it is much more, as it is, the figure ought to be gradually increased.

Editor's Note: The N.C. Center for Independent Higher Education reports that in 1988-89, North Carolina spent $6,628 per in-state undergraduate at the 16 UNC campuses. Forty percent of that figure would be $2,651. Methodist and other private colleges within the state actually received $1,500 per full-time N.C. student last year—$1,100 for the N.C. Legislative Tuition Grant and $400 for contractual scholarships awarded to needy students.

Question: This fall Methodist will begin its 30th academic year. Considering all that has happened since 1960, what pleases you most about the early history of the college and your role in it?

"This school looks like this school and nothing else, and that, I think, is an asset."

— Terry Sanford

alumnus and awarded him the Distinguished Alumnus Award.

Sanford served as president of Duke University from 1969-85. In May 1981, Methodist College awarded Sanford an honorary Doctor of Law degree. Like his fellow trustees, Sanford was a major contributor to the capital fund campaign for the new Physical Activities Center. Sanford recently announced plans to seek re-election to the U.S. Senate in 1992.

During his return visit to Methodist May 7, before he delivered the commencement address, Sanford was interviewed by Bill Billings. The following are highlights of that interview.

Question: During this past academic year, each North Carolina resident attending Methodist College (full-time) received a $1,100 tuition grant. Do you think the amount of the grant should be increased and if so, to what level?

Answer: It started as $25 on an experimental basis. It's been a very good program. It's pretty well preserved the dual system of education in North Carolina, which I contend is extremely important. It has preserved a Answer: Well I suppose what pleases me most was that it got started. It wasn't all that hard. I think Stacy Weaver did a great job in building the institution with the style and distinctiveness that it has. This school looks like this school and nothing else, and that, I think, is an asset. Another thing, he was very careful not to get this school too heavily in debt, differing from what some other schools had done. And so I think it got started on a very sound, businesslike basis. That laid the groundwork for progress that now has been made under this present administration.

Question: Stacy Weaver once said he would like Methodist College to become "the Davidson of eastern North Carolina." What can the college staff, students, and alumni do to make this happen?

Answer: I would say that this school could be every bit as good as Davidson, given a little more endowment money and a little more time and tradition... I think it has come up very rapidly in these 30 years, compared to the other four-year denominational schools in the state... It so happens I don't like these comparisons. If I were running Methodist

College President Names 37 To First Board of Visitors

Methodist College has announced the appointment of 37 persons to the college's first board of visitors.

College President M. Elton Hendricks said he would like for the board to "suggest ways to improve our quality, visibility, and image."

Dr. Hendricks said he nominated persons "whose wisdom, experience, and stature in the community" would help the college move forward. The board of visitors will hold two meetings annually and will elect its own officers—a chairperson, vice-chairperson, and secretary—each year. The board held its first meeting Thursday, May 18.

The Methodist College Board of Trustees authorized the creation of a board of visitors last fall "to provide a means by which a broad range of friends of the college can assist in fulfilling its mission of promoting academic excellence and extending the influence of science, art, and Christian culture."

Specific responsibilities of the board, as listed in the constitution and by-laws, are: to advise the faculty, staff, president, and board of trustees; to serve as goodwill ambassadors for the college; to assist the college in developing financial resources; to assist in identifying and recruiting students; to provide lecturers, community symposia, presentations, and/or demonstrations in various fields of expertise; to assist in enhancing the image and credibility of the college among a broader constituency.

Vice President for Development Gene Clayton will serve as college liaison to the board of visitors.

(The following is a list of persons appointed to the board of visitors.)

Conference Appoints Campus Minister

Rev. Claire Clyburn has been named campus minister by the North Carolina Conference. She assumed her position at Methodist July 1.

Rev. Clyburn graduated from Meredith College in 1984 with majors in religion and psychology and received a Masters of Divinity from Duke Theological Seminary in 1987. While at Duke, she received the Jamieson Jones Preaching Award. She was ordained a deacon of the North Carolina Annual Conference in 1986 and an elder in 1989.

Her appointments include associate campus minister for Meredith College and associate minister at Benson Memorial United Methodist Church.

In addition, Rev. Clyburn was part of a conference work team that went to Hidalgo, Mexico and led a group to Washington, D.C. for a seminar on homelessness.

When asked about her assignment to Methodist College she said, "I am pleasantly anticipating being a part of the campus."

Rev. Clyburn succeeds Rev. William Green, who has become associate pastor at First United Methodist Church in Cary, NC.

Student and staff volunteers are shown putting the finishing touches on the Tom Journey-Craig Chisum Memorial Garden.

Volunteers Build Memorial Garden

Approximately 80 staff, student, and alumni volunteers gathered Saturday, April 1 to build a memorial garden at the base of the bell tower. It was all part of the fourth annual "Show You Care Day."

"Show You Care Day" is held each spring to give students, staff, and friends of the college the opportunity to work together on a campus beautification project. This year's project—the Journey-Chisum Memorial Garden—was built in memory of Tom Journey and Craig Chisum, two Methodist College students who were killed in a traffic accident November 4, 1988.

Gene Clayton drew a master plan for the garden, which includes brick walks with four circular areas for round umbrella tables and benches, and a variety of trees and shrubs. A permanent plaque will be placed there in memory of Journey and Chisum.

Four Professors Win NEH Fellowships

The National Endowment for the Humanities awarded four Methodist College professors fellowships to attend 1989 summer study programs for college teachers.

Those receiving fellowships were:

—Dr. Robert Christian, professor of English, for a seminar entitled "Romantic Literary Careers" at Johns Hopkins University.

