TERRY SANFORD RECEIVES NAICU ADVOCACY AWARD

The National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities presented its first annual Award for Advocacy of Independent Higher Education to Dr. Terry Sanford February 4.

Dr. Sanford, an original trustee of Methodist College, received the award at NAICU's annual meeting in Washington, D.C. The award recognizes an individual outside academe who has championed the cause of independent higher education in the United States.

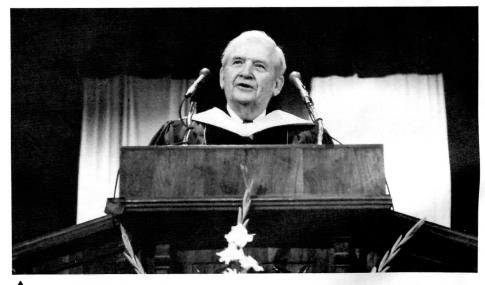

The honoree is still remembered as the "education governor" of North Carolina (1961-65)—the man who proposed an unpopular tax to improve public schools, created the North Carolina School of the Arts, and established the state's community college system. He was also the author of an innovative legislative program which provides grants and scholarships to Tar Heel youths who attend independent colleges and universities.

Terry Sanford was elected the first chairman of the Methodist College Board of Trustees in 1956. As a Fayetteville attorney, he led the citizens group which persuaded the N.C. Conference of the Methodist Church to build a college in Fayetteville. He has been a trustee continuously, for the last 36 years. In 1981, Methodist College awarded him an honorary Doctor of Law degree.

As a U.S. senator from 1986-92 and president of Duke University from 1969-85, Terry Sanford found innovative ways to address national and international problems. In the U.S. Senate, he led efforts to reform the federal budgetmaking process. At Duke he established the Institute of Policy Sciences and Public Affairs. He recently accepted a part-time teaching post at Duke.

Dr. Sanford has written three books and worked tirelessly on behalf of disabled and disadvantaged children, national parks, states' rights, and at least eight different private institutions of higher learning. He chaired the American Association of Independent Colleges and Universities from 1980-81 and the N.C. Association of Independent Colleges and Universities from 1978-80.

A native of Laurinburg, NC, Terry Sanford attended Presbyterian Junior College (Maxton) and earned his bachelor's degree from UNC at Chapel Hill. He earned his law degree from the UNC School of Law.

David Wilson Joins Faculty

David G. Wilson, retired president of Fasco Consumer Products in Fayetteville, was recently appointed Executive-in-Residence by the Reeves School of Business at Methodist College.

"The Reeves School of Business and Methodist College are fortunate to be able to offer their students access to such an outstanding business executive and community leader as David Wilson," said Joe Doll, director of the Reeves School.

David Wilson was president of Fasco from 1981-92. In 1988, he was named Business Person of the Year by Methodist's Center for Entrepreneurship. He is a member of Methodist's Board of Visitors, former chairman of the Cumberland County Library Board of Trustees, and former chairman of the Fayetteville Technical Community College Foundation Board.

A graduate of Virginia Tech, Mr. Wilson is team-teaching Business 341, "Principles of Management" with Joe Doll. The former CEO is also developing a special course in "Business Transitioning" for Fall '93 and serving as coordinator of the Executive Speaking Series.

Business 341 covers topics such as business ethics, history of business management, management organization, and strategic planning. Mr. Wilson alternates teaching days with Mr. Doll. He said he enjoys teaching, but finds it "very demanding in terms of preparation time."

The former Fasco executive has a wide range of interests. He visited Russia in November and attended a recent Emerging Issues Forum in Raleigh, at which U.S. Secretary of Labor Robert Reich discussed President Clinton's economic reform plans. He is a trustee of the Fayetteville Museum of Art and a member of McPherson Presbyterian Church. His hobbies include: fishing, boating, reading, travel, and motorcycling.

Methodist's Executive-in-Residence tends to favor a democratic versus autocratic management style. "The greatest challenge facing U.S. business managers today," he said "is how to empower employees and give them a role to play in running the company and making decisions."

Spring Enrollment Tops 1,500

Methodist College began the Spring '93 semester with a total enrollment of 1,549, for an increase of 9 percent over Spring '92.

Day enrollment totalled 987, up 8 percent from last spring's 912. Enrollment in Spring Term I of Evening College was 562, up 23 percent from last spring's 456. The number of students living in the residence halls is 470, compared to 440 in Spring '92.

The college enrolled an additional 141 students in its two-week Interim Term Jan. 4-15. Enrollment in the second annual Interim Term exceeded that for December, 1991 by 137 percent.

Methodist's Fall '92 enrollment was 1,445. Of that number, 1,080 enrolled in the regular day program (the largest number ever) and 365 enrolled in the Evening College.

Methodist College has received 676 applications for Fall '93, 59 percent more than the 425 received by this time last year.

LOCAL GIVING UP 70 PERCENT

Early receipts from the Methodist College foundations 36th annual Community Loyalty Campaign indicate that local support for the college is growing. At the end of Loyalty Day— February 16, Cumberland County residents had contributed $85,795. That was 70 percent more than the $50,340 received at the same point in 1992. The foundation's goal for 1993 is $200,000.

Bob Exum, secretary/treasurer of VanStory-Exum Insurance Agency, is chairing the 1993 campaign and directing a team of 105 volunteer fund-raisers.

Dick Player, president of Player, Inc., chaired the 1992 Loyalty Fund Drive. That drive raised $237,781 from 728 contributors, exceeding the foundation's goal of $175,000 by 35 percent.

MC, MADERO TO EXCHANGE STUDENTS

Methodist College and Madero University in Puebla, Mexico have entered an exchange agreement that will allow foreign students to enroll for one semester at the host institution.

Dr. Arnal Guzman, associate professor of Spanish, is the program coordinator for Methodist College. Under the agreement, tuition and fees will be charged by the "home" institution. Housing and meals will be arranged by the "host" institution.

Exchange students will be responsible for transportation, personal expenses, and health insurance.

