COLLEGE ENROLLS 1,837, 12% MORE THAN LAST YEAR

Methodist College began its 35th academic year by enrolling a record 1,826 students, 12 percent more than last fall's opening figure of 1,628.

A total of 1,237 students enrolled in the regular day program, while 589 enrolled in Fall Term I of Evening College. Day enrollment was up 10 percent over last fall's 1,126, while evening enrollment was up 17 percent over a Fall '93 figure of 503. The day enrollment of 1,237 is particularly significant, marking the first time Methodist has reached its original design capacity of 1,200.

"We are excited that a record number of students have enrolled at Methodist," said Dr. Elton Hendricks, college president. "Rising enrollment brings with it new challenges, but we are planning to expand our facilities in the next few years to accommodate continued growth."

A total of 656 students are living in the six residence halls, 51 more than last fall. A new residence hall for 56 women opened for the first time. Garber Hall now houses men.

Methodist enrolled 550 new students—330 freshmen and 220 transfers—and 687 returning students. The number of new students increased 3.7 percent, while the number of returning students was up 15 percent.

Methodist began its 35th academic year with a new academic dean and 11 new full-time faculty members.

At the faculty orientation meeting August 18, Dr. Tony DeLapa, vice president for academic affairs, urged the faculty to help build community and pride in the college and to show a cooperative spirit as the college strives to meet new goals and objectives.

Dr. Elton Hendricks, beginning his 12th year as college president, spoke of the "third dimension" of education in a fall convocation address September 12. (See separate article in this issue.)

The new full-time faculty and athletic staff includes: Stephen Atstupenas, assistant professor of physical education and athletic trainer; Elizabeth Belford, associate professor of education; Patricia Buelow, public service librarian and associate director of Davis Memorial Library; John Humphreys, instructor of speech, debate coach; Erin Johnson, athletic trainer; Cheryl L. Kremer, assistant professor of business administration, director of Retail Management/Fashion Merchandising program; Gary Long, assistant professor of history; Michael Potts, assistant professor of philosophy; Michael Sullivan, assistant professor of health care administration; Joyce Z. White, professor and director of social work; Jeff Zimmerman, assistant professor of economics and finance.

DR. HENDRICKS EXTOLS 'EDUCATION OF THE THIRD KIND'

The following are excerpts from President Hendricks' remarks at the opening convocation September 12. "...The year was 1959. I was two years out of college and the navy ship on which I was serving was going to be docked in Manhattan in New York City for three days. I had liberty...I arrived at the automat at lunch time, made a couple of purchases and began to look for a seat. It was very crowded. The place I saw was at a table where an old man was sitting alone. I asked if I could join him. He agreed. I placed my packages on a chair at the table and ate my lunch with this stranger.

Now in today's vocabulary we would have labeled this old man as one of the homeless, a street person. He had not shaved recently nor, it appeared, had he bathed. His clothes were wrinkled, ill-fitting and mismatched. He told me that he lived alone, a few blocks from the automat.

We talked briefly but I was in a hurry to return to my ship and I ate quickly and left. I was five blocks away when I realized that my wonderful gifts were still in the automat. In my haste I had forgotten them.

I sprinted the five blocks back to the automat—I was in good condition in those days. I was oblivious to traffic lights, automobiles and startled pedestrians. It was a fine example of broken field running. I knew that my packages were gone...

When I panted my way into the automat the old man was still at the table—guarding my gifts. He said, "I knew that you would come back."

I do not know who the man was. He did not know me, but his kindness to me that day, his empathy for my need changed my life. He could have gone about his business. He could have stolen my gifts. He could have ignored my need. But he did not. He waited...

John Smith of the National Humanities Institute at Yale notes that historically Western society has recognized three dimensions to education. First, education has the task of stocking the mind with knowledge including the ability to think clearly and critically and to communicate effectively in writing and speaking. Second, education has the task of preparing a person to engage in some vocation or profession as a means of livelihood. But important as these two dimensions undoubtedly are, Smith says that the third and most important task of education is "the aim and task of developing civilized persons—those who have the self-knowledge, the self-control, and the sense of responsibility and the ideals and concerns that make it possible for them to live in a civilized society committed to the realization of freedom and justice. Without this third dimension, all of our knowledge is in vain and our vocations and professions fall to the level of mere competitive struggles for money and power...