—Dr. Sue Kimball, professor of English, for a seminar entitled "Robert Penn Warren and the American Imagination" at Yale University.

—Dr. Jim Ward, assistant professor of English, for a seminar entitled "Shakespeare and Politics" at the University of Virginia.

—Mr. R. Parker Wilson, associate professor of history, for an institute offered by the City University of New York Graduate School entitled "The French Revolution: Texts and Contexts."

Trustee Emeritus Wilson Yarborough Dies At Age 80

Wilson Franklin Yarborough, Sr., who had served as treasurer of the Methodist College Board of Trustees, chairman of the Site Committee for the college and member of the Building and Grounds Committee, died June 24.

He and his family provided funds for the Yarborough Bell Tower which was dedicated on May 31, 1965. The founder of Yarborough Motors in Fayetteville, he was a former member of the N. C. House of Representatives and the Fayetteville City Council. In 1983, he was awarded an honorary Doctor of Letters degree by Methodist.

President Hendricks issued the following statement concerning Mr. Yarborough's death. "Methodist College owes its existence to men and women

College Receives Grant For Teaching Excellence Award

Methodist College has been selected to participate in The Sears-Roebuck Foundation's 1989-90 "Teaching Excellence and Campus Leadership Award Program."

"At Methodist College, our primary emphasis is on quality teaching with the student as our central focus," said Methodist College President M. Elton Hendricks. "We are especially pleased that The Sears-Roebuck Foundation has expanded its long-standing partnership with independent higher education through this new teacher recognition program."

The awards to more than 700 of the nation's leading private liberal arts colleges and universities will recognize top educators on each campus for their resourcefulness and leadership. Each winning faculty member will receive $1,000 and the institution will receive a grant ranging from $500 to $1,500 based on student enrollment. Institutional grants can be used to encourage campus leadership, faculty enrichment and improved teaching. Winners will be selected by independent committees on each campus.

The program is administered nationally by the Stamford, Connecticut-based Foundation for Independent Higher Education and locally (or regionally) by Hilburn Womble, president of the Independent College Fund of North Carolina.

"With this new program," said Paula A. Banks, president of The Sears-Roebuck Foundation, "we are recognizing the importance of teacher competence as a critical element in strengthening undergraduate teaching and learning."

like Wilson Yarborough. His leadership in the 1950's helped to establish this college. His continued interest has helped us to achieve strength and stability. We will all miss him greatly."

Yarborough is survived by his wife, Mary Butler Yarborough, and sons, Wilson T. Yarborough, Jr., Ramon L. Yarborough, and David B. Yarborough.

The Yarborough family has requested that memorial gifts be made to Methodist College.

The Class of '89 — Thirty Graduate With Honors

Methodist College awarded 130 degrees to 122 students at its 26th spring commencement Sunday, May 7.

U. S. Senator Terry Sanford, the commencement speaker and the first chairman of the Methodist College Board of Trustees, called on the members of the Class of '89 to "lift up the weak" by serving others, saying this was the philosophy of North Carolina Governor Charles B. Aycock.

Sanford said the late playwright Paul Green once asked a group of college students, "What do you young people care about?" The senator then recounted some words of wisdom given to Michelangelo by his teacher Bertoldo: "Talent is cheap; dedication is expensive."

"The time has come for you to answer Paul Green's question," said Sanford. "The time has come for you to understand Michelangelo's answer. The two go together."

The senator said each graduate's answer to the question "What do you care about?" will "cost you your life. It might as well be something noble," he said. "It would be a pity to have given your life for selfishness, for greed, for nothing."

The Reverend Charles Michael Smith, pastor of Highland United Methodist Church in Raleigh, delivered the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning. He urged the members of the graduating class to remember that Christ served others and that those who follow his example will be exalted before God.

Sixteen (16) members of the Class of '64 returned for a 25th class reunion, attended a luncheon, marched and sat together, and were recognized during commencement.

Rebecca Lund Burleigh, a biology major from Tarpon Springs, Florida, received the Lucius Stacy Weaver Award given in honor of the college's first president. She was chosen by the faculty as the senior who best exemplified academic excellence, leadership ability, devotion to Christian ideals, and humanitarian service.

Business administration majors Jeffrey Lee Pierce and David Lee Robbins tied for first place in the class with perfect 4.0 (straight A) averages. Thirty members of the Class of '89 graduated with honors.

College President Elton Hendricks conferred honorary Doctor of Humanities degrees upon Fayetteville residents I. H. "Ike" O'Hanlon and Lura Talley. O'Hanlon is a retired businessman and former state legislator who currently serves as chairman of Methodist's board of trustees. Mrs. Talley is a state senator and civic leader, with a long and distinguished record of public service as a state legislator.

President Hendricks awarded a Doctor of Divinity degree to the Reverend Charles Michael Smith, pastor of Highland United Methodist Church in Raleigh. Smith was honored for 24 years of service as a minister, for his work as a member of the Hymnal Revision Committee of the United Methodist Church, and for his leadership role in the continuing education of ministers in the North Carolina Conference.

Smith

Michael D'Arcy, a history major from Naas, Ireland presented the flag of Ireland to President Hendricks, bringing to 19 the number of flags presented to the college by international students.

Two retiring members of the Methodist College faculty—Mrs. Ingeborg Dent, associate professor of German and French, and Dr. John O. Tobler, professor of political science—received silver trays from President Hendricks.

