about This Issue

a Bannen Year

Methodist College carried many banners in 1998 and it carried them well. In all areas — but particularly in enrollment, campus improvements, programs, and planning — 1998 was indeed A Banner Year For Methodist College! This is a fitting theme for our first Annual Report.

For Methodist

Methodist College does not discriminate on the basis of age, race, sex, national or ethnic origin, religious denomination, or disabilities for otherwise qualified persons in the administration of its admission, educational policies, scholarships, loan programs, athletics, employment, or any other college—sponsored or advertised programs.

Methodist College is related by faith to the North Carolina Annual Conference, Southeastern Jurisdiction, The United Methodist Church. It is an independent corporation rather than an agency of the Conference and is responsible for its own debts and obligations.

We have a Special

n the field of private higher education, Methodist College is unique. As our motto, "Truth and Virtue," suggests, the spiritual growth of our students is very important to us. In our mission statement, we say that Methodist College nurtures moral values and ethical decision-making.

Today more than ever, this part of our mission poses a major challenge. In an increasingly secular world, many individuals are self-absorbed and indifferent to the needs of others. Our challenge at Methodist is to lead students in the other direction. We require our students to take two religion courses as part of their liberal arts core. We have an Honor Code. Policies for staff and students clearly define what is morally acceptable and what is not. A full-time campus minister seeks to help students and staff grow spiritually. We encourage staff and students to be good role models and to do mission and volunteer work whenever possible.

I believe it is precisely because we aim to be different that Methodist College is growing. I believe the vast majority of our staff, students, and alumni are committed to doing what is right and honorable. When you offer a high quality liberal arts education in a Christian setting, you can't lose! When our graduates go forth, we can rest assured they will do good things and work hard to build a better world.

As this annual report will clearly show, 1998 was indeed a "banner year" for Methodist College. Great strides were made in the areas of enrollment, campus improvements, programs, and planning. I am grateful for the hard work and dedication of our staff and students. I am thankful for the generous support we have received from trustees, alumni and friends.

On behalf of the entire Methodist College family, I offer my heartfelt thanks to all who have embraced our mission, With your continued support and God's help, I look forward to even greater accomplishments in the future.

Sincerely yours,
M. Ellon Hendricks

r. M. Elton Hendricks will complete his sixteenth year as president of Methodist College this September.

In a recent interview for this "Annual Report" he reflected

In a recent interview for this "Annual Report," he reflected with pride upon the progress made at Methodist during 1998—what made it "a banner year" for Methodist College.

"I think our three most important achievements were the construction of Clark Hall and the library annex, record enrollment, and completion of the "Expanding the Vision" campaign with over $8.7 million raised," he said.

Advances in academics, student life, athletics and other areas are detailed in subsequent sections of this report.

The following are highlights of the interview with President Hendricks.

Question: If someone gave Methodist an unrestricted gift of $10 million, how would you recommend that it be used: to pay off debt? to fund scholarships? to grow the endowment?

Answer: Our debt (about $9 million) is at a very low interest rate. Part would go to financial aid and part to grow the endowment. We would want to improve technology and equipment on the campus. I might use part of it for new physical facilities. We need a new science building, a theater, and a physical fitness center.

Question: If College Centre (office park) develops as planned and the Methodist College Development Corporation is able to donate large amounts of lease revenues to the college, how do you feel these should be used?

Answer: It will be a number of years before this happens. I think the exact use of these funds will have to be decided in the future by the administration and trustees.

Question: Is there a possibility the college will offer graduate programs in the future?

Answer: We'll continue to look at this, but graduate programs are expensive and would have to be self-supporting. But if someone were to endow a graduate program, I'd have the tractors running tomorrow.

Question: How close are we to building another residence hall?

Answer: We've visited residence halls at other colleges, and our Strategic Plan recommends adding 150 residential spaces. But the trustees will decide how and when we do this.

Question: What do you envision for the undeveloped southeastern part of the campus, near the Fayetteville Area Soccer Complex?

Answer: This is a wooded area which we may want to have as greenspace. It looks like the city's hiking and biking trail along the Cape Fear River will likely end there. The trustees have been asked to give a 25-year easement for this purpose.