WRITERS' DAY DRAWS 180 HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

One hundred-eighty high school students attended the Methodist College English Department's second annual Writers' Day

February 1. Students attended writing workshops in five genres and heard readings by guest writers/instructors Phil Gerard of UNC-Wilmington, Robin Greene of Methodist College, and Tim McLaurin of UNC-Chapel Hill.

HARPSICHORD

Methodist College will dedicate its new harpsichord Saturday, April 17. The instrument was made possible by a challenge grant of $2,500 from the Florence Rogers Charitable Trust and individual gifts totalling $2,500.

Mrs. Lynda Beard, administrative assistant to the vice president for academic affairs, wrote the grant proposal. The Development Office raised the balance in a direct mail solicitation. Mrs. Beard and Dr. Mary Frances Boyce, instructor of music, assembled and finished the instrument, which was shipped to the college in kit form.

President and Mrs. Hendricks will host a reception and dinner for members of the trustees, alumni board, board of visitors, college foundation and donors to the harpsichord project. A dedication ceremony/recital will follow in the Alumni Dining Room, Berns Student Center.

The new harpsichord will also be featured during the Methodist College Chorus's spring concert Sunday afternoon, April 25. Mrs. Jane Weeks Gardiner, associate professor of music, will accompany the chorus in a performance of Bach's Cantata No. 106, "God's Time Is the Best Time."

In the future, the harpsichord will be used as a solo instrument by the piano faculty and as a chamber music instrument by the Methodist College Chamber Music Ensemble.

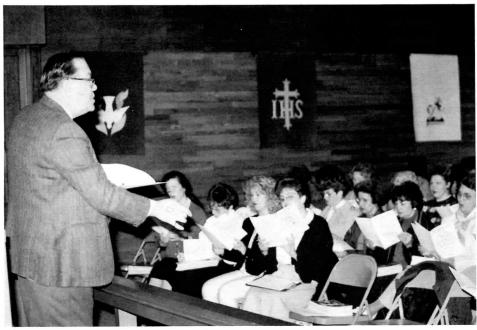

Students react as Tim McLaurin reads from Keeper of the Moon—about the awkwardness of his 'first date.'

REEVES SCHOOL OF BUSINESS ADDS PROGRAMS

The Reeves School of Business at Methodist College will add new degree programs in finance/economics, health care administration, and fashion merchandising/retail management this fall. Joe Doll, director of the Reeves School of Business, said the new programs were approved by the college faculty February 26. For more information, contact Mr. Doll (630-7046).

CLERGY FRIENDS ASSOCIATION ESTABLISHED

A Clergy Friends Association of Methodist College has been established. The Association consists of thirty-six ministers in the North Carolina Conference.

The membership is inclusive as to race, sex and age. Also, the membership will consist of ministers serving rural, urban, station and multi-church charges.

The formation of the Association was approved by the Methodist College Board of Trustees February 4, when Reverend Bill Sherman submitted the proposal on behalf of the Church and Community Relations Committee of the Board of Trustees.

The purpose of the Association is to orient the Association members to the mission and opportunities of Methodist College, assist in identifying and securing support for the present and future programs of the college, assist the college in accomplishing long-range plans, and make recommendations for the enrichment of the college.

Bill Lowdermilk, Vice President of Church and Community Relations, commenting on the Association, said, "This has been a dream for some time. I am pleased to see it become a reality. I believe many students will benefit from this Association, and I am confident that the College will be greatly enriched by it."

Mr. Sherman said, "This action puts the college on the cutting edge of new opportunities and all of us who care about Methodist College see it as a very positive step."

The first meeting of the Association will be held this spring.

CHAPEL RENOVATION

New generations of students call for innovative ways to meet their spiritual needs.

In response to where our current students are in their worship perspective, we want to replace the pews in Hensdale

Chapel with oak chairs. This change will allow us to have a variety of worship settings, such as worship in the round, to move the altar to the center of the chapel, and to reverse the altar setting to the south wall for lighting effects.

We are asking you to help in this project by making a gift of one hundred dollars. We hope to purchase 150 chairs, carpet the chapel, and secure a plaque listing the donors or persons being memorialized or honored, if the gift is so designated. We hope you will join us in this effort to respond to the worship needs of our current students.

ALUMNI BOARD ELECTS DIRECTORS, APPROVES PLANS

The Board of Directors of the Methodist College Alumni Association elected eight new directors and filled several vacancies at the group's winter meeting January 30. The board also approved action plans presented by the Chapters, Finance, and Homecoming committees.

Janet Mullen '72, vice president and chairman of the Nominations Committee, presented a lengthy slate of nominees for six board seats. After written ballots were tabulated, Mrs. Mullen announced that the following had been elected to threeyear terms: Jerry Keen '65, Larry Philpott '72, Betty Jo Dent '77, Kathy Stewart '81, Randy Egsegian '84, and Lisa Milligan '89.

The board elected the following to fill vacancies created by resignations: Mark Kendrick, third vice-president; Joan Pait, secretary; and directors—Julie Madison '82, Brenda McKimmons '89, James Malloy '78, Kathryn Offenhauser '87, and Sharon Weeding '90. Cal Violette '84 was elected chairman of the Special Events Committee.

Jerry Monday, chairman of the Chapters Committee, presented several recommendations for board consideration. They included creating a Fayetteville area chapter, identification of potential chapter leaders in three or four key areas (Fayetteville, Raleigh, Charlotte, Richmond), and sponsoring at least two social gatherings annually (not directly related to fundraising) in each area.

Director of Alumni Affairs Caroline Parsons said her office would be able to generate lists of alumni by geographic areas within the next few months. The board accepted the committee's recommendations, but changed the wording of one phrase in order not to exclude fundraising from chapter concerns. At the suggestion of Cynthia Walker, it was agreed that green and gold postcards would be printed for sending notices of chapter meetings.

Patric Zimmer, chairman of the Finance Committee, said his group had three main goals for 1993: 1) assist with the Annual Fund Drive in Cumberland County (Larry Philpott will be a Team Captain) 2) provide volunteers for the Alumni Phonathon in March (Phil Mullen will be the alumni liaison), and 3) sponsor an Alumni Golf Tournament at Homecoming.