Six ROTC cadets—Daniel Short, David Ralston, Michael Stocks, Katherine R. Alderman, James Porter, and Donald Swiney—took the Oath of Allegiance and were commissioned second lieutenants in the U. S. Army.

Methodist College awarded degrees to the following persons May 7, 1989:

Simply The Best: Weaver Award Winners Revisited

Twenty-five years ago, the family of Dr. L. Stacy Weaver, the first president of Methodist College, established the Lucius Stacy Weaver Award. The award honors an outstanding member of each graduating class—a student who, in the judgment of the college faculty, exemplifies the highest degree of academic excellence, spiritual development, leadership, and service. At the suggestion of President Hendricks, MC Today recently surveyed the Stacy Weaver Award winners for the years 1964-1988 and asked them to bring us up-to-date on their accomplishments and comment on the preparation they received at Methodist. Here is a follow-up report on some of MC's finest.

Jean Hutchinson '67 (English major)

Jean recently moved back to West Germany from Columbus, GA, where she will work for the U.S. Army Continuing Education System at Spangdahlem Air Base. In December 1988 she formed Hutchinson Design to market her paintings and hand-crafted jewelry. Jean served in the U.S. Air Force from 1972-75 and lived in West Germany for more than a decade before returning to the U.S. After graduating from Methodist, the Fayetteville native taught English at Seventy-First High School, worked as an administrative assistant to U.S. Congressman Alton Lennon, and headed the news bureau at MC. She received her M.A. in counseling from Ball State University's Overseas Division.

ence: From a personal standpoint, she says she received "better self-awareness of abilities and potential; a greater sense of self-confidence at succeeding and accomplishing endeavors; and a recognition of how important the church and church community is in one's life."

From an academic standpoint, she said "a good foundation in religion and philosophical studies" prepared her well for a career in Christian education.

James Francis Loschiavo '69 (math major)

James is an operations research analyst with the U.S. General Accounting Office in Washington, DC. He and his wife Elizabeth live in Woodbridge, VA. James received a master's degree in systems analysis from George Washington University in 1975.

James on his Methodist College experience: "The spiritual atmosphere is something I came to appreciate more after reflecting on the many good times. The convocations were great. It gave me exposure to subjects I would not have taken on my own—Art Appreciation, Old and New Testament, Philosophy, etc."

Diane Qualliotine Mann '70 (chemistry major)

Diane is a lab technician (in white blood cell research) at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem. She and her husband—The Reverend Donald Mann—have three sons. Diane received her M.S. degree in biochemistry from the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Wake Forest University, in 1972.

Diane is active in church work at Calvery Baptist and assists her husband-pastor in teaching, counseling, and conducting marriage enrichment classes. She was a homemaker for 12 years; until all her sons were in school.

Diane on her Methodist College experience: "My confidence was built in several areas—academic, social, and religious. I formed some strong friendships. I received a good foundation in math and chemistry. The broad liberal arts education stimulated my interest in a balanced range of subjects. Foreign language (French and German) has helped on missions trips."

John Wayne Brown '71 (political science major)

John practices law in Chesapeake, VA. He received his J.D. degree from Wake Forest University in 1974 and a master's in law and taxation from the College of William and Mary in 1980. He and his wife Donna have three children.

John is a past president of the Chesapeake Bar Association, is a member of the Rotary and Ruritan Clubs, and serves on the board of Commerce Bank. In 1988, he co-chaired a drive to win approval of a $45 million bond referendum in Chesapeake.

John on his Methodist College experience: "It placed an emphasis on personal interaction with people and taught me that most people can be all they would ever want to be, if they apply themselves." (John singled out Dr. Tobler's "Constitutional Law" class as an example of good academic preparation.)

Larry Edward Lugar '72 (math major)

Larry lives in Rocky Mount, NC, where he is director of middle grades and computer education (K-12) for the Nash County Schools. He and his wife Sharon have a nine-year old son.

Larry received a master's degree in education from East Carolina University in 1980. He is currently working on his sixth year certificate in curriculum and instruction at N.C. State University.

Larry is active in professional organizations (ASCD and NCSIE) and has made national presentations on mentor teacher

Donna Davis Smith '68 (religion major)

Donna is a homemaker now living in Durham. Her husband Harmon is a professor of moral theology at Duke Divinity School and is serving as interim rector of St. Titus Episcopal Church. Donna received the Master of Divinity degree from Duke University Divinity School in 1972. For several years, she worked for the Western Pennsylvania Conference of the United Methodist Church as an educator-consultant in Christian education.

Donna is active in the American Cancer Society and the American Association of University Women. The Smiths have two teenage sons—one 14 and one 17.

training. He is president of the Nash County Directors and Supervisors Association.

Larry on his Methodist College experience: "My total experience on campus gave me insight on working with other people through small clubs and groups. The interpersonal communication at Methodist was good preparation for a public-oriented job. My educational training at Methodist made work in graduate school easier and I had little trouble working at the graduate level."

Kenneth Lee Williams '73
(chemistry and math major)

Ken works as a chemist with Bowater, Inc., Carolina Division, in Catawba, SC. He has done graduate work at Clemson and Georgia Tech. He and his wife Virginia have two children.

Ken is a deacon at First Baptist Church and is a member of the church choir and orchestra.

Ken on his Methodist College experience: "The size and atmosphere of Methodist College allowed for the establishment of personal and lasting relationships with other students and faculty. The faculty wanted the students to learn. The practical side of education was emphasized, as well as the theoretical."

Coleen Shaw Doucette '74
(history and religion major)

Coleen lives in Durham, NC and teaches 7th grade social studies at Chewning Junior High in Durham County. She and her husband Leonard have two children.