Question: The enrollment at Methodist has doubled during your presidency. How large should the college become?

Answer: With 1,300 day students and 700 living on campus, we're still a small college. I expect us to continue to grow, but I'm committed to the small college atmosphere, and I don't think 2,000 students would change that.

Question: It has said that the original trustees chose "Methodist College" as a temporary name. Under what circumstances would you favor a name change for the college?

CHIEVEMENTS of 1998

- Margaret and Walter Clark Hall, which opened in January, is now home to the Reeves School of Business. It contains classrooms, offices, a computer lab and the 140-seat Yarborough Auditorium.
- The annex to Davis Memorial Library, due for completion in May, will include a new entrance and circulation desk, new space for the reference section and computer-based research materials, more work space and office space for the library staff, a custom-designed special collections room, and a new electronic automation system for cataloguing and circulation. In addition, the exterior features a striking semicircular entrance plaza.
- Enrollment for the 1998 summer and fall semesters reached record-high levels. The fall figure of 1,972—1,332 in the day program and 640 in the Evening College—was the largest in the history of the college.
- The four-year "Expanding the Vision" campaign concluded with gifts and pledges of $8.7 million, exceeding the original $6.5 million goal by more than $2.2 million.

Answer: The name of the college will be determined by the trustees. I believe the trustees would not object to having the Duke University experience, when Trinity College became Duke University on the basis of a very large gift. For an adequate gift from a reputable source, I believe the trustees would allow someone to name the college. I think there's a good chance that twenty-five years from now, Methodist College will be known as something else. I know the Admissions Office thinks "Methodist College" is a burden, but we continue to have record enrollment. I'm sure there are some who choose us because of our church relationship. I'm not anxious to change the name, but I'm willing to do it for the right reason.

Question: As you look back at your fifteen and a half years as president of Methodist College, what pleases you the most or gives you the most pride?

Answer: I've enjoyed my relationship with the faculty, the staff, the students, and the people of Cumberland County. I could not imagine having spent the last fifteen years in a more exciting way. I'm pleased that the college has a better image and reputation and more visibility. I'm pleased that our enrollment has grown and that our financial situation and facilities have improved.

Question: If you could make one wish for Methodist College and have it granted, what would it be?

Answer: I wish we had the scholarship resources so that everyone who wanted to attend Methodist College could do so. There are many people who would benefit from a Methodist College education and would like that experience, but they don't have the resources and we don't have the scholarship aid for them.

- Operate the college in a fiscally responsible manner
- Lead the college so as to improve the quality of the programs at the college
- Lead the college in a way that its visibilty and reputation are improved
- Nurture and support a positive relationship between the college and the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church
- Conduct a program for his own personal, intellectual, and professional growth
- Assist the Board of Trustees in establishing appropriate long-range plans and lead the college in maintaining and regularly updating such plans that deal with the fiscal status, academic programs, and the physical facilities of the college he Academic Affairs area realized a myriad of major advances during 1998. These advances included a dedication of a new academic building, book signings by Methodist College professors, graduation of the first physician assistants, and accreditation of several degree programs. This has been a year to be proud.

Margaret and Walter Clark Hall, which serves as a wonderful facility for our students and faculty, was completed in December. It now houses the Reeves School of Business. The library annex now under construction is scheduled for completion in May 1999. This new facility will double the library's present capacity and will provide many new opportunities for students and faculty.

During 1998, five Methodist College faculty members were recognized for the publication of books. At a book signing event co-sponsored by Methodist College and Barnes and Noble, Dr. Richard Walsh, Dr. Mary Wheeling, Dr. JoAnn Parkerson, Dr. Lloyd Bailey, and Dr. Norman Wilson were featured. This speaks well of our faculty.

At the May 1998 commencement, the Physician Assistant Program graduated its first class of four. This program has been welcomed by the medical community in southeastern North Carolina and will undoubtedly increase in the years ahead. The program continues to grow, and enrollment of future PA candidates noticeably increases everyday.