Kathryn Öffenhauser, chairman of the Homecoming Committee, outlined events to be held at Homecoming Oct. 9. The theme will be "A Midsummer Night's Dream." She said Barbara Hogge had agreed to coordinate the alumni golf tourney. Mrs. Offenhauser reported that the tailgate party (lunch), Teacher Alumni Association breakfast, and alumni party (dance) would be continued, but that no Sunday events would be held. She said "phone trees" will be used extensively to invite members of the reunion classes to return to campus.

Mrs. Caroline Parsons and V.P. for Development Bev Pankey briefed the board on Annual Fund advance pledges and the effort to raise $500,000 for the new tennis and golf learning center.

After MCAA President Roger Pait adjourned the meeting, officers and board members attended a luncheon at the president's home.

Golden Corral Presents 20th Anniversary Gift To College

Officials of the Golden Corral Restaurant chain held a 20th anniversary party Jan. 13 in Fayetteville and presented Methodist College with a $20,000 gift.

In 1973, co-founder Jim Maynard used the Methodist College Library as his office, while developing plans for the first Golden Corral on Bragg Boulevard.

In appreciation of the college's hospitality, Maynard presented President Hendricks with a $20,000 check for Davis Memorial Library.

Director of Library Services Susan Pulsipher said the gift would be used toward computerizing the card catalog, for new shelving, and for buying new journals to support new curricula.

THEATRE DEPT. PREMIERES PLAY BY JACK PEYROUSE

The Methodist College Theatre Department will premiere an original play entitled The Will of R.D. or He Loves His Shakespeare As His Life April 1-4.

Written by Dr. Jack Peyrouse, professor of theatre and speech, the play chronicles life on the stage as experienced by Shakespearean actor R.D. MacLean from 1887-1945.

The play gives the audience a backstage glimpse of both classic drama and the trials of being an actor. All events and characters are based on facts gleaned from extensive research by Dr. Peyrouse.

The play stars Robert Bloodworth as R.D. MacLean, Edwina Lindsay as actress Marie Prescott (R.D.'s first wife), and Susan Paschal as actress Odelle Taylor (R.D.'s second wife). Mary Rowland is directing the play and Paul Wilson is the set designer.

The production features R.D. and Company in scenes from the following dramas: Secret Service, The Heart of Maryland, The Mission Play, The Taming of the Shrew, Julius Caesar, As You Like It, School for Scandal, and Romeo and Juliet.

The Will of R.D. will be done on-stage, backstage in Reeves Auditorium Friday-Sunday nights at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 3 p.m. Reservations are required, due to limited seating. Admission is $4 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens.

R. D. MacLean was born in New Orleans in 1859. He became an avid reader of Shakespeare during his teen years in Shepherdstown, West Virginia. He attended the College of William and Mary and the University of Virginia. MacLean was 20 years old when he made his acting debut as Brutus in Julius Ceasar. He formed his own touring company in 1886 and spent a total of 36 years performing on stage and in films. He received an honorary doctorate from the University of Southern California in 1928.

In 1891, R. D., was quoted as saying, "The Bible is the foundation of religion, and Shakespeare is the foundation of the stage. Take away the Bible and I would repudiate religion: take away Shakespeare and I would renounce the profession."

Faculty members Bob Bloodworth as R.D. MacLean and Susan Paschal as Odelle Taylor rehearse a scene from The Will of R.D.

MCCUNE, BLACK SHARE SECRETS OF SUCCESS

Simplicity and service are two ways to achieve entrepreneurial success.

That was the message brought by David McCune and Leonard Black, guest speakers at the first annual Charles M. Reeves Entrepreneurship Luncheon

Luncheon December 7. Mr. McCune and Mr. Black both started their own businesses in Fayetteville. McCune Technology, a sheet metal fabrication firm, was founded window louver for a Datsun 280-Z. "You have to have an idea to make money," said Mr. McCune. "Then you produce the product and advertise it." (He advertised his rear window louver in Auto Week magazine.)

Mr. McCune said it's important to "keep your product and your appeal simple." He also advised aspiring entrepreneurs to be persistent, to give money away, and to keep things in perspective (putting God first, family second, work third, and social interaction fourth.)

Leonard Black owns a chain of 15 health clubs known as Fitness Today of North Carolina. Prior to opening Fitness Today, he played professional football with the Toronto Argonauts and the Washington Redskins, worked in promotions for the Hagger Co., and operated a sports promotion firm.

"Good service is important" says Black. "I make my money on repeat business. Even in manufacturing, you have to be service-oriented. Fitness Today is a familyoriented operation."

Mr. Black recalled a universal challenge once put to him by the coach of the L.A. Rams: "God gave us all the ability to do something. We just have to learn what that is." He concluded his remarks by saying, "If you have an idea, pursue it."

Joe Doll, director of the Reeves School of Business, offered a final observation as he closed the first entrepreneurship luncheon, "Every entrepreneur I've known has a vision, plus the guts and determination to follow through."

Mr. Doll announced that the Reeves School of Business and the Center for Entrepreneurship would stage a second entrepreneurship luncheon on April 26, 1993. "In the future, we would like to hold one each semester," he said.

PRESIDENT APPOINTS STRATEGIC CONCEPTS COMMITTEE

Methodist College President Elton Hendricks recently appointed a Strategic Concepts Committee to assist in the development of long-range plans for the college.

Dr. Hendricks told the faculty February 19 that the committee would meet two hours per week for the remainder of the spring semester. He said the committee would consist of: himself as chairman, Dr. Erik Bitterbaum, vice president for academic affairs; Gene Clayton, vice president for business affairs; Alan Coheley, director of enrollment services; and faculty members Joe Doll, Jane Gardiner, and Emily Seamon.

"We want to have some recommendations for the trustees to consider at their planning retreat June 4-6," said Dr. Hendricks. He said he would ask the committee to consider the following questions:

- 1) What should our optimum enrollment be?
- 2) What kind of academic programs should we have?

3) What priorities should be given to new funds raised by he college?4) What are the pros and cons of changing the name of Methodist College?