Coleen is a member of the North Carolina Association of Educators, the National Education Association, and Parkwood United Methodist Church.

Coleen on her Methodist College experience: "The liberal arts curriculum introduced me to many new ideas. Teacher-education courses prepared me well for teaching."

Claudia Gail Harrelson '78
(religion major)

The Reverend Claudia Harrelson lives in Newland, NC (near Grandfather Mountain) and is minister of the Avery United Methodist Parish. She is an ordained elder in the Western North Carolina Conference. In 1988, she submitted two petitions to the General Conference of the United Methodist Church dealing with cooperative parishes. Both were accepted and are now part of the Discipline.

Claudia on her Methodist College experience: "The small college atmosphere enabled me to feel accepted and be counted as a person, not a statistic. While all my classes were helpful, Dr. Plyler and Dr. Womack prepared me for the rigors of seminary; I am especially grateful for Dr. Plyler's Greek class."

JoAnne is an English instructor at Pitt Community College in Greenville, NC. She received an M.A. degree in English from UNC-Charlotte in 1985. She and her husband Victor live in Greenville.

band Victor live in Greenville.

JoAnne on her Methodist College experience: "Methodist offered me lots of leadership roles (directing a play, etc.) that helped greatly on a professional level. Instruction in all English courses was superb—a truly solid foundation for graduate studies at UNC-C. Education courses at MC were also strong; I felt well-prepared for five years of teaching in public school (Bowman High School-Wadesboro, 1979-84).

(English major)

Jeffrey is a captain in the U.S. Army and lives in Salt Lake City, Utah with his wife and three children. He is enrolled in a master's program in Middle Eastern Studies and political science at the University of Utah and expects to receive his degree in the spring of '90.

Jeffrey on his Methodist College experience: "The emphasis on responsible, caring participation in the small community has impressed on me an imperative for socially productive behavior. The opportunities to participate in various activities, for example the Theatre Department, helped me develop confidence and accept my limitations. The rigorous writing requirements of the English Department have prepared me for thesis preparation. The excellent ROTC curriculum prepared me for success in the military. The criticism and encouragement of the scholar-instructors encouraged me to continue my studies."

Ruby Annette Wilson Johnson '81
(general science major)

Ruby teaches science at Southwest Junior High in Gastonia, NC. She and her husband Mark have one son and are expecting another child in July. Ruby chairs the Science Department at Southwest.

Ruby on her Methodist College experience: "Methodist has exceptional faculty members who are willing to go the extra mile to help their students. I am especially grateful to the Science Department staff. They were wonderful."

Patricia Anne Turner '82
(English major)

Tricia is director of student affairs programming and cheerleading coach at Methodist. She formerly worked as an admissions counselor at MC and was active in the statewide professional organization for admissions personnel.

Tricia on her Methodist College experience: "Methodist helped me to realize my potential as a leader. When I came to MC, I was a very quiet, shy person. By my second year, I was captain of the cheerleading squad and editor of the newspaper. The academic program at Methodist provided me with the communication skills needed to be successful in a job and in life."

College Expects About 1,000 In Fall Day Program

Data from the Methodist College Admissions Office and the Registrar's Office indicate that Methodist will enroll about 1,000 full-time day students this fall. That would be the largest number since 1968.

As of July 1, 303 new freshmen and transfer students had paid reservation deposits and another 515 returning students had pre-registered for the fall. More registrations are coming in daily.

The Student Affairs Office projects that 500 students will be living in the four dorms—the highest number in 20 years. For the first time ever, Garber Hall will be a co-ed dorm, housing 25 males on the first floor.

Methodist had received a record 1,232 applications through July 1, compared to 1,064 at the same time last year. Of that number, 975 were potential dorm students and 257 were potential commuting students.

The college has accepted 825 of the students who applied for entrance this fall. Of that number, 506 are men and 319 are women.

Director of Admissions Fiore Bergamasco reports that a two-page color article on Methodist was placed in "Private Colleges and Universities" magazine this spring. That issue was sent to 90,000 juniors in the eastern U.S. with SAT scores above 900. More than 1,000 inquiries have already been received as a result of this marketing approach.

(music major)

Richard lives in Tallahassee, Florida and is working on a master's degree in music education at Florida State University. The Fayetteville native says he has met students "from around the world" at Florida State and considers the opportunity to interact with students from other cultures "one of the most valuable aspects of my education."

Richard on his Methodist College experience: "The total liberal arts education at Methodist prepared me academically for any situation. I feel very strongly that a strong foundation in the liberal arts is necessary preparation for life. A program which merely prepares you for a job leaves much of your potential undeveloped."

College Honors Pennink, Ellis, Walker, Manning

Methodist College presented awards to four persons at the eighth annual Economic Outlook Symposium April 18.

Suzanne Barlow Pennink, founder and president of Suzanne Barlow REALTORS in Fayetteville, was named Outstanding Woman Entrepreneur of the Year. She opened the full-service realty firm in 1975.

Mrs. Pennink began her career as a teller and secretary for Carolina Telephone and also worked as a bookkeeper and secretary for Smithboro Furniture Company. She graduated from the New York School of Interior Design and received her North Carolina real estate broker's license in 1974.

R. Leonard Ellis and Joe W. Walker, co-owners of Ellis-Walker Builders, Inc., received the Small Business Excellence Award. Founded in 1982, Ellis-Walker Builders has grown rapidly (from eight to 33 employees) and now has annual revenues of nearly $7 million. In 1987, the Fayetteville-based firm was named "Contractor of the Year" by the Corps of Engineers of the Savannah District.