The Methodist College Teacher Education Program received reaffirmation of its accreditation by the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction and the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education. The Physician Assistant Program received full accreditation by the Commission on Accreditation on Allied Health Education Programs, an accrediting body of the American Medical Association of America. The Professional Golf Management Program was also recognized for its excellence by receiving accreditation from the Professional Golfers Association. The Sports Medicine program is currently preparing documents for submission for the accreditation process in year 2000. Work continued throughout 1998 in preparation of the reaffirmation of accreditation visit in April 1999 by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, which will evaluate the excellence of the entire institution.

The Academic Development Center has added a professional advisor to its staff, assigned to the Professional Golf Management Program. The advisor teaches two sections of IDS and advises the freshmen enrolled in PGM. A second advisor is proposed for the 1999-2000 academic year and will have the responsibilities for teaching two IDS sections and advising those freshmen who are undecided about their major field.

An Honors Program was developed under the leadership of Dr. Richard Walsh. The Methodist College Honors Program has a two-fold vision: (1) to enhance students' liberal arts education by immersing them in The Great Books, as a supplement to their core, and (2) to correlate this classical education with their majors. The students not only receive more personal, specialized training, but also receive excellent preparation both for graduate school and the marketplace.

- Continue work toward accreditation of the Sports Medicine Program.
- Continue to assist students in achieving academic success and in progressing toward graduation by providing needed support through the faculty advising system, the Academic and Social Success Program, IDS classes, and the Writing Center.
- Provide additional electronic research services in the new annex to Davis Memorial Library and incorporate the Teaching Materials Center into the main library.
- Continue to challenge and assist student athletes in setting academic priorities.

MY MOTTO as I live and learn, is dig and be dug in return.

ast year-1998-was full of both challenges and a ccomplishments for the Department of Student Life. Our achievements have come in many areas, but the one thing they have in common is that all have resulted in improved service to students.

Participation by students, faculty and staff in community service increased in 1998. More students are participating in community service both on and off campus than ever before, and more student organizations are getting involved in such efforts as well. Campus-wide community service projects, such as Show You Care Day and the woodcutting project, averaged 120 participants each.

The residence life program is thriving as well. To give students more ownership in their residential community, the Residence Hall Association (RHA) was formed. RHA hit the campus by storm, winning numerous state and regional awards in its first year of existence as well as contributing to an improved quality of life on campus. A Community Resource Desk was created in order to expand the types of services as well as hours those services are offered to residential students. Through the Community Resource Desk, students can check out games, VCRs, Sony Play Stations, and various cleaning supplies and they can purchase snacks from a convenient location in Weaver Hall. The Department of Residence Life also developed a Code of Ethics in 1998 and designed training sessions on ethics for paraprofessional and professional staff.

Career Services was able to expand its services with the purchase of a new computerized career assessment program. A Career Services Advisory Committee – comprised of faculty and staff – was created to brainstorm ways of improving services for students. The number of freshmen visiting the Career Center to set up files increased by 62% this year.

An additional physician assistant was added to the Health Services staff this year, which has improved delivery of services. New slides and videos for educational programming were purchased. We've also expanded the types of lab testing we're able to do "in house."

The Public Safety Department counts among its accomplishments expansion of community policing efforts through the establishment of a bike patrol, partnerships developed with various student organizations, and crime prevention classes given to all first-year students. Public Safety equipment and computer technology was also advanced, resulting in improved efficiency and customer service. Training experiences for officers were encouraged, and two officers gained the qualifications needed to serve as Law Enforcement Instructors. Two officers also completed the requirements to become Field Training Officers.

The Cheerleading and Dance programs continue to maintain national prominence. The Cheerleading ships. The team also earned a No. 2 ranking and a paid bid for the 1999 National Cheerleading Championships. The Dance Team earned a bid to compete in the Universal Dance Association College Dance Team National Championships. They finished 14th of 32 teams in the competition, which included teams from all NCAA divisions.

Participation continues to increase in campus recreation and intramural events. Four additional outdoor adventure trips were planned in 1998, resulting in an average of two per month. Outdoor adventure trips ranged from snow skiing to white water rafting to canoeing to camping to mountain climbing. Improvements were also made in the "tin gym" facility. The number and variety of other student activities were also expanded. An average of at least one activity per week was offered, ranging from comedians to movies to concerts to hypnotists and other novelty acts.