Dr. Hendricks also briefed the faculty on a projected student housing shortage for Fall '93 and listed four options he had given the trustees for dealing with the problem. The options are: 1) Do nothing

2) Lease or purchase apartments near the campus.

3) Renovate the back row of 12 twobedroom apartments on campus to accommodate 48 students who cannot be housed in the residence halls.

4) Build new residential units—3,000 square feet of "cluster housing" to accommodate 50 students.

The college would need to borrow an estimated $810,000 to construct the housing, but would net about $236,000 in 1994-95 from 50 additional resident students.

The president said the trustees would have to approve new housing in May 1993 for new units to be ready by Fall 1994.

JIM & BONNIE BLANTON TAKE A STEP OF FAITH

he last year has been very rewarding for Jim Blanton '67 and his wife Bonnie. In December, 1991 the Blantons were accepted as missionaries by the South American Missionary Society. After two months of training in Detroit and four months of fundraising in the South Carolina Diocese of the Episcopal Church, they were sent to Honduras.

Jim is now the chief administrator (superintendent) of the Holy Trinity Episcopal School in La Ceiba, Honduras. His wife Bonnie is an English/Christian education/music teacher at the school, which serves 270 youngsters in grades K-6.

The Blantons took leave in November and came home for their son's wedding and their grandchildren's baptism. While they were in Fayetteville they visited Methodist and were interviewed for this article.

"On December 31, 1991 we moved out of our home in Marion, South Carolina," recalls Jim. "We pulled out our teacher retirement and lived 'on the road' until June. We took a step of faith."

As part of their commitment to the Missionary Society, the Blantons were required to raise $110,000-115,000 in pledges to underwrite a three-year tour. That meant they had to approach church members in their home diocese for financial support. The Blantons receive a minimal salary, plus room and board.

"We were members of the Church of the Advent in Marion," said Jim "Ours is a missionary diocese." "We spoke at different churches and stayed with church members. We promoted mission awareness in some churches where they know nothing about it. These were six of the best months of our lives."

> The missionary society sent Jim and Bonnie to visit four different Honduran schools in April. "We thought we were going to Tela," said Jim, "but when we got to La Ceiba, we knew that's where we belonged.

Like most parochial schools, Holy Trinity has a church sanctuary on the school grounds.

As superintendent, Jim is responsible for both the financial and the academic aspects of the school. He supervises a staff of 22. The school year begins in February and ends in November. The school day lasts from 7:30-4. Government-required

"One of my first tasks was to set long-range goals and clarify the purpose of the school," he noted. "I've used everything I've learned through experience on this job. We want to create an excellent Honduran school. We figure it will take about 10 years to achieve our long-

DUKE FACULTY STAGE PLAY BY LOCAL JOURNALIST

John Merritt, a retired Fayetteville newspaper editor and former Methodist College student, received a special honor in December, when Duke University faculty members presented a staged reading of his play Crisis at Trinity. Trinity refers to Trinity College in Durham, the forerunner of Duke University.

Mr. Merritt's play concerns academic freedom. It is based on the 1903 Bassett case, in which a Trinity College history professor, Dr. John Spencer Bassett, was pressured to resign after writing an article stating that blacks would someday have equality with whites.

A private reading was given by Duke faculty December 12 in Sheaffer Theater, Bryan Center. The reading was staged for trustees and invited guests as part of Founder's Day activities. By coincidence, a bust of Dr. Bassett was unveiled in the Rare Book Room of the Duke Library earlier in the day.

In the fall of 1903, Dr. Bassett wrote an article for the South Atlantic Quarterly, supporting political equality for blacks and criticizing white supremacists in the Democratic Party for stirring the fires of racial hatred. The professor was immediately vilified by the editor of The (Raleigh) News and Observer and other newspaper editors for insulting white Southerners. Several editors demanded Dr. Bassett's resignation.

Dr. John Kilgo, the president of Trinity College, leaders in the Methodist Church, and the Trinity trustees were pressured to fire Dr. Bassett. Dr. Bassett submitted his resignation, but the Trinity trustees voted 18-7 not to accept it and the professor remained at Trinity for another four years.

John Merritt first learned of the Bassett case while he was a student at UNC in the late 1940's. Joe Morrison, a journalism instructor at UNC, lectured about it.

"This incident was pivotal in Southern history," said Mr. Merritt. "It not only affirmed the principle of academic freedom, but also foreshadowed a change in the attitudes of Southern whites toward blacks. I grew up in Durham and heard many stories about Trinity College and the Duke family."

Mr. Merritt wrote the play over a fiveyear period beginning in 1984. In 1988, he took a playwriting course at Methodist College taught by Stephen Miles. He showed Miles a revised draft of the play, which then totalled 200 pages. He subsequently enrolled in another creative writing course and a North Carolina history course at Methodist. He said Dr. Michael Colonnese, his creative writing instructor, taught him "a tremendous amount about writing and editing."

"The play required a lot of research," said Mr. Merritt. "I used books from Davis Library at Methodist College, archives at Duke and in Raleigh, and newspaper accounts of the incident."

In 1991, Mr. Merritt's efforts were rewarded when the first act of his play was read at the North Carolina Playwrights Festival at UNC-Greensboro.

Early last year, Mr. Merritt sent a copy of his play to a journalist friend, Roland Giduz of Chapel Hill. Mr. Giduz liked the play and passed it on to Dale Randall, professor of English and romantic literature at Duke. After reading the play, Dr. Randall contacted Mr. Merritt and asked his permission to present a staged reading before Duke's Board of Trustees.

Dr. Randall and Yussef El Guindi, Duke playwright in residence, suggested some revisions and Mr. Merritt cut the play from three acts to two. Dr. John Clum, professor of English and theater, directed the play, casting fellow faculty members in the key roles. Following the actual reading, Dr. Robert Durden, professor of history, praised the historical accuracy of the play and led a discussion.

The play describes a special meeting of the Trinity College Board of Trustees held Dec. 1-2, 1903—at which the Bassett case was discussed. Mr. Merritt used some fictional characters and some real ones. Actual statements from those involved in the case are woven into the play.