The urgent question for us is, can this almost lost dimension of education be recovered? I believe that the answer is yes if—and I would emphasize—but only if we can succeed in making the humanities come alive and fulfill their essential role which is, and always has been, contributing to the development of civilized persons.

Man is a knower and maker, but it takes little historical knowledge to become aware of the fact that all knowledge and all activity can be put to evil and destructive end...

Civilization will not survive unless we deliberately and intentionally work for its survival, unless we educate persons for responsible citizenship. Every successful group—family, team, college or civilization—must have those who work for the good of the whole. That important task is the third dimension of education. But, we have to be intentional and deliberate because there are many forces working against civilization...

There are many things that are causing our civilization to fly apart. We need to educate citizens to provide the cultural nuclear glue. Historically, that has been the function of a liberal education in general and of the humanities in particular...

My friend in the automat thirty-five years ago taught me that it is possible to be kind, considerate and helpful even to a stranger—to someone from a different culture or tradition. That is the essence of civilization and of a religion whose founder taught that we should love even our enemies."

'EMERGING AND DIVERGING' ARTISTS

The Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County is currently exhibiting sculptures, paintings and prints of four Methodist College art students in an exhibition entitled "Emerging and Diverging". The exhibit runs through October 30 at The Arts Center on Hay Street.

Jeff Baker, Yvonne Hair-Pearce, Rodney Harris and Etsuko Martin are students of Silvana Foti, chairperson of Methodist's Art Department. Their award-winning work demonstrates the diversity in Fayetteville's developing artists.

Jeff Baker's hand-carved and decorated miniature animals are humorously placed in human situations yielding unusual social commentary.

Yvonne Hair-Pearce often frames her prints, drawings, and collages with hand-cast sculptural objects or found objects.

The content of her work is often concerned with political issues.

In the sculptures of Rodney Harris, it appears as if human body parts are pushing through solid brick walls demonstrating struggle and creation. His surrealistic drawings demonstrate similar conflicts and puzzles of the self and are reminiscent of M.C. Escher.

Etsuko Martin, originally from Okinawa, Japan, sculpts large minimalist, sometimes androgynous, figures from clay, adding on other objects and glazes. These figures are placed in precarious situations that reflect dark and haunting truths in the juxtaposition of American and oriental folklore tales. Her piece "David and Kintare" won the People's Choice Award in the Arts Council's Annual Juried Art Competition and Exhibition.

YOUR GIFT CAN LIVE FOREVER

You can be a part of ensuring the future financial security of Methodist College through MCES—the Methodist College Endowment Society.

Planned gifts from alumni and friends provide long-term stability, since money is irrevocably set aside for future use by the college and only the earnings are spent. As those earnings increase over time, your planned gift gives more and more. Currently the endowment stands at just over $4 million, an amount that must be increased significantly in the future. Ideally, the minimum endowment should equal the college's annual operating budget which is over $15 million for the current fiscal year.

MCES is currently comprised of 91 members. The goal is to increase our membership each year until we have sufficient funds designated to equal the amount of our annual operating budget. Please contact Bev Pankey, VP Development, (910) 630-7169, for information on how you can join the MCES.

FOOTBALL TEAM OPENS WITH WIN AGAINST CHOWAN

Methodist Wins Season Opener

Methodist began its season with a 24-9 win over Chowan College in Murfreesboro September 3.

The Braves struck first on a 51-yard touchdown run by Brian Tynes with 6:57 left in the opening quarter. Methodist retaliated with a four-yard touchdown pass from Oscar Braun to Jesse Iverson with 8:37 left in the second quarter, however Tony Bugeja missed the extra point leaving the score 7-6. The Braun-Iverson connection continued when the two teamed up for another four-yard touchdown pass with 1:16 left in the half. Braun then hit Derek George for the two point conversion, sending the Monarchs into the locker room with a 14-7 lead.

Methodist used the kicking game to strike first in the second stanza when Bugeja drilled a 38-yard field goal to make the score 17-7 with 9:23 left in the third quarter. After a Chowan safety, the Monarchs Earl Fountain closed out the scoring for the afternoon, returning an interception 88-yards for a touchdown with 14:43 left in the final quarter.

Lamont Evans led the way for Methodist on the ground, rushing for 41 yards on 13 carries. Decarlos West was impressive in his first collegiate game rushing for 36-yards on 12 carries. Iverson led the way in receptions catching seven passes for 80 yards. Braun finished the game with 126 yards passing, 20 attempts, and two touchdowns.