Counseling and Psychological Services experienced an increase in the number of students utilizing their services. The peer counselors program was expanded and currently twenty students serve as peer counselors. A relationship series – Battle of the Sexes – was implemented, through which students discuss various issues related to relationships with members of the opposite sex. Through the Alcohol and Other Drug Task Force the alcohol/other drug policies were revised to include more of an emphasis on education and prevention programs.

The Religious Life program continues to provide opportunities for students, faculty and staff to engage in worship, study, fellowship, prayer and service. A Fall Break Mission Trip was sent to Currituck, NC, to assist in Hurricane Bonnie relief efforts. The Christian LYFE Council, the student leadership team in campus ministry, was reorganized to maximize student involvement. In addition, a weekly faculty/staff prayer breakfast was implemented.

ethodist College completed construction of the Walter & Margaret Clark Hall, an academic classroom facility with eight classrooms, ten offices, and a 150 seat auditorium. The total square footage is 10,500.

A brick sidewalk to the lower athletic complex was completed which will provide students with a safe walkway. Two new asphalt parking lots (with approximately 100 spaces) will provide excellent parking for the tennis, golf, softball, baseball, football practice and intramural programs.

Thirty rooms on the third floor of Cumberland Hall were completely refurbished with new furniture. The patios of Cumberland Hall, Sanford Hall, Garber Hall and Weaver Hall were furnished with new plants.

Internet cable was installed in all academic buildings and residence halls, which will bring direct Internet access to the residential students, faculty and staff.

A new entrance at Stacy Weaver Drive designed to serve the College Centre (office park) is under construction and scheduled to be completed in the Spring 1999.

The Business Office was restructured to better serve students by providing more privacy and comfort.

The college was able to get a bond modification which reduced our interest rate, and will save the college $115,000 over the next five years.

Methodist College had an excellent 1997-1998 audit with a surplus in the current operating funds.

Methodist's operating budget for 1998-99 is $20.4 million

BUSINESS QOALS for 1999

- · Complete construction of the library annex in the Spring of 1999.
- · Develop and construct new residence facilities for 150 students over the next three years.
- Completely renovate 49 rooms including the second floor of Cumberland Hall and the first floor of Weaver Hall. This will also include new furniture.
- Complete construction of the Stacy Weaver Drive entrance into College Centre.
- Install back rests for the seats in the football stadium, along with steps and handrails.
- Plan and implement a new driveway system to allow some of the current streets to become walkways.

he Expanding the Vision Campaign concluded in 1998, securing more than $7.7 million in gifts and pledges plus another $1 million from other sources. The original goal was $6.55 million, which was exceeded by $2.2 million!

The College's endowment continues to grow, but there is a pressing need to secure more gifts via wills, bequests, trusts and other types of charitable estate gifts. It is essential that the College ease the burden of being tuition-dependent and growing our endowment is one way to achieve this.

The Office of Institutional Advancement strives to find ways to increase awareness of the many fine things found at Methodist College. Materials in the works are:

- an endowed scholarship guide designed to increase scholarship awareness and giving
- · attractive, user friendly and up-to-date Web pages
- · a general information brochure
- a targeted brochure describing ways one can invest in the College

We continue to enhance our quarterly magazine, Methodist College Today, which reaches more than 15,000 alumni and friends four times a year; press releases; social events; advertising; The Pride (student newspaper); and the Carillon (yearbook).

Internally, this office continued to work closely with the Athletic Department to begin the Athletic Hall of Fame and to increase membership in the Monarch Booster Club. This is but one example of our partnerships with organizations and clubs all over campus. Another is the new Student Alumni Association which we recently formed to educate current students about the importance of becoming loyal alumni.

MMEDIATE COALS for 1999

- Increase alumni giving from 17 percent to 20 percent by the year 2000
- Enhance the College's presence on the World Wide Web
- Improve communication between the College and the donors of endowed scholarships
- Begin and effectively market a planned giving program to increase the College's endowment
- Expand the number of students actively participating in student publications

The success of the Advancement Office is due, in large part, to the many volunteers who commit their time and resources to our efforts. Thanks to all who supported us in 1998 and we look forward to another fantastic year.