U.S. Senator Folney Coleman, a fictional Democratic senator from North Carolina, and Dr. John Kilgo, the actual president of Trinity, square off in a heated debate which exposes the hate and intolerance for blacks felt by many North Carolinians. Dr. Kilgo offers a rigorous defense of Dr. Bassett, while dismissing the lynch-mob invective of some newspaper editors.

Although Mr. Merritt has the trustees voting 5-4 (with the chairman breaking a tie) not to accept Dr. Bassett's resignation, the play is historically accurate in all other respects.

Ironically, Duke officials forgot to invite Mr. Merritt to the reading. But several of Merritt's Durham friends did attend and pronounced it a success. In a subsequent letter to Mr. Merritt, Dr. Clum wrote, "There is strong feeling that this should be an annual event...there is no doubt that Crisis at Trinity was a crowd pleaser...Thanks for writing such an important script."

Mr. Merritt, who describes himself as "a young 70," recently sent a copy of his play to the UNC School of Journalism and Mass Communication. The playwright feels strongly that the issues of academic freedom and racism raised by the Bassett case are still worth discussing, particularly in North Carolina.

ABOUT MR. MERRITT:

After graduating from UNC in 1949, John L. Merritt began a 34-year career as a newspaper editor. He worked for the Durham Morning Herald, the Greensboro

Daily News, and finally The Fayetteville Observer. After retiring in 1984, he took a variety of courses at Fayetteville Technical Community College and at Methodist College.

FOR BUSH, QUAYLE

BRUCE PULLIAM GOES TO COLLEGE

By Scott Yates © The Fayetteville Observer Times December 17, 1992

It may not count for much, but Fayetteville resident Bruce Pulliam on Monday got to vote one last time for George Bush and his distant cousin—Dan Quayle.

Mr. Pulliam is a member of the Electoral College from North Carolina, which Mr. Bush carried in the November general election.

Because of that, Secretary of State Rufus Edmisten invited the state's 14 Republican Electoral College members to a formal ceremony in Raleigh to cast their ballots.

Mr. Pulliam, 69, a retired history and political science teacher, said the results of the presidential election won't be official until Congress meets in January and Mr. Quayle reads the Electoral College ballots from across the nation.

Mr. Pulliam said he enjoyed being part of the process.

"There were some very good speeches made, and it was a very formal ceremony," he said. "I think we all went out in a blast of glory. Even though our party did not win the national election, I think we North Carolinians can hold our heads high and say we supported our ticket."

No votes were cast for Ross Perot or Pat Buchanan at the ceremony, perhaps for a reason.

In the 1968 general election, a member of the college refused to cast a ballot for Richard Nixon, who carried the state, and instead voted for George Wallace.

After that, Mr. Pulliam said, the state passed a law requiring the electors to vote for the person who carried the state or be removed from the college and fined $500.

"We all had to sign official documentation, and one official copy will be sent to Washington," Mr. Pulliam said. "It is a ceremony that has not always been followed."

Mr. Pulliam said the Democrats broke tradition. The electors came to Raleigh, signed a paper and left. No ceremony, no glory, no pomp, he said.

"One year, they just came and were given scratch pieces of paper to sign," Mr. Pulliam said.

The ceremony has been held the last three presidential elections, Mr. Pulliam said. "Republicans always do things with class." The ceremony was attended by the state's top Republicans, including Gov. Jim Martin.

Mr. Pulliam was selected to the college as a representative from the 7th Congressional District. The electors are paid $44 and 17 cents a mile.

"Since Dan Quayle is a distant, distant cousin of mine, I think that is one reason they gave me that honor," he said.

Mr. Pulliam's father, grandfather and great-grandfather were all Republicans. "I have always been active in the party, from the courthouse to the White House," he said.

He has run for the Cumberland County Board of Education and the General Assembly. He blames both losses on being a member of the Republican Party at a time when admitting such affiliations was admitting defeat especially right after Watergate. That's when Mr. Pulliam ran for the General Assembly.

"I wanted to make sure people had a choice and to show there were qualified Republicans out there," Mr. Pulliam said. "If you want to find out who your friends are, run for office."

Despite setbacks at the polls, Mr. Pulliam has always remained active in the party. For 25 years, he was the adviser for the Young Republicans Club at Methodist College.

"I have been faithful going to county, district and state conventions as a delegate and have even done research for the Republican Party looking into the background of candidates," he said.

That's not to mean he was looking for skeletons. "No, no, no," he said with a chuckle, "researching voting records and things like that."

Mr. Pulliam calls himself a moderate Republican. He said he is conservative on economic matters and liberal on social ones. "That's my Quaker influence, I guess."

Mr. Pulliam said he will watch the political process closely during the next four years. He said he wants to see if Bill Clinton can keep the promises he made during the campaign.

"As a good Republican, we will say, as General MacArthur did, 'we shall return,' Old Republicans do not fade away. They will always return."

R-M PRESIDENT TELLS DECEMBER GRADUATES:

'ALWAYS BE HONORABLE... THOUGH YOU MAY

Winter graduates of Methodist College December 18 were advised to "always be honorable, even though you may never be recognized or honored for it."

Dr. Ladell Payne, president of Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, Virginia, told 85 graduating seniors that everyone can't be a winner, but that "unsung heroes, the unrecognized, and also-rans" can be worthy of honor if they exemplify passion, sacrifice, and endurance. Dr. Payne said he agreed with the late William Faulkner, who said, "I believe that man will not merely endure, but will prevail. He is immortal because he has a soul, capable of passion, sacrifice, and endurance." Twenty-one members of the winter class graduated with honors—12 "cum laude," seven "magna cum laude", and two "cum laude". Dr. Elton Hendricks, college president, presented the third annual Sam Edwards Award to Mrs. Judith W. Blake of Hope Mills, denoting her selection by the faculty as the outstanding evening student.

A senior contract specialist at Fort Bragg, Mrs. Blake received a B.S. degree in history (magna cum laude) and an A.A degree in Bulgarian. She has chaired the Fort Bragg Federal Women's Program Committee, served as secretary of the Hope Mills Chamber of Commerce, worked on the boards of the Fayetteville Symphony Orchestra Association and the Dance Theatre of Fayetteville, and done volunteer work with the Red Cross, Girl Scouts, and Boy Scouts.