Guilford Triumphs

Guilford College spoiled Methodist's quest to win its second consecutive home opener, with a 13-12 win over the Monarchs on September 10 at Monarch Field.

Methodist struck first with a 78-yard touchdown pass from Oscar Braun to Jesse Iverson with :53 left in the first quarter. Tony Bugeja's point after was no good. However, with :36 left Guilford's own Junior Lord, returned the ensuing kickoff 92-yards for a touchdown. The extra point put the Quakers up 7-6.

In the fourth quarter the Monarchs struck first when Phillip Bemby ran 84-yards for a touchdown, putting Methodist up 12-7 with the two point conversion coming up short. Guilford took the lead for good when Dan Strelkauskas ran for a one-yard touchdown to put the Quakers up 13-12.

With Guilford missing their two-point conversion, Methodist still had hope but that was spoiled with just over 2:00 left in the game when Brad Smith intercepted a Braun pass at the Guilford 33-yard line.

Lamont Evans led the way for the Monarchs with 22 yards on eight carries and Danny Sadler added 37 yards on three carries.

Iverson turned in another big week with two receptions for 106 yards. Braun threw for over 100 yards for the second straight week on six for 20 passing and 162 yards.

Steve Burton led the way on the defensive end recording 13 sacks, including 11 unassisted.

The '94 Outlook

The Methodist College football team is coming off its most successful season in its short five-year history, turning in a 4-6 record and equalling their win total of the previous four years.

"The first thing we had to do was to overcome the past four years," said second year Head Coach Jim Sypult. "Our kids had to get into their mind that they could win and play with the teams on our schedule. I think we did that."

The 1994 campaign will mark Methodist's sixth season of football, with the Monarchs sporting the largest retention rate ever and the largest recruiting class since the inception of the program. "We could potentially have 130 players on our team this year," said Sypult. "Although I think a more realistic figure would be somewhere around 100-110. We're going to show depth rarely seen at the Division III level."

Actually, depth is probably an understatement when referring to this year's team. According to Sypult, the Monarchs will return all but three starters to this season's squad. "We will return eight offensive and all 11 starters this season and can start an upperclassman at every position except quarterback.

The Methodist defense returns several players to this year's team, including standout linebackers Steve Burton and Britt Morton. Burton (Swoope, VA), a junior, led the Monarchs in tackles last year with 94 (28 unassisted) and fumble recoveries (three). He was also third in sacks with 4 1/2 (-38). Morton (Apex, NC), a senior, was second on the team in tackles with 79 (34 unassisted).

Another key returnee on the defensive side will be junior Eric Abendschein (Fayetteville, NC). Sophomores Earl Fountain (Danville, VA) and Jermaine Parks (Goldsboro, NC) proved to be "big play guys" their rookie year, and Todd Townsend (Parkton, NC), David Strickland (Gates, NC), and Joe Courcelle (Ft. Lauderdale, FL) are expected to see plenty of action.

Lamont Evans (Wade, NC), and Keljin Adams (Ocala, FL), will provide the extra punch in the backfield. Evans, a sophomore tailback, rushed for 361 yards (5.4 ypc/38.3 ypg) on 64 carries last year and scored two touchdowns. Adams, a 5-7 fullback and arguably the strongest player on the team, ran for 345 yards (4.8 ypc/33.9 ypg) last year on 64 carries.

Derrick George (Allentown, PA), last season's pass reception leader, also returns, along with wide receiver Jamal Taylor (Richmond, VA). George led the Monarchs with 379 yards on 35 receptions and one touchdown. A. J. MacPherson (Charlotte, NC) starts his third year at center and sophomore Rob Walker (Fayetteville, NC) will return to the offensive line.

BECKY MORTON GETS AHEAD OF A ST. ANDREWS DEFENDER.

MORTON, STYLES, KEEGAN, MAURER LEAD WOMEN'S SOCCER

In 1993 Coach Joe Pereira talked about his Lady Monarch soccer team regrouping from two difficult 9-8-1 seasons and keeping a simple objective, "win the conference, re-establish ourselves as regional powers, and return to NCAA playoff action."

When he made this statement, Pereira didn't expect his team to turn in a 17-2-1 record (5-0 DIAC) and lose in the NCAA Division III South Region Finals, 2-1 to Trenton State University in sudden death overtime.