FROM what we get, we can make a living; what we give, however, makes a life.

LUMNI SSOCIATION

nother busy year has come and gone for the Methodist College Alumni Association Board of Directors. In order to become more informed about the workings of the College and to better respond to your questions, the Board in-

ness Affairs and Admissions to address the group. Not only were their presentations informative, but as Board members posed questions, our understanding grew. All in all, this is definitely a positive experience and one we plan to continue.

Attendance at the May 1998 Raleigh/ Triangle Area Alumni Pig Pickin' doubled the previous year. This shows us the interest is growing for more events in more locations. Dates for this year's events will be announced soon.

The MC Affinity Card Program is a growing asset to the Alumni Association. We encourage you to participate in this extra way to support our alma mater. We are planning to explore additional services to make available to you in the coming year.

The 20 x 2000 initiative is an effort to reach and sustain 20% alumni support by the year 2000. This year, we have moved a little closer to that goal reaching 17%. We can reach 20% if everyone participates to the best of their ability. Just keep in mind that your support helps with everything from scholarships to electricity.

A new organization on campus is working to make active alumni of current students. The Student Alumni Association, which began last fall, is already making an impact. Impromtu Spirit Stick contests, surprise appearances by Monroe the Monarch and other activities are getting students involved all over campus.

Homecoming '98 certainly had the "Golden Touch" and was a great success. Mark your calendars now for October 29-30, 1999. While class reunions will be in full swing for those graduation years ending in '4' and '9', everyone is welcome. Don't miss this chance to see who's "Still Crazy After All These Years"!

Monroe II has become an important fixture around campus!

METHODIST COLLEGE ALUMNI SURVEY

A survey of alumni who attended Methodist College between 1987 and 1996 was conducted during the Fall of 1997 and found a high percentage of recent alumni satisfied with their Methodist College experience. As shown in the graph below, almost 90% of the respondents would recommend Methodist to others. The small classes and personal attention available at Methodist were both high on the list of reasons for recommending the College. The survey also indicated a high satisfaction with the level of instruction they received and their choice of majors.

Over 30 different categories were listed for their majors. The most frequent major was Business Administration with 22%, followed by Education (11%), Sociology and Accounting. A sizable 71% said they either intended to continue their education or had continued. Of that percentage, 35% were currently enrolled and 12% had already completed a graduate degree.

According to the survey, many of these recent alumni have found jobs related to their majors. But, whether a person was in a job directly related to his or her major had little effect on their satisfaction with their job, compared to 43% of those in jobs somewhat related and 31% of those very satisfied with jobs not related to their major

With a response rate of 27%, the return was substantially higher than earlier alumni surveys at Methodist College.

n 1998, the Monarch athletic program was again represented by many successful ambassadors worthy of the Methodist College tradition in the sports world. Chad Collins, Brett Carman and Brion McLaughin swept the top three places, earning All-America status, as coach Steve Conley's men's golf team ran away with its eighth NCAA-III national championship in nine years. The Monarchs also captured their ninth DIAC title in 10 years.

Tracey Gage earned runner-up honors as Coach Kim Kincer's women's golf unit claimed its second NCAA-II/III national crown in three seasons. Gage, Stacey Smith and Tanice Ni-Ison were all named All-Americans. Collins and Gage were both named NCAA-III national players of the year.

Coach Tom Austin's baseball squad advanced to the NCAA-III national tournament for the 15th time in 17 years, earning South regional runner-up status and placing 10th in the final national poll. Pitcher T.R. Plank became Methodist's 30th All-American in the program's 30-year history. The Monarchs also collected their 12th Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship as Austin earned his 600th victory in just his 19th campaign as the Methodist mentor.

Nick Saltmarsh and Scott Jenkin netted All-America honors, at number one doubles, as the men's tennis team finished second in the conference and was represented in national play for the second time in three years. Meanwhile, the women's squad claimed the league title for the second consecutive season.