Ray Manning, founder and president of Southeastern Hospital Supply Corporation, became the eighth person to be inducted into the Fellowship of the Silver Spoon. The fellowship recognizes individuals who, although not born to wealth and status, have distinguished themselves by significant economic achievement and accomplishment.

economic achievement and accomplishment.

Manning established Southeastern Hospital Supply Corporation in 1948, with very little capital. Today, the firm has 200 employees and is the largest distributor of medical equipment and supplies headquartered in the Carolinas.

Award recipients were selected by a college committee, based on nominations solicited from the business community.

At the close of the symposium, Dr. Sid Gautam awarded a $100 bill to Ace Parker for submitting the closest prediction to the closing Dow Jones stock average for April 18.

The Symposium was sponsored by the Fayetteville Area Chamber of Commerce; the North Carolina Small Business and Technology Development Center; Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, and Smith; and the Center for Entrepreneurship at Methodist College.

NY Stock Analyst Expresses Confidence In Market

Indicators of supply and demand are the most constant, reliable predictors of movement on the stock market.

That was the message of Steve Shobin, Vice President, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, Inc., as he spoke to 200 persons at Methodist's Annual Stock Market Symposium April 18.

Shobin's appearance was sponsored by the Fayetteville office of Merrill Lynch. Shobin delivers a daily commentary to more than 10,000 brokers. He is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh.

"It's very difficult to quantify supply and demand," said Shobin. He said these forces can best be assessed by looking at the valuation of the Dow (P-E ratios and dividends), the stability of the long-term bond market, the supply of institutional cash, prevailing sentiment among investors, and the commodities market.

Applying his indicators to the current situation (in April 1989), Shobin said the average valuation of stocks is poor and the dividend is low, the bond market is neutral, institutional cash is plentiful, and investors are cautious.

"The chances of a slowdown are good. The prospects of a crash are slim."

"The chances of a slowdown are good," said Shobin. "The prospects of a crash are slim. Since December 1987, the market has ratcheted higher, in a cyclical fashion. At present, there are more positives than negatives. I'm very confident about the market."

Shobin advised investors to choose stocks based on earnings growth over the past six months and valuation—how much money a stock has made in the last six quarters.

Specific stocks recommended by the Merrill Lynch analyst include: Minnesota Mining (3-M), ITT, Fleetwood, Alberto Culver, Amvestors, Rubbermaid, COMSAT, Archer Daniels, Caesar's World, and Anheuser-Busch. Shobin said he would sell food and drug stocks.

In his concluding remarks, Shobin urged investors to adhere to sound principles of money management by diversifying (putting no more than 30 percent in one position), developing techniques for selling stocks to maximize profits; and staggering stop-loss points.

John McCullough Leads Men's Golf Team At NCAA Tourney

Led by John McCullough's medalist play, the Methodist College men's golf team finished second in the NCAA Division III Nationals held at the par-72, 6,978-yard Lake Panorama National Golf Course in Panora, Iowa.

McCullough, despite windy conditions, shot the low score of 70 on the final day to best Mark Hutchinson of Cal State-Stanislaus by two strokes. Stanislaus was the team champion in the event, shooting a four-day total of 1,202. Methodist outdueled Stanislaus by a stroke on the final day, but could not make up the nine strokes by which it trailed going into the last round. The Monarch team total was 1,210.

McCullough had daily scores of 76-75-74-70 for his total of 295. Teammate Hank Klein finished in fifth place with a 299 (77-76-73-73). Both were named All-Americans by virtue of their finish.

Freshman Rob Pilewski (76-82-73-84-315) received Honorable Mention All-American honors. Other scores posted by Monarchs were John Garde's 315 (83-74-74-84) and Jason Cherry's 321 (74-77-81-89).

McCullough, a junior from St. Michaels, MD, entered the final day nine strokes behind the leader, Hutchinson.

McCullough competed in the Division I Tournament held at Oak Tree Country Club in Edmund, Oklahoma June 7-10.

For Methodist, this was a 10th consecutive NCAA tournament. Methodist finished in the top five in 7 of 11 tournaments this past year and was victorious in three of those

Conley Named National Coach Of Year

In only his second season as a collegiate head coach, Methodist College's Steve Conley has been named Golf Coaches of America Division III Coach-of-the-Year. He has led the Monarchs to a No. 2 national ranking each of the past two years and fifth and second place finishes in the national tournament.

Conley, a native of Santa Rosa Beach, Florida played collegiate golf at Division I

Murray State University and was an Academic All-American there. He came to Methodist in 1986 as an assistant coach under Dr. Jim Suttie, then assumed the head position when Suttie left the following summer.

"Of course, I'm very excited about this honor," stated Conley. "I'm not sure if the full impact has sunk in yet. What an honor. It is a reflection on the tradition of the Methodist golf program, as well as myself."

Women Golfers Win Fourth National Championship

For the fourth time in as many years, the Methodist College women's golf team claimed the National Golf Coaches Association's Division III National Championship. Methodist hosted the event held on the par-72, 5,934-yard Gates Four Golf and Country Club in Hope Mills. Led by the senior trio of Joy Bonhurst (Melville, NY), Holly Anderson (Cumberland, ME), and Kristina Kavanaugh (Pittsford, NY), the Lady Monarchs bested the nearest team by 64 strokes. Methodist had a three-day total of 952 (324-315-313).