Methodist lost four players from last season's team, including All-American Colette Gilligan, the Lady Monarchs' third leading scorer (24 points, 6 goals). But one of the most dangerous players in Division III women's soccer, Becky Morton, returns. Morton (Jacksonville, NC) set a school scoring record last year with 68 points on 30 goals. She recorded two or more goals on 11 occasions, three goals twice, and four in the Lady Monarchs' season opener against Chowan College.

Also returning for Methodist is second leading scorer, Alvy Styles (Dublin, Ireland). Styles turned in 27 points (nine goals) in her rookie campaign.

On the defensive end, Ruth Keegan (Dublin, Ireland) returns as one of the most feared defenders in the region. Along with her toughness, Keegan gives the Lady Monarchs the added advantage of being a scoring threat, netting 10 points on five goals last year.

Jennifer Maurer (Washington, PA) will return as goalkeeper after an impressive freshman season. Maurer turned in a 16-2-1 slate with a 0.28 "goals against" average and 59 saves.

She also had 15 shutouts in 1,610 minutes of play.

Methodist will again face one of the most demanding schedules in Division III. The Lady Monarchs will head north to play in the Trenton State College Tournament, September 10-11, and host their own tournament, September 24-25, facing Ithaca College and Berry College, respectively. Methodist will also compete in the Dixie Conference, seeking a ninth conference crown.

'94 WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY OUTLOOK

The women's cross country team will be young and inexperienced, and will need some seasoning before the conference championships and regional qualifying meet. If the Monarch runners train well as expected, they will be contenders in the DIAC and in the Mason-Dixon Conference.

Leading the way will be junior Hope Kelly. Hope will be coming off her first track season for the Monarchs, after transferring from Charleston Southern. In '94 she captured the 1500 meter indoor and outdoor and the 3000 meter outdoor.

Also returning will be junior Christi Ferguson who was named to the All-Mason-Dixon team in '92 and struggled through the '93 season with injuries. Stephanie Nicholson will also return to give depth to the Monarch squad.

MEN'S SOCCER TEAM, RETAINS TOP SCORER, LOSES TWO MAJOR THREATS

The Methodist College men's soccer team will look to avenge last year's disappointing 1-0 loss to Roanoke in the NCAA Division III South Region Semifinal. The Monarchs, who finished the 1993 campaign 14-4 and 5-0 in the Dixie Conference, fielded one of the most talented teams in the country last year, winning their fifth consecutive conference title.

Coach Alan Dawson begins the '94 season without two of his top three scorers—Carson White and Bill Capobianco.

White, a midfielder who transferred to North Carolina State University, was the team's second leading scorer with 25 points on 10 goals. That mark was also good enough for fifth in the conference. White was selected Dixie Conference Rookie of the Week for the week ending October 25 and was named to the All-Conference first team.

Capobianco, a senior midfielder, was Methodist's third leading scorer and tied for ninth in the conference with 17 points (five goals). He made the All-Conference first team and the NSCCA/UMBRO All-South first team and is now a member of the Raleigh Flyers pro soccer team.

Dixie Conference Player of the Year and leading scorer, Michael Scobee (Fayetteville, NC) returns for his third season. Scobee tallied 39 points on 18 goals and was named Dixie Conference Player of the Week for the weeks ending September 20 and September 27. The junior forward was also named to the All-Conference first team. Also back for Methodist is junior defenseman, Kenneth Hoey (Dublin, Ireland). Hoey, an All-Conference and All-South performer, scored three points last year on three assists. However, he proved to be one of the toughest defensemen in the conference.

Returning in the net for the Monarchs is sophomore Justin Terranova (Ridgefield, CT). Terranova saw action in all 17 games last year, starting in 16 contests and turning in a 13-4 mark with a 0.63 goals against average. He registered 47 saves in 1,415 minutes.

MILLER WILL KEY VOLLEYBALL TEAM

The 1993 Methodist College volleyball team was only four wins shy of a second 20-win season last year. The Lady Monarchs finished the conference season in third place with the final University Invitational, the Emory University Invitational, and their opener—the one-day Methodist College Invitational.