Jody McIntyre represented the women's track and field program at the national meet in the javelin, earning All-America honors. Pole vaulter Bradley Hicks represented the men's track and field team in national competition after finishing the regular season ranked number one in the country.

In the fall, Coach Jennifer Jacobsen's cross country squad added to her track program's spring successes by running to second place in the DIAC for the fourth straight year.

Coach DeeDee Jarman's women's basketball squad, operating with no seniors, finished second in the DIAC for the regular season and in the conference tournament. Only a two-point overtime loss in the DIAC tournament's championship game kept the program from earning its first-ever trip to postseason play.

Strong safety Trayfer Monroe was selected to two All-America teams as Coach Jim Sypult's seventh football unit posted a 7-3 slate, the 10-year-old program's second-best ever. MC took second in the new Atlantic Central Football Conference.

ball Conference.

Methodist added to its already-successful administrative programs a drug testing and education program, a booster club and a hall of fame. The first hall of fame inductees were: Gene Clayton, Ann Davidson, Karen Grant, Rob Pilewski, Paul Sanderford, the late Bruce Shelley, and Anne Thorpe.

Goals for 1999 include obtaining more conference and national championships and additional All-Americans while building on the successes of 1998. The Monarchs finished second for the DIAC President's Cup all-sports trophy in 1998, but plan to bring it home for the ninth time in 12 years in 1999. MC tied for 21st of 373 NCAA Division III schools for the 1998 Sears Directors' Cup national all-sports trophy, but is looking for its second top 20 finish in four years this spring.

Keljin Adams, '97 receives The Rudy Award from Bob McEvoy, Methodist College Athletic Director, at halftine of the Homecoming Game. Given by the College Football Chronicle, the award recognized Adams for his unselfish play as a Monarch fullback during the 1996 football season.

he year 1998 was a banner year for enrollment at Methodist College. Enrollment continued to grow with a record registration of 1,972 students in the day and evening programs for the fall semester. The increased visibility of Methodist has enabled the college to become more popular with prospective students. It's an exciting time at Methodist as we continue to see our message reach a larger audience.

New student enrollment continued to grow, particularly in the areas of freshmen and residential students.

The freshmen student population not only increased in quantity, but it improved in quality as well. The chart below indicates that 102 of our enrolled freshmen were Incentive Scholars. This is an academic scholarship program which rewards students for outstanding academic achievement. These incentive scholars represented 26% of our freshmen class. The average GPA/SAT for these students is 3.57/ 1102.

The college remains committed to a strong financial aid program. In 1998, Methodist awarded over 4.5 million dollars of institutional money to its students. This financial aid program has enabled many students from a wide variety of socioeconomic backgrounds to attend Methodist.

The perception that a private institution is not affordable is a significant obstacle for many private colleges and universities. Methodist College recognizes these concerns and is proactive in the financial aid process. The college offers numerous institutional grants and scholarships that are targeted at quality students who have demonstrated financial need.

The Office of Enrollment Services would like to thank the many alumni, United Methodist friends, college faculty, staff, and coaches who played such a major role in making 1998 a year of record enrollment for Methodist College. Your willingness to share your "MC Story" with prospective students and their families is extremely beneficial. Let's continue to work together to ensure a bright enrollment future at Methodist College.

he Church Relations Office has established three goals. Each goal stands alone and yet all three are integrated. The goals are:

To enhance the visibility of Methodist College within the North Carolina Annual Conference.

During 1998, eight of the twelve District Superintendents invited me to make presentations at a pastors' meetings. Three-fourths of the ministers in the NC Annual Conference were visited either through small groups or individually. Each visit afforded the college an opportunity to offer services. These meetings are excellent opportunities for college staff to personally interact with the ministers.

Approximately 125 individual visits were made. The President preached eleven times; choral groups provided nineteen performances; and several dramatizations were given. Both choral and drama groups performed on campus as well as at various functions. There were two meetings each of Clergy and Laity Friends with a total of 140 persons in attendance.

mended have become part of the data base. Eleven communications were sent to the Clergy and Laity Friends during 1998. Five very active lay persons contributed three days of volunteer services last summer to paint rooms in Garber Hall.

To increase the number of Methodist youth attending Methodist College.