In other commencement activities, Fernando Martinez, a history major from El Salvador, presented his country's flag to the college. Roger Pait, president of the Methodist College Alumni Association, welcomed the new members of the Class of '92. A list of winter graduates follows: BACHELOR OF ARTS

ENSURE A BRIGHTER TOMORROW-JOIN THE MCES

As student needs continue to grow along with Methodist College enrollment, it becomes increasingly important for the College's assets to multiply. This can happen in several ways.

Each year Methodist College conducts an Annual Fund Campaign to provide for operating costs. Presently, our operating budget is approximately $12 million and it will continue to grow. Generous unrestricted and restricted annual gifts from businesses, friends, and alums help provide this source of revenue, along with the United Methodist Church and its agencies, trustees, various boards and the Independent College Fund of North Carolina.

The single most important area of revenue growth for any independent college is its endowment fund. Thoughtful outright gifts are important in meeting today's needs, but of equal importance for the future survival of Methodist College are the needs of tomorrow and your assistance in meeting them.

There are four primary ways of providing support to the Methodist College Endowment:

- Outright gifts of cash, securities, property
- · Gifts through bequests

- Gifts with retained life income and interest
- Gifts of life insurance

We urge you to take the time to consider a planned gift and join the Methodist College Endowment Society (MCES). We would be happy to provide you with additional information if you would call the Development Office at (919) 630-7170.

We extend our deepest sympathies to: —The family of Master Sergeant John Fletcher Green (Ret.) following his death. He is survived by his wife Jean and two children. He worked in the Methodist College Maintenance Department for 10 years.—

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL TEAM WINS DIXIE TITLE

The Methodist College women's basketball team ended the regular season with an overall record of 14-10 and a first place Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference mark of 8-2. The first place Dixie Conference regular season mark was a first for the Lady Monarch basketball program.

The Lady Monarchs came up two points shy of repeating as the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Tournament Champions as they took on archrival Christopher Newport in the Championship round of the 1993 DIAC Tournament. With 2.4 seconds remaining in regulation time, their dreams of a repeat championship faded as Cynthia Allen sank the go-ahead basket to push the Lady Captains to the 85-83 victory.

Both teams played inspired basketball throughout the game, with several lead changes taking place. Methodist went into the half with a 49-44 lead. The Lady Monarchs opened the second half with a cold spurt as Christopher Newport pushed to a 69-59 lead at the 13-minute mark. At the 6:55 mark Methodist pulled to within 3 points with a 73-70 score. With 43 seconds remaining the game was tied at 81.

was fouled with 33 seconds on the clock and put on the line for a one-and-one opportunity. Barefoot sank both free throws to push the score to 83-81. Senior Daphne Akridge (Bassett, VA) scored for the Lady Monarchs with 16 seconds to tie the score at 83. With regulation time running down, Katina Thorne (So., Fayetteville, NC) blocked a Karen Barefoot shot. Methodist recovered the loose ball, but lost the handle as CNU took control and scored to seal the victory.

This was the type of battle one would expect from two talented teams. Either team could have gone away with the victory. The game was dominated by aggressive defensive play on both ends of the floor and never lacked emotional or physical intensity.

Angie Garner (Jr., Angier, NC) and Novella McMillan (So., Fayetteville, NC) were named to the All-Tournament team. In the championship contest, Garner scored 19 points on 6 of 9 shooting from the floor and 7 of 8 from the charity stripe. Garner also grabbed 13 rebounds.

McMillan scored 16 points in the contest while shooting 50% from the floor and a perfect 6 of 6 from the foul line.

Daphne Akridge was named to the first team All-Conference squad, while McMillan was selected second team All-Conference.

Significant wins this season included a 79-72 overtime victory at home against Christopher Newport. This win set the (Please see BASKETBALL page 18)

Tough Schedule Takes toll On Monarchs

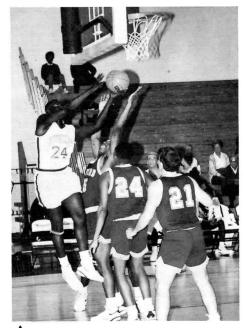

The Monarch men's basketball team ended the season with an overall mark of 6-19 and a Dixie Conference record of 3-8.

Youth and inexperience showed early, as the team got off to a 0-13 start before defeating Piedmont Bible College 95-62 January 26. The team returned only two seniors.

On January 30 the Monarchs captured their first Dixie Conference road victory in four years by defeating Averett College 77-58. Methodist experienced success on the road again against NC Wesleyan, handing the Battling Bishops a 65-58 defeat. Two days later in the March F. Riddle Center the Monarchs captured their third Dixie Conference victory of the season with a 69-66 win over the Cougars. With three conference victories, the Monarchs ended the regular season in a tie for fourth place with NC Wesleyan. On the coin toss Methodist received home court advantage in the first round of the DIAC Tournament.

In first round play against NC Wesleyan February 23, the Monarchs never got on track offensively as they shot 24% from the floor in the first half and only 32% for the game, while the Battling Bishops shot 48%. The Monarchs lost 71-54 to end the season.

First Year Coach Bob McEvoy feels the Monarchs improved considerably during the season and played better than the winloss record indicates. He said several young players—Eric Rhew, Troy Pennington, and Bill Nebrich—preformed well.

BRANDON BRIDGERS IN CENTER FIELD.

BASEBALL COACH NAMED SOUTH REGION COACH OF THE YEAR

Monarch Baseball Coach Tom Austin has been named South Region Coach of the Year for the fifth time.

During his 13-year career he has compiled an overall record of 423-151, while leading his teams to NCAA tournament play 12 consecutive years. His teams have won both the South Region and Dixie Conference championships four times. His '91 and '92 squads participated in the Collegiate World Series. Coach Austin is currently ranked fifth on the list of winningest active Division III coaches.

FOOTBALL PLAYER NAMED TO ALL AMERICAN TEAM

Wide receiver Rich Jinette was recently named to the NCAA Division III All American Football Team.