The 1994 Lady Monarchs will be led by senior Kim Miller (Jacksonville, NC), a 1993 first team All-Dixie Conference selection for the second consecutive year and a member of the conference All-Tournament team. Rori Knight (Hyattsville, VA) and Angela Parker (Siler City, NC) will add depth as returning juniors. Sophomores Stephanie Greene (Altavista, VA) and

MEN'S CROSS COUNTRY TEAM SEEKS TO BETTER 3RD PLACE FINISH

Methodist's men's cross country team, which took 3rd place in the Dixie Conference meet a year ago, will look to a young team to better their record in '94.

Leading the way for the Monarchs will be sophomore Chris Dagget. Dagget made his running debut during the '94 track season and finished well enough to gain all-conference honors in three events. Two top freshmen expected to contribute right away are Augustus Bryant and Randel Peterson.

If the team gels in the second half of the season, the Monarchs could be in the thick of the race for the DIAC title and finish in the top half of the Mason-Dixon Conference. The Methodist squad will get the opportunity to experience some of the best competition that the East Coast, as they travel to the Salisbury Invitational in Maryland and the Malone Invitational (Canton, OH), one of the largest cross country meets in the U.S.

JEANNE AND BILL JORDAN (AT PODIUM) ANNOUNCED PLANS FOR A FUND DRIVE JUNE 13 TO MATCH THEIR $400,000 GIFT TOWARD THE FAYETTEVILLE AREA SOCCER COMPLEX.

$400,000 SOCCER MATCH FUND DRIVE EXCEEDS GOAL FOR COMPLEX

The Cumberland County $400,000 Soccer Match Fund Drive has exceeded its goal and construction will begin soon on the Fayetteville Area Soccer Complex—"Fayetteville's Field of Dreams"—at Methodist College.

In June Dr. and Mrs. Bill Jordan pledged $400,000 toward the project and the Fayetteville Area Youth Soccer Association launched a fund drive to raise another $400,000. Methodist College agreed to lease 30 acres of land to the association at no charge for construction of the complex. Gary Smith of Smith Advertising and Associates was retained to design a promotional brochure and mount a public relations campaign for the matching funds.

The Fayetteville Area Soccer Complex will be built on land in the southwest quadrant of the Methodist College campus behind Tartan Place Apartments. It will include nine soccer fields, a management/refreshment building, and two levels of paved parking. The facility will be used by Fayetteville youth soccer leagues and will be the site of at least two regional tournaments annually. It will be managed by Methodist soccer coaches Joe Pereira (women's coach) and Alan Dawson (men's coach).

The Fayetteville Area Soccer Association reports that 2,500 local youths are currently playing organized soccer. Local civic leaders have endorsed the project, noting there is a shortage of soccer fields and that youth soccer tournaments would bring thousands of visitors to Fayetteville.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL OUTLOOK—CONTINUED FROM PAGE 10

Trenessa Upchurch (Spring Lake, NC) will all see additional playing time this season. The first year players promise to add the element of surprise to an already solid base of returning players.

The Lady Monarchs will again play a very demanding conference and non-conference schedule this season. Methodist will host its own invitational tournament which will include some of the toughest teams in the South, then head to the Emory University Invitational Tournament in Atlanta and the Gallaudet University Invitational in Washington, D.C. Averett College, Ferrum College, and Greensboro College will prove to be tough conference foes.

PREPARING 10,800 MEALS A

Marriott Food Services and Methodist College will set new records this year for cafeteria, catering, and convention business.

Don Sawicki, director of Marriott's Methodist College unit, reported recently that a record 835 persons are now on a meal plan with the cafeteria, consuming about 10,800 meals a week. That figure includes 620 resident students, 90 commuting students, and 125 faculty and staff. Staff and commuters can purchase a block of 20 meals for $55.

"When I came here in 1989, we were only serving about 350 resident students," noted Sawicki, "so we've had a 77 percent increase over the last five years. We've also had a big increase in catered events and conferences."

Sawicki said rapid growth was one reason Marriott had invested large sums renovating the cafeteria. In 1990, the cafeteria was repainted, carpeted, and outfitted with new tables and light fixtures. In 1994, a new serving area with island counters was installed.

In sheer volume, the number of meals served by Sawicki and his staff of 35 is mind-boggling. "Last school year, we served 185,000 meals to students, 23,000 meals at catered events, and 20,000 meals at conferences," said Sawicki. "My catering and convention business was 35 percent of our total business, much higher than average for a college operation."

With the addition of the new serving islands, patrons can select from the entree, deli, pizza, grill, salad bar, and dessert bar areas. "We've reduced our menu cycle (rotation of entree meals) from 21 days to 15 days and added items in response to a nationwide survey," noted Sawicki.