During the fall of 1998, eighty new students who indicated their religious preference as United Methodist were enrolled. Seventy-three ministers awarded Pastor's Certificates to senior graduates for $1000 each. The Campus Minister's Office enters all incoming Methodist Freshmen in a computer base in order to encourage them to attend chapel, Bible studies, and other religious activities. Within the past fall and early spring semesters, six new students have expressed an interest in pre-ministerial education. One new religion major was referred by a trustee in October and enrolled at the January 1999 semester.

To identify possible supporters and friends of the college from persons known to the ministers who have been blessed with the resources that could enhance the mission of Methodist College.

Ministers are requested to share the names of lay persons who might be interested in becoming involved in college activities. These names are given to the Institutional Advancement Office. Eight couples were invited to join the Laity Friends Association. Six of those accepted the invitation and three attended the fall meeting. Four of last year's members opted to retain their membership. The Institutional Advancement Office keeps accurate records of all persons recommended and attempts to place those who agree to serve on an appropriate committee. Approximately 57 of those recom-

a personal letter, which included literature about the college, was sent to all participants who range from freshmen to senior status in high school. A total of 385 letters were written to the delegates from across the conference. More than 75 adult volunteers were approached in writing and asked to encourage their youth to consider Methodist College for their higher education experience.

The Church Relations Office has been very active in the development and operation of the North Carolina Annual Conference meeting in June for years. Hours have been given unselfishly to assist the Conference Planning Committee in making arrangements, in delivering services, and in executing the functions of the conference. The Church Relations Office has effectively met its goals.

TRATEGIC LAN OR 2000-2005

ONE'S mind stretched by a new idea, never regains its original dimensions.

ast year, President Hendricks appointed a Strategic Concepts Committee to develop a new five-year plan for Methodist College.

In October, a draft was presented to faculty and staff for comment and suggestions. The Board of Trustees discussed the plan at two special meetings in November and January and approved "A Strategic Plan for 2000-2005" Feb. 18, 1999.

Part I, An Executive Summary, describes the most probable environment in which the college will operate over the next five years, then lists some strengths, weaknesses, and challenges that will need to be addressed in the future.

This section notes that the college-age population in the U. S. and North Carolina will increase, that many high school graduates will not be adequately prepared for college, that continued improvements in technology (e.g. distant learning) may prove costly, and that the issues of a name change and graduate programs need to be discussed.

Four strengths are listed: the college's concern with the moral and spiritual development of students, established educational programs that blend liberal arts and professional preparation, an ability to recruit new students, and improved physical facilities.

Five weaknesses are noted: some programs and facilities are not effective when compared to "our new competition," the college is heavily enrollment-dependent, financial aid discounting continues to be high, the college operates with little margin for financial error, and the original campus is aging.

The major conclusion of Part I is this: To reach the potential of service, reputation, and effectiveness already clearly present, Methodist College must discover new financial resources and insure that its physical facilities and other resources are appropriate for its mission.

Part II, Recommendations, includes five general recommendations followed by twenty-seven specific recommendations: eight in academics, three in student life, twelve in physical facilities, and four in financial resources.

The general recommendations are:

 Recruit and retain more academically prepared and financially able students through expanded and improved academic programs, including adequate technology, improved recruiting and retention activities and more appropriate physical facilities.

• Increase enrollment by the year 2005, to be distributed as follows: Residential, 850 or more; Commuting, 700; Evening, 600.

• Reverse the decline in new commuting student enrollment.

Study the advisability of changing the name of Methodist College to Methodist University or some other named university.

• Evaluate the advisability and usefulness of developing a residential area for Methodist College faculty immediately south of the Kinwood-by-the-River subdivision on the college's land located between the baseball field and the Cape Fear River.

In the area of Academics, it is recommended that the college:

• Increase the SAT scores of entering freshmen by 10 points each year and the high school grade point average by 0.1 point each.

• Increase average faculty salaries at Methodist College to the 60th percentile among small, independent colleges in North Carolina.

 Develop an international component to the educational experience for all graduates.

• Implement a plan to increase the number of students majoring in the humanities and other traditional liberal arts by more effective external and internal recruiting for these programs.