Bonhurst finished third in the tournament with a 236 grade total (80-78-78). Teammates Anderson and Kavanaugh were close behind as they finished in a tie for fourth place with 237 totals. Anderson posted scores of 79-80-78, while Kavanaugh recorded 84-78-75. Freshman Rindy Garner (Portland, CT) tied for seventh place with scores of 81-79-83 (243). All four were named to the All-American team, an honor reserved for the top eight finishers.

For Bonhurst and Anderson, this was their fourth All-American selection and it was Kavanaugh's second time. Anderson was a two-time medalist in this tournament (1986 and 1987) and Kavanaugh was last year's winner. Monarch teammate Lisa Skaggs, a freshman from Frederick, MD rounded out the team scoring with totals of 85-82-82-249.

For the year, the Lady Monarch linksters won three tournaments, were second in three, and third in three. They finished in the top three in nine of ten tournaments in which they participated. Bonhurst led the team with a 78.9 average, followed by Kavanaugh (80.4), Anderson (81.8), Garner (83.4), and Skaggs (84.4). Bonhurst won at the Seahawk Fall Invitational and the Cougar Invitational and was runner-up at the Peggy Kirk Bell Invitational and the Seahawk/Azalea. Garner was second at the JMU Invitational.

Bonhurst, Anderson, and Kavanaugh participated in the NCAA Division I Women's Golf National Championship held at Stanford University. It was the third consecutive year in this tourney for Bonhurst, the second time for Anderson, and the initial chance for Kavanaugh.

The Academic All-American Team was announced at this tournament and Anderson, a business major with a concentration in professional golf management, was named to the prestigious team for the third year. She has assumed a job as the shop manager and assistant professional to Bill Strausbaugh at the Columbia Country Club in Chevy Chase, MD. Strausbaugh has been the PGA Professional of the Year, the PGA Teacher of the Year, and has authored numerous books on golf and golf teaching methods. One of the top four annual awards given by the PGA is named for him.

Mike Brewington Drafted By Pittsburgh Pirates

Three-time Monarch baseball All-American Mike Brewington was drafted in the 30th round by the Pittsburgh Pirates June 6 during the second day of Major League Baseball's amateur draft.

The Fayetteville native was a four-time All-Dixie Conference athlete, two-time All-Region selection, and was named to the 1988 All-NCAA Division III World Series Team. During his four years in a Monarch uniform, Methodist went to four NCAA Tournaments, two World Series, and won two Dixie Conference Championships.

In his senior season, Brewington batted .366 with 14 homeruns and 57 RBI's. He stole 34 bases in 41 attempts and never made an error in left field. As a team co-captain, he led the Monarchs to a 33-5 record, the NCAA Regionals, and the Dixie Championship. He holds Methodist College career records for home runs (33), runs batted in (231), doubles (54), and at bats (689).

"It's a dream come true," beamed Brewington. "I've got to prove myself. I just wanted to have a chance." For Coach Austin, Brewington is the second player to be drafted during his tenure and the fifth in the school's history.

Brewington will report to the Pirates camp in Bradenton, Florida and will then probably be assigned to the Princeton, West Virginia

Appalachian League or the New York-Penn League in Welland, Ontario.

Softball Team Takes 3rd

After making it to the DIAC softball final four, Methodist fell victim to some jittery pitching and lost its first two games in the first round of the tournament.

Methodist clinched third place in the DIAC regular season with an 8-4 conference record. The final seasonal record was 15-20. Junior first baseman Linda Eberly was placed on the All-Conference team for the third year.

A new building with locker rooms and offices for football is nearing completion.

Baker Earns All-American Status

Junior Danielle Baker, the sprinting phenomenon from Morristown, NJ, participated in three events at the NCAA Division III National Meet in Naperville, Illinois May 24-27, and earned All-American honors in all three.

She notched a fourth place finish in the 400-meter dash (56.29), a fifth in the 200-meter dash (25.32), and a sixth in the 100-meter event (12.90). The top eight finishers in each event were awarded All-American status.

Baker had gained All-American recognition twice at the Indoor Nationals in March as she was second in the 400-meter dash and third in the 55-meter hurdles.

Her time of 8.09 in the 55-meter hurdles was the fourth fastest time ever run in women's NCAA Division III history.

In addition to her five All-American honors this year, Baker was All-Conference in four indoor events (55-meter, 55-meter hurdles, 200-meter dash and 400 dash) and three outdoor events (100 hurdles, 400, and 4x100 relay). She owns three indoor school records and five outdoor records.

Coaches' Report

The Athletic Dept. reported on June 30 that 209 student athletes had been recruited for this fall. Paid reservation deposits, by sport, total: cross country & track-10; men's soccer-3; women's soccer-4; volleyball-10; tennis-18; men's basketball-14; women's basketball-4; baseball-30; softball-8; men's golf-68; women's golf-8; football-32.

Twelve Make All-Conference At Track Meet

Twelve Monarch tracksters received All-Conference honors at the Mason-Dixon Conference Meet held in May.

Four women competed for Methodist and all four were named to the All-Conference team. Danielle Baker sprinted to two second place finishes—400 meters and the 100-meter hurdles—and was a member of the fourth place 4x100 relay team. Her 400 time of 56.45 set a new school record.

Lynda Taylor placed sixth in the 100-meter sprint and was also a member of the 4x100 relay team. Cathi O'Neil and Kelly Ramsey completed the relay squad. As a team, these four were sixth at the meet.