The Marriott director feels students are generally happy with the quality of the cafeteria fare, although complaints sometimes surface in the student newspaper. He said his staff has tried to respond positively to suggestions received from student surveys and the S.G.A.'s Food Service Committee.

The new serving area has changed a few eating habits. "The number of desserts eaten has gone down," said Sawicki, "but our seconds factor (the number of second servings) has risen from 2.5 to 3.8. With more choices, I think students are eating more food and the pizza bar has proven very popular. Of course, we have a lot of athletes burning a lot of calories."

In its contract with Methodist, Marriott receives a basic annual amount from the college for serving students and staff. Resident students are currently charged $1,075 per semester for meals (board). Catered meals and conferences generate additional revenue (and profits) for both Marriott and Methodist.

Marriott's biggest challenge comes in June, when 1,500 United Methodists gather for annual conference. By bringing in tables and using the private dining rooms and the great hall (up keep a running tally of meals. The Marriott payroll is also handled by computer.

Don Sawicki first worked in food service while a student at Lander College in Greenwood, SC; Marriott had the food service contract there. A business administration major, he interviewed with Marriott and was offered a job at Methodist.

After arriving in January 1989, he spent six months training under John Perkinson. When Perkinson was transferred to UNC-Chapel Hill, Sawicki was promoted to director. He said his long-range goal with Marriott is to move into a support role—project development or marketing.

While many people associate restaurant management with long hours, Sawicki said college food services do not require that much night work. He said he has learned a lot working for Marriott and has enjoyed working at Methodist. "I've been fortunate to have excellent employees and a low rate of turnover," he said.

stairs) of the Berns Student Center, Marriott can seat 1,039 at meal time for annual conference.

Sawicki said Marriott is happy with the growth at Methodist and with his performance. But Don Sawicki is being modest. Last year his district manager gave him an "Outstanding" on his annual evaluation. He was the only unit manager in the Southeast to receive Marriott's highest rating. For Sawicki, that means a merit pay raise.

Marriott has modernized its local operation considerably in recent years. Three years ago Marriott began using a computerized access system—issuing patrons I.D. cards with bar codes that

KLEMSCHE LANDS JOB AT GATES FOUR

Four years ago Jens Klemsche left his home in Allentown, PA, to attend Methodist College for the Professional Golf Management Program.

Klemsche graduated May 22 along with 125 fellow graduates and walked into a new job as assistant Golf Pro at Gates Four Country Club. His duties include, among other things, selling golf merchandise, teaching golf, and maintaining a fleet of golf carts.

Even during this time of cutbacks and high unemployment rates, Klemsche was determined to find a "real" job and to start his career in the golf business.

The transition from college to job is sometimes a difficult one. "Some things you are not ready to do yet and sometimes you make some mistakes along the way," said Klemsche. "I am still learning."

Klemsche brings relevant golf experience to his new job from working at three different golf clubs as a PGM intern. Klemsche said internships helped him a lot. "All three internships were very different," he explained, "and mostly I learned how to work well with people. You can't learn that in the classroom. It takes exposure to a wide variety of situations."

Reflecting on his education at Methodist College, Klemsche said the courses provided as much information as the internships. The business transactions course was one of the most helpful in preparing for the working world. The weekly seminar focused on issues facing new graduates as they enter work, such as personal financial planning, ethical dilemmas, balancing work and family responsibilities, and being effective in a business environment.

"The golf classes were really good too," added Klemsche. "Mr. Hogge will work with you individually to make sure you understand the entire golf industry before you begin work."

Klemsche was fortunate in that his internships and exposure to the golf industry provided him with the appropriate contacts to find a job. Darrell Bock, former assistant director of Methodist's PGM program, now works at Gates Four as the Head Golf Professional. Mr. Bock was familiar with Jens Klemsche's work and hired him before Klemsche graduated.

Klemsche advises soon-to-be-graduates, "Start looking early, get your resume completed early, and don't be afraid to talk to people and make phone calls. When I first started looking for a job, it took me three months to get up the nerve to start calling people. It is tough to pick up the phone and start networking, but once you do it a few times it gets easier."

Klemsche noted it is important to know what is expected of you as a new employee—"It is important to know where your responsibilities start and end, and if you are not clear on that you need to ask."