He averaged 18.2 yards per punt return and 34.2 yards per kickoff return, finishing second in the nation in both categories.

Coach Jim Sypult described Jinette as "a great weapon for our football team whose desire to succeed and work ethic set an example for the younger players."

A business major from Grandview, WA, Jinette graduated in December and now works for Wal-Mart in Sanford, NC.

BASEBALL SQUAD SHOWS STRENGTH AT ALL POSITIONS

Coach Tom Austin has high expectations for the 1993 Monarch baseball team.

The team returns an experienced outfield, including left fielder Joe Myrtle and center fielder Brandon Bridgers. Both have been starters since their arrival at Methodist.

Right field still remains an open position, with Brian Steinhagen, a returning player and Matt Berry, a transfer from UNC-G, competing for that position. The outfield also has good depth with freshmen Craig Spence and Tony Palombizio.

The infield is loaded with talented players as well. Andy Nelson will see duties behind the plate. "Nelson calls a good game and possesses occasional power at the plate," said Coach Austin. Cheyenne Brooks will handle backup catching duties.

First base is up for grabs. Brad Parker, Shane Bagby, and transfer Todd Boyette are in a three-way battle for the position. All three are excellent defensively and swing the bat well.

Mike Williams will see action at second base. Williams possesses a good range, but needs to develop consistency and needs to mature as a hitter.

The shortstop belongs to Mark Roncace. Roncace was instrumental in solidifying Methodist as a defensive team last season. Paul Boehm will back up both second base and shortstop.

Chris Horton should get the call at third base. He is solid defensively and after a year's experience, his batting should improve as well.

Chris Culbreth should see action somewhere on the field. He is an overall good player, possessing good speed, excellent power at the plate and solid defense.

The designated hitter position is also up for grabs. Cheyenne Brooks or Brian Steinhagen are contending for this position.

The 1993 team possesses a fairly solid group of pitchers. Two local talents—Brian Ford and Matt Boucher—will be starting. Derek Covell, Ricky Young, Paul Knight and Johnny Faircloth are battling for position in the rotation. Short relievers will be Jeff Hewett and Chad Hathaway. Bradley Graham, Terry Whitfield, Bill Hughes, and Don Pavlick are competing for middle relief duties.

Team morale is extremely high. Captains Paul Knight, Andy Nelson, and Joe Myrtle should provide the leadership to keep the team focused through the lows and over the peaks.

WOMEN'S GOLF TEAM RANKED No. 1 IN NATION

The Methodist College women's golf team is ranked No. 1 nationally in the Division III poll. Four of the top six golfers are Lady Monarchs. Kelly Cap is ranked No. 1 individually, while Elizabeth Horton, Allyson Greer and Ana Rodriguez are ranked 3rd, 4th and 6th respectively.

This season the team seeks its seventh national title in the eight-year program. The spring season opens March 10 with the Northern Illinois Snowbird Intercollegiate to be played at Pebble Creek Country Club in Tampa, Fl.

Allyson Greer, last year's national champion, returns healthy after an extended illness in the fall, which caused her to miss one tournament and score well below her standard of play in two other tournaments.

Two newcomers, Amy Hoke (Conroe, Tx), and Michelle Jakren (Tonawanda, NY), have been added to the 1993 spring roster.

a 79-stroke average, followed by Elizabeth Horton with an 80 average.

Methodist won the Division I James Madison Invitational, making that tournament the highlight of the fall.

Small College Nationals will be hosted by Mt. Holyoke at South Hadley, Mass. on the Orchards Course May 10-12.

TENNIS TEAMS LOOK STRONG

The men's and women's tennis teams face challenging schedules.

Ranked 24th in the nation among NCAA Division III schools, the men's team, led by Mark Faber, will compete against highly-ranked teams such as the University of the South and Principia. The Emory Tournament in Atlanta will offer the players the opportunity to prove themselves among some of the toughest teams

MC's No. 1 doubles team of Mark Faber and Scott Pickrel hold a ranking of No. 10 in the South Region and are working toward NCAA competition.

The women's team, also ranked 24th in the nation, is led by senior Tracy Maness. Tracy has a national ranking of 27 in singles and 21 in doubles with her partner Janna Bias. The team will travel to Hilton Head for tough match play and training.

Both the men's and women's teams are hoping to continue their tradition as Dixie Conference Champions. The women have won four consecutive years and the men have won two consecutive years.

Dr. Theresa Warrell, first-year head coach, is very optimistic about a successful spring season.

The MC tennis teams will play their last home match April 7 at 3:00 p.m. against Guilford College.

stage for a successful Dixie Conference regular season. The team also handed Meredith College a 64-61 loss. At the time of the contest Meredith was unbeaten, with a mark of 14-0, and ranked 6th in the South Region.

MC Sponsors GREAT AMERICAN TENNIS CHALLENGE

The Methodist College Tennis Management Program recently brought The Great American Tennis Challenge to the Fayetteville area.

The Challenge offers adult tennis players the opportunity to compete in one of 12 divisions over an eight-week period, March 8-April 30. The top 16 finishers in each division will compete for prizes and titles during a Citywide Championship Tournament at Methodist May 8-9.

The Great American Tennis Challenge originated in Tampa, Florida in 1991 and was recently named the Best Recreational Adult Tennis Program of 1992 by the U.S. Tennis Association. It matches partners of similar skill levels and establishes a countywide ranking system.

"The biggest problem for most recreational tennis players is finding suitable partners," said Dr. Theresa Warrell, director of Methodist's Tennis Management Program. "This challenge will solve that problem."

The Great American Tennis Challenge is being sponsored locally by WKFT-TV 40, Pizza Hut, Q98 (WQSM) Radio, and Coca Cola.

SOFTBALL SQUAD Shows Promise

Softball Coach Karen Smith will look to an experienced group of returnees and a talented crew of newcomers to capture a fourth consecutive Dixie Conference title.

Kim Miller (So., Jacksonville, NC) will see action behind the plate. Pitching duties will go to freshman Monica Dunn (Fredricksburg, VA), an experienced fast pitch player.