Eight members of the men's team ran for

All-Conference honors at the above meet and led the Monarchs to an eighth place finish. John Storms, with a runner-up finish in the 1,500 meter run, and Rodney Rothoff, with a second in the 3,000 steeplechase, led the Methodist College contingent. Fran Ireland (3rd - 10,000), Eric Green (5th - 800), and the 4x100 relay team (5th) provided the remaining Monarch points. Members of the 100 relay team included Terry Andrews, Matt Melvin, Joe Castner, and Kevin Pierce.

Storms qualified for the NCAA National Outdoor Meet in the 1500-meter event. He had his best time of the year with a 3:50.07 for the third place finish and an All-American selection.

Women's Tennis Team Wins Dixie Conference Title

The Methodist College women's tennis team won the Dixie Conference Championship in April, giving the school its first ever conference tennis title.

Led by freshman Dorian Droege, the Monarchs won the title by 10 points over runner-up Christopher Newport. Methodist gained 40 points and CNC had 30. They were followed by Virginia Wesleyan (28), Averett (12), Greensboro (10), and Ferrum (2).

Droege, a Clermont, Florida native, finished her season undefeated in the DIAC as she defeated Brooke Emery from Greensboro College in the second round (6-2, 3-6, 6-2), and then was stretched to the hilt to defeat Virginia Wesleyan's Stacy Carr (5-7, 7-6, 6-1) for the championship.

Teammate and Fayetteville native Debra Chamra, the No. 1 seed in the sixth slot, also remained undefeated in DIAC matches as she earned her championship by beating Kim Keene of Greensboro College (6-1, 6-0) and CNC's Stephanie Seward (6-2, 6-3).

Amanda Cook provided a third Monarch individual championship from her No. 5 spot as she won her semifinal match 6-3, 6-2 and her finals by 7-6, 6-0 scores.

Methodist placed a team in each doubles championship match, but was unable to gain a doubles championship.

Droege, Chamra, and Cook were named All-Conference for their championships. Jennifer Beary was the remaining member of the six-person team. The Lady Monarchs were 11-2 overall and 5-0 in the DIAC regular season.

Dorian Droege displays her championship form on the court.

Bonhurst, Brewington Named Top Athletes Of 1988-89

Methodist College held its annual awards presentation ceremony to honor its athletes Tuesday, April 25 in the school cafeteria. Earl Vaughn, a sportswriter for The Fayetteville Observer was the master of ceremonies for the event, with each sport's coach making the presentation for his/her team.

Several special awards were given. The Steve Little Cup, given annually in memory of its namesake, a four-year letterman in soccer at Methodist College prior to his death in an automobile accident six months after his graduation, was presented to senior goalkeeper Mike D'Arcy. An Honorary Monarch Award was given to Methodist College campus minister Bill Green for his support and contribution to the college athletic teams.

Joy Bonhurst and Mike Brewington were recognized as the Outstanding Female and Outstanding Male Athlete, respectively. Bonhurst was a four-time All-American on the women's golf team. She was a cornerstone in the winning tradition built in Methodist College women's golf during its brief four-year history.

The No. 1 ranked Division III golfer in the regular season, she led her team to a fourth consecutive NGCA national championship as she finished third in that event. Through 27 rounds of competition this year, she sported a 78.9 stroke average. She graduated in May as a business major with a concentration in professional golf management and has aspirations of competing in the LPGA.

Mike Brewington was Baseball America's Pre-Season Player-of-the-Year in Division III baseball. He was a four-time All-Conference outfielder. He received All-South honors four times and was the school's first three-time baseball All-

American. In his four years in a Monarch uniform, the teams went to the World Series twice and to four consecutive NCAA regionals, won the conference championship twice and were runner-up twice. He concluded his senior year with a .366 batting average, 14 homeruns, 57 RBI's, and 34 stolen bases. He holds Monarch career records for at bats, RBI's, doubles, and homeruns.

Baseball Team Denied Third Trip To World Series

The baseball Monarchs roared into the 1989 season, winning their first 23 games to set a new school record win streak. Highlights of the win skein were victories against Atlantic Christian (2-0), Pembroke State (13-1), Johns Hopkins (13-1), Winthrop (9-3), and two over NC Wesleyan (the eventual Division III National Champion).

Methodist finished the regular season with a 33-3 record. The three losses came to teams the Monarchs had defeated earlier—NC Wesleyan (2-5), Winthrop (11-12), and Pembroke State (4-8). The grand finale for the regular season was twofold—the clinching of the Dixie Conference Championship with an 11-1 conference record and gaining the No. 1 national ranking toward season's end.

Methodist won 10 of its last 11 contests and appeared on its way to a third World Series as the Monarchs were invited to participate in an 8th consecutive NCAA Tournament. However, the timely hits and fielding sharpness that had characterized the team in the regular season were not there in regional play. The momentum was gone and consecutive losses to Allegheny College (4-3) and Ferrum (11-4) ended the Monarch hopes for a glory year.

Catcher Robbie Terry and shortstop Joe Corretjer were named to the South Region All-Tournament team. Senior outfielder Mike Brewington and junior pitcher Rod Jones were honored as All-American and

All-Region athletes. Selected to the All-Region second team were Jay Kirkpatrick, Bryan King, and Richard Seagroves, with Corretjer and Tim Schieffelin being named to the third team.

First team All-Dixie Conference Monarchs were King, Brewington, and Jones.

Making the second team All-DIAC were Kirkpatrick, Seagroves, and Robbie Moreau. Coach Tom Austin was Co-Coach-of-the-Year in the DIAC.

Men's Tennis Team Finishes 2nd In DIAC

Bolstered by placing four singles competitors and two doubles teams in the finals, the Monarch men's tennis team earned runner-up honors at the DIAC Tournament hosted by Virginia Wesleyan April 21-22.