• Study the possibility of offering graduate programs.

Evaluate the potential of distant learning for Methodist College, and define and integrate appropriate distant learning models into the Methodist College program.

• Encourage each major to define the relationship of the major to the liberal arts and to integrate the liberal arts perspective into each major.

• Evaluate the appropriateness of the curriculum to determine if there are majors or programs that need to be added or deleted.

In Student Life, it is recommended that the college:

• Deepen the institutional commitment to ethical and spiritual growth and seek creative and innovative ways to implement this part of the college mission.

• Improve the counseling and support programs available to all Methodist College students to provide academic and personal support for an increasingly diverse population to improve the retention and graduation rates.

Develop a more effective placement program.

With regard to Physical Facilities, it is recommended that the college:
• Build residence halls to accommodate at least 150 additional students.

- Build an annex to the Science Building. Estimated cost: $3 million.
- In the existing Science Building, convert some of the laboratories to classrooms, offices, and study spaces. Upgrade the remaining laboratories. The cost of conversion and upgrades is estimated at $600,000.
- Construct an appropriate wellness-fitness center at a cost between $1 million and $2.5 million.
- Construct a new facility for the theatre program at a cost of approximately $1.5 million.
- Install irrigation systems for the campus (possibly using water from the Cape Fear River). Estimated Cost: $500,000
- Complete the renovation of the four older residence halls. Estimated Cost: $450,000.
- Repave most campus roads and parking lots. Estimated Cost:
 $500,000
- Replace the 48 residential spaces in the south residential complex that will be lost over the next few years as the College Centre office park complex grows.
- Create a permanent security building when the current building is
- replaced by a commercial facility within the next few years.
- Develop an appropriate use of the old boiler plant, possibly as a studio for the communications program.
- Maintain our facilities more effectively, paying particular attention to the exterior of buildings.

With regard to Financial Resources, it is recommended that the college:

- Increase the endowment to $20 million.
- Increase the annual support of Methodist College to $600,000 per year by 2005.
- Implement a much improved program in planned giving.
- Implement a policy to increase the contingency fund budgeted each year.

Part III, Methodist College at the Beginning of the Third Millennium, is the heart of the Strategic Plan. This 23-page section discusses the college's mission, future operating environment, "The Good, the Bad, and the Possible," "Financial Resources," and "Facilities."

Part IV, Appendices, contains detailed analyses of particular situations, current data, supporting documents, and conclusions. The principal conclusions contained in Part IV are:

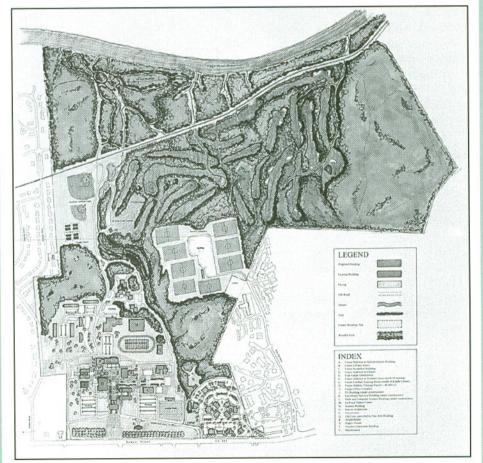

- •The question now facing Methodist College is not whether it will exist, but how good it will become.
- Methodist College tuition increases since 1983 did not curtail enrollment growth because the college was implementing innovative program development and facility improvement during this time.

- Limiting the growth of the financial aid discount while avoiding a negative impact on enrollment is one of the major challenges and dangers facing Methodist College.
- Until a significant opportunity presents itself to receive major resources, it seems unnecessary and unwise to consider a change in the name of the college.
- •The issue of whether Methodist should offer graduate programs deserves serious study over the period of this plan.
- Seven future physical needs are identified: a Communications Department Laboratory, irrigation system, repaving of campus roads and parking lots, residence hall renovation, a Science Building annex, a sports medicine program facility, a Theatre and Drama Department facility.

Editor's Note: Bound copies of the "Strategic Plan for 2000-2005" are available from the President's Office.