The infield, while young, is loaded with talent. Freshman Alisa Lipe (Salisbury, NC) will play first base. Junior Anne Uleman (Fairfax, VA) returns this season after sitting out last season with a knee injury. Wendy Wear (So., Merry Hill, NC) will be in the hot box at third base. Shortstop will belong to Sandra Tripp (Fr., Reidsville, NC).

GOLF TEAM RETURNS TOP PLAYERS

The men's golf team begins the 1993 season with the goal of a fourth consecutive NCAA Division III national title. Coach Steve Conley begins his sixth season at the helm.

Four of the five players from last year's national championship team will be returning. They are: Bill Anderson (Sr., Hollidaysburg, PA), Eric Haile (Sr., Chalfont, PA), Dave Jukes (Jr., Orwigsburg, PA), and Ryan Jenkins (So., Colonial Heights, VA).

The 1993 spring schedule is loaded with challenging tournaments. The team will defend its championship in the Gordin Collegiate Classic, featuring the top 12 Division III teams in the country. At the Dixie Conference Tournament April 18-20, the Monarchs will try to avenge last year's loss to archrival Greensboro College. The National Championship will be held at Torrey Pines South Course in San Diego, CA.

NEW TRACK COACH OPTIMISTIC

In the wake of the Monarchs' Fourth Place finish at the indoor conference championships, Track Coach Brian Cole feels the team is poised to make a run at the "Top Three" in the Mason-Dixon Conference.

Heading the list of returnees is Jamelle Ushery (So., Albany NY), who will compete in both hurdling events and in the two relays. Brett Dietrich (Jr., Fayetteville, NC) will be a top contender in the 3000m steeplechase.

Other returnees expected to make a major contribution are: second year performer Jon Garner (Raleigh, NC) mid-distance and Cape Fear HS graduate Derrick Johnson (So.) in the throws.

The team will include three freshmen, including two who have already captured

Lionel Washington (New Orleans, LA) ran a time of 6.57 sec. to bring home the 55m dash crown, and Brett Caincanelli (Chicago Heights, IL) won the triple jump.

Another freshman who will contribute greatly is Travis Armstrong (Gastonia, NC) in the high jump. Other newcomers are Erick Williams (Ashoske, NC) sprints, Ronnie Capobianco (Coconut Beach, FL)—sprints, Dan Jackson (Albany, NY throws, and Alexander Richardson (Pennsicola, FL) —mid-distance.

Paula Miller Heads Career Planning & Placement Office

Paula Miller has assumed the newlycreated position of director of career planning and placement at Methodist College. Ms. Miller began her duties Jan. 15 and will answer to Vice President for Student Affairs Mike Safley. Ms. Miller formerly worked as an executive assistant at the Fayetteville Area Chamber of Commerce and as an admissions representative at Cabrini College in Radnor, PA. She holds a B.A. degree in psychology from Washington College in Chestertown, MD and is currently working on a master's in counseling at Pembroke State University.

The newest member of the Student Affairs staff will be housed in the Eubank Career Counseling and Placement Office in the Berns Student Center. Ms. Kathy Woltz will continue as Director of Counseling/Testing, with offices in the south wing of the Berns Student Center.

While her primary task will be to help graduates find jobs, Ms. Miller said, "I would like to work with students throughout their four years here in career development—shaping and achieving their career goals." She said she will also work to bring more recruiters to Methodist to interview students for jobs.

Alumni Can Help Students Network!

Are you willing to:

- Provide an internship?
- Notify the Career Planning & Placement Office of entry-level positions with your company?
- Conduct a seminar on interviewing, resume writing, job searching, etc.?
- Lead a class discussion about your profession and the future outlook for that occupation?

Please contact the Career Planning and Placement Office, 630-7279, if you can assist current students with their career goals.

The Career Center resources are available to alumni to assist with your changing career goals and needs.

COLLEGE OFFERS SPECIAL OPPORTUNITY TO HONOR A LOVED ONE

A special opportunity to honor a loved one, living or deceased, has been established at Methodist College. A person may be honored by having their name placed on a street or parking area on the campus. Honor named streets and/or parking areas will provide a continuing memorial for the persons honored in a visible, meaningful, and lasting manner. Donors will have the option of selecting a street or parking area as long as they remain available. The naming of a street or parking area is not restricted to graduates of Methodist, rather the College is seen as a community asset with over 75,000 persons visiting the campus annually for conferences, concerts, and athletic events; therefore, anyone's name may be chosen as an honored name. All funds received will be used to help build the Methodist College Endowment Fund and are fully tax-deductible. Parties interested in this program may contact B. S. Pankey, Vice President for Development, at (919) 630-7169 to obtain location of streets/parking areas, size of the endowment gift, and other details.

The 1992 Annual Fund Campaign is now history, and it will be recorded in our books as a record year. The campaign brought in $237,781 from unrestricted, restricted and gifts-in-kind contributions within Cumberland County and $308,756 in gifts from outside Cumberland County-great work over all!

Special thanks are due Mr. Dick Player who led the campaign, Dr. Stan Griffin, Foundation Board President who coordinated solicitations, and to all the Volunteers who gave so generously of their time and resources.

For over three decades Methodist College has been committed to providing a quality education. The work of our Board of Trustees, Board of Visitors, Foundation Board, and Alumni Association Board, together with our staff, reflects this proud heritage. The Fayetteville community has always encouraged our students by supporting a college that nurtures the mind and the spirit. The growing national reputation of Methodist College, our record enrollments, the improved physical facilities, and new educational equipment are important developments. The past 30 plus years of support by our neighbors in Fayetteville and the Methodist College alumni around the world have enabled the college to strengthen its traditional programs and develop new initiatives which are making a real difference in the lives of our students. Our supporters are helping to strengthen a college committed to a well-trained mind and a caring spirit.

We are also grateful for the support of the United Methodist Church and its agencies, the Independent College Fund of North Carolina, various foundations, and numerous other donors whose support brings many deserving students to our campus.

We look forward to continued growth and improvement. We hope you will be a part of the life of Methodist College in the coming year and give generously when asked to help us "Reach New Heights in 1993"

Sincerely,

Elh Hudrich M. Elton Hendricks