Averett College (54 points) won the competition, followed by Methodist's 28 points. Rounding out the scoring were Virginia Wesleyan (14), Christopher Newport (8), Greensboro (0), and Ferrum (0).

Jeff Hawes, seeded second in the No. 2 singles, advanced to the championship round before falling to Hannu Ylinenpaa of Averett College by 6-2, 6-2 scores. Likewise, teammate James Gleghorn, the second seed in the No. 3 singles, succumbed in the finals to Averett's Erkki Suomalainen, 6-0, 6-0. Monarch Ray Major fell to Ilkka Vapaaauori of Averett, 6-2, 6-1, in the No. 4 singles and lost to Averett's Joe Jones, 6-4, 6-3 for the championship.

In doubles action, Hawes and Jim Laverder lost to the Averett No. 1 doubles team by 6-2, 6-1 scores. Major and Plock could not

Football Practice Begins August 15

Something new and exciting begins at Methodist College August 15 when football practice opens for the Monarchs. Methodist will play its first football game September 9, at home against Cumberland College (Williamsburg, KY).

Players report to campus August 14, with practices and meetings scheduled that morning and afternoon, as well as a two-hour evening practice. Physical activity during the first three days of the preseason practices is limited to non-contact, conditioning drills. Pads and other protective equipment are not allowed for those initial three days.

Coach John Crea is expecting between 65 and 85 athletes in preseason camp. Six transfers entered Methodist last January, and 26 athletes already on campus have expressed an interest in joining the incoming recruits.

John Crea

"Since it is the first year, we'll be underdogs in all 10 games," predicted Crea. "We have a great schedule with two of the teams (Cumberland and Ferrum) going undefeated in last fall's regular season and participating in the playoffs. Our offense will be option-oriented, with a 4-3 team defense."

Most of Crea's staff is now complete. Coaching the linebackers will be full time assistant coach Jeff Cusack. Cusack has been on staff for several months, assisting with recruiting and fall preparations.

Coaching the defensive line will be Mike Sinkovitz, a defensive coordinator at Upper Iowa College for eight years. John Hubby was the secondary coach at Allentown High School (PA) for the past two years and will assume that same role for the Monarchs. Chuck McCall played at Alabama and Alabama State, and he will shoulder the offensive line coaching burden.

Crea will coach the quarterbacks. His offensive back and receiver coach has yet to be named.

The Monarchs will play their five home games on campus. A new building is under construction behind the boiler plant that will house two locker rooms, storage and laundry facilities and two coaches' offices. Brick bleachers have been built into the hillside by the football field, the goalposts are in place, and the turf is being nurtured in preparation for its football initiation.

Methodist Retains DIAC President's Cup

For the second year in a row, Methodist College has won the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference President's Cup, a coveted award symbolic of the top overall athletic program in the conference. St. Andrews College won the cup during its first five years; then Christopher Newport kept it four years until Methodist ended that reign last year.

The Monarchs used five conference championships—baseball, men's golf, women's soccer, women's tennis, and volleyball—and top four finishes in all sports to claim the trophy.

Last year, 1988-89, was the greatest ever for the Methodist College athletic program. Six teams sent athletes to their respective NCAA tournaments; the women's golf team won a fourth consecutive NGCA National Championship; four teams finished in the top six in their national championship; and golfer John McCullough won the national championship.

There was a steady flow of awards for the athletes and coaches: four Academic All-Americans, 17 All-American honors, 21 All-Region athletes, 54 All-Conference athletes, and one National Coach-of-the-Year. Seven athletes finished in the top five in their national tournaments and five won DIAC individual championships.

Hubert Willis Scholarship Established

The Haymount United Methodist Men's Club has initiated The Hubert M. Willis Memorial Scholarship Fund. This perpetual fund is a living memorial to the late Hubert M. Willis of Fayetteville. The fund will provide annual scholarships to Methodist College students of merit and need.

Willis

At the Haymount Methodist Men's Annual Ladies' Night Banquet June 7, two Methodist College students—Timothy Taylor of Louisburg, NC and Harry Hoffman, III of Paulsboro, NJ—were named as the initial recipients of $2,500 scholarships from the fund.

An alumnus of N. C. State University, Mr. Willis was widely known as a soil and water conservationist. His leadership in the Kiwanis program to plant dogwoods resulted in Fayetteville's designation as the "City of Dogwoods." He was an active member of the Democratic Party, the Kiwanis Club, and Haymount United Methodist Church. He was also an ardent supporter of Methodist College and Camp Rockfish.

A portrait of Hubert M. Willis was presented to Dr. Hendricks, president of Methodist College, and will be permanently displayed in Horner Administration Building.

Anyone may make a tax deductible contribution to the scholarship fund. To do so, make your check payable to Haymount United Methodist Church. Forward your pledge or check to:

Hinson poses with prize-winning entry.

Hinson Wins First Place Art Award

Peggy Hinson, assistant professor of art at Methodist College, won the First Place Award in a juried art show based on the writings of Doris Betts. The show was part of the Southern Writers' Symposium held March 16-18.

Mrs. Hinson created a computerized shadow box to illustrate the Betts' short story, "The Astronomer." The work features replicas of a front porch, a car, and other story elements superimposed against a dark sky with moon, stars, and constellations. It also includes a moving LCD display of text from the story.

Merit Awards went to Silvana Foti-Soulet for "Heading West" and Soni Martin Moran for "Beasts of the Southern Wild."