Gates Four is owned by one of the biggest corporations in Fayetteville. Klemsche says he is pleased to be working there and sees it as a great opportunity to build skills for his long-term goal, which includes managing an entire golf operation and completing a Master of Business Administration degree.

PGM PROGRAM ENROLLS 204 STUDENTS

Methodist College's professional golf management program continues to grow. With a current enrollment of 204 students, it is by far the largest degree program on campus.

PGM students are actually business administration majors with a concentration in professional golf management. The PGM concentration consists of 20 semester hours, including three co-op courses and workshops covering everything from club repair to merchandising to the use of computers in golf instruction.

Since 1990, Methodist has produced a total of 83 PGM students, many of whom now work as assistant golf pros at some of the state's finest country clubs.

The following is a partial list of Methodist PGM graduates now working in central North Carolina: Steve Mitchell, Pinehurst Country Club No. 7; Jens Klemsche, Gates Four Golf & Country Club; Kristina Cavanaugh, MacGregor Downs Country Club (Cary); Rob Pilewski, Mid Pines Resort (Southern Pines); Mike Riddle & Eric Barto, The Legacy (Southern Pines); Jimmy Hanlin, Seven Lakes (Pinehurst); Dale Briggs, Woodlake Country Club (Vass); Jason Cherry, Devil's Ridge (Cary).

Methodist's program is currently being reviewed for endorsement by the Professional Golfers Association. Jerry Hogge, program director, said the PGA will likely endorse one program in each region of the country. Methodist is one of only six schools in the U.S. currently offering this type of program.

Ground will be broken later this year for the Richard L. Player, Sr. Golf and Tennis Learning Center which will include classrooms, workshops, pro shops, and offices for the professional golf and tennis staffs. The building will be located near the first tee of the college golf course.

Over the last six years, Jerry Hogge and his staff have supervised the construction of a driving range, practice green, and nine-hole golf course on the Methodist campus. Holes six and seven were relocated this summer.

A Gift-in-Kind donation of a car, truck, or van (in good condition) that is no longer needed would help Methodist College keep its budget in balance and provide the donor a unique way to help others. # THE GREATEST GIFT SCHOLARSHIP: WHAT ALUMNI SHOULD KNOW

The Greatest Gift Scholarship is true to its name. It is an opportunity for graduates of Methodist College to give another student a chance. We get more calls than we can count each year from alumni with questions about the program, so we will attempt to answer some of the most asked here.

What exactly IS a Greatest Gift Scholarship?

It is a scholarship given by you (AT NO COST TO YOU) to a potential Methodist College student that you have encouraged and recruited to attend Methodist.

Are there lots of forms to fill out?

No. It is a one page form with the instructions on the flip side.

How can I get the form?

Simply call the Alumni Office at 910-630-7167 between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday and request a Greatest Gift form. Requests received before 2:00 p.m. will be mailed out the same day. Forms are not available through any other office at the college.

How many of these do I get?

Alumni may give ONE Greatest Gift

per year. For example, if you give the scholarship in the academic year 94-95, you cannot give another one until that school year has closed in May '95. If you do not give one in the fall of '94, you may give one in time for a student entering for spring term '95.

Now wait. If I give my Greatest Gift to a student, that means I can't give another one til that student graduates?

NO! You get one per YEAR. You can have as many as four students, all benefiting from your generosity, attending MC at the same time!

What does this cost me?

Not a dime. Well, it does cost you a stamp to mail in the form and the cost of a long distance phone call if you live out of town. But, that's a small price for what your Greatest Gift can mean to a new student for MC.

How much does the student get?

Depending on financial need, a commuter student may receive up to $1,000 toward the year's tuition and a resident student as much as $1,500. There is also a minimum award regardless of need.

Can I give this to my own child?

Sure. Just request the form, fill out and send it in.

Can a student get more than one of these?

NO. A student may only have one Greatest Gift.

Does the student have to maintain a certain GPA?

Yes. All MC Scholarships have GPA requirements. The Greatest Gift requires a 1.75 average at the end of the freshman year and a 2.00 each year thereafter. A student may carry your Greatest Gift all four years as long as the GPA is maintained.

Remember. This program is designed to help recruit new students who might not otherwise have chosen to attend Methodist unless approached by an alumnus/ae. It is not a discount to students who have already selected Methodist.

These are just some of the most frequently asked questions. If you have others, please don't hesitate to give us a call. We'll be happy to answer them for you.
